

MANUFACTURING ALREADY A BIG ASSET TO THE REGION

Figures Show 150 Industrial Plants; Over 3,000 Employed; $3,000,000 Payroll

Manufacturing is one of Colorado's important assets at the present time.

One hundred and fifty industrial plants today give employment to more than 3,000 workers, with an annual payroll in excess of $3,000,000.

A substantial increase in manufacturing within the last few years has followed the introduction of several desirable plants, and there are indications that industrial activity can be increased along lines that will not be in conflict with other features which make Colorado Springs distinctive as a city of homes and a resort of international fame.

Cheap power, cheap fuel, good transportation facilities, certain raw materials, a central location, labor of the best class, and living conditions that are not to be found in any other city in the United States, are some of the reasons that appeal to the manufacturer in Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak Region.

"Increase Home Production by Demanding Goods Made in the Pikes Peak Region." This is the important thing at the present time. General observance of the slogan will nearly double the payroll with a corresponding increase in population and prosperity.

Colorado Springs' first duty is to know its own industries, to learn of its own resources and possibilities and to encourage those industries already located in the community.

These are the reasons for "Home Industry Week," inaugurated and successfully carried out by the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of its committee on trade and industries. Quietly and steadily the manufacturing activity of this region has increased, but there has been little general recognition of this phase of the city's life. To familiarize the people of the community with the merchants and manufacturers in closer touch, and to stimulate a demand for home-made goods, "Home Industry Week" was conceived and carried out.

Three weeks of hard work on the part of the committee on trade and industries and of the various sub-committees has resulted in a splendid showing of the things that are manufactured in the Pikes Peak region. Merchants have responded liberally to the call for window space and manufacturers have taken hold of the proposition with enthusiasm.

Displays Educational.
Displays that are educational, displays of products, displays of active operations, displays that demonstrate the best of workmanship and the finest of products, all of these are to be seen in an examination of the windows on Telson street and Pikes Peak avenue. Practically every line is represented.

RESULT OF DENVER
ELECTION UNKNOWN

Woman Drops Dead While

Voting—Hint at Corruption

Already Made

DENVER, May 20.—At a late hour tonight, and from very meager reports received, local newspapers make contradictory statements as to the probable victorious candidates for commissions in today's election.

It is believed that James F. Markley, present auditor, seems to be the choice for commissioner of public property. John B. Hunter has the lead for commissioner of improvements. L. C. Greenlee is believed to be the leading candidate for commissioner of finance, and Hamilton W. Armstrong and Alexander Nesbitt are running close for commissioner of public safety.

No forecast as to the result of commissioner of social welfare balloting is given.

Mayor Henry J. Arnold, candidate for commissioner of finance, is receiving the small end of the votes from precincts which have reported.

At the present time it seems that the charter amendment providing a commission to devise ways and means of tunneling Long's Peak for the benefit of railroads, has carried.

An amendment authorizing a $250,000 bond issue to construct municipal railway terminals on Market street is brought to have suffered defeat, while an amendment giving a franchise to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad to construct terminals on Market street is declared passed by some authorities and defeated by others.

The amendment to provide a bond issue for a viaduct over Colfax avenue probably has passed. No figures are hazarded on the vote on other amendments providing the creation of a policeman's pension fund, civil service commission and health commission.

THREE DEAD IN WRECK

HINTON, W. Va., May 20.—Three persons are known to have been killed and a number injured early tonight, when a mixed train on the Sewell branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad was swept down a steep mountain side by a landslide.

CHURCHES TRY INFLUENCE

Charge Made at Conference of Presbyterians Held in Atlanta

Atlanta, Ga., May 20.—Charges that the federal council of churches of Christ in America, composed of some 30 churches and denominational organizations, is attempting to influence national politics, were made before the Southern assembly today by Dr. T. M. Lowry, of Memphis, and the Rev. R. H. Hall, of Galveston. Discussion of the matter was postponed until tomorrow morning.

Home missions formed the subject of discussion at tonight's session of the Pan-Presbyterian pentecost. Secretary of State Bryan was warmly praised by the Rev. J. Knox McClurkin, Pittsburgh, Pa., for his attitude toward toleration.

"Thank God," he exclaimed, "we have a secretary of state who in his social life invites the highest ambassadors of the world to get on the water wagon with him."

Would Bar Uniforms.
ATLANTA, Ga., May 20.—By a unanimous vote the United assembly of the Presbyterian church adopted a resolution today intended to debar from schools supported by the government all denominational badges or uniforms. The resolution, which is to be presented to the president of the United States, was introduced by Professor J. A. Wilson, occupying the chair of biblical history of the Pittsburgh Theological seminary, Pittsburgh, Pa. The resolution says:

"Resolved, That the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church position the president of the United States to direct that no badge or uniform distinctive of any denomination be permitted in any school supported by the funds of the general government."

These important actions by the assembly preceded the close of a day which perhaps was fraught with matters of more significance to the Presbyterian church as a whole, than has any other since the convocation of the Pan-Presbyterian pentecost.

That the action of the Northern assembly in referring to a special committee the matter of negotiations with the Union Theological seminary of New York with instructions to report back to the assembly in 1914, cleared the atmosphere of a threatened storm of considerable proportions is agreed by the commissioners.

Missionary Reports.
Another matter of prime importance acted upon by the Northern assembly was the adoption of recommendations contained in the report of the judicial commission on the home missionary board matter. Investigation of the board was made by a subcommittee of the executive committee upon representations that the board has spent too much for supervisory purposes in proportion to the amount spent for home mission work.

The report as adopted stated that:

Balkan States to Ask Big Indemnity

Claim $400,000,000 Necessary to Recompense Losses in Recent War

PARIS, May 20.—The Balkan minister of finance, T. Theodoroff, who is to represent Bulgaria at the financial conference in Paris in connection with the Balkan settlements, said today that the Balkan states would ask for a war indemnity of 2,000,000,000 francs ($300,000,000) of which Bulgaria's share would be 1,000,000,000 francs, merely for reimbursement of purely military expenditures and the cost of pensions for those incapacitated and the families of the killed.

As a foreign loan, the finance minister said that Bulgaria had no intention of launching a big operating plan involving 300,000,000 francs as had been reported, but would content herself with 300,000,000 francs for present needs, contracting other loans as necessities arise.

Agreement Reached.
The agreement for vote on June 25 was reached only after it became apparent that those opposed to confirmation at this time were prepared to take advantage of the senate rules and keep talking as long as the senate remained in session. No charges ever have been filed against Harris and since a voting arrangement has been made, he probably will be approved for the Democrats have plenty of votes to confirm his nomination.

In the two-hour executive session tonight the senate confirmed the nominations of several score postmasters and other officials, including George W. Guthrie as ambassador to Germany, John Purroy Mitchell as collector of the port of New York, C. M. Saltzgeber as commissioner of pensions, and Albert Lee Thurman as solicitor of the department of commerce.

The nominations of William H. Barry as collector of customs at Philadelphia, and that of Franklin P. Colcock as collector at Beaufort, S. C., to which Republican objection has been raised, were passed over.

CHARITABLE BODIES TO ACCEPT M'LEAN'S PLAN

Expect to Prevent Overlapping of Work—Committee Named to Investigate

As a result of resolutions adopted some time ago by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, a meeting of the social agencies of Colorado Springs was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce when it was decided to form a central council along the lines as were represented by Francis M. McLean, general secretary of the American Association of Societies for Organizing Charity, on his visit to this city in February.

It is the purpose of the central council to include the various charitable and philanthropic agencies of the city. By working together each organization will have a definite knowledge of the work which is being done by the other societies and in this way there will be no overlapping of work. The organizations will also be brought in closer touch with each other and this is expected to result in an intermingling of ideas and encouraging the kind of work most suited to the city's problems.

The meeting yesterday was called to order by H. C. Hall, chairman of the committee on municipal affairs of the Chamber of Commerce, and Leonard E. Curtis was appointed temporary chairman. The plans recommended by Mr. McLean were adopted. A committee consisting of five members was appointed and will report at the next meeting which will be held in the near future.

The following organizations were represented by delegates at the meeting: W. C. A. T. M. C. A. Bethel hospital, Glenside sanatorium, St. Francis hospital, Parents-Teachers association, Day Nursery, St. Vincent de Paul society, Visiting Nurses association, Associated charities, Sunnyrest sanatorium.

MASS MEETING PROTEST HELD IN WASHINGTON

Governor Hatfield Replies to Attacks Made Upon Him for Conduct

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Resolutions protesting against the conditions prevailing in the mining industry of West Virginia, and urging the senate committee on education and labor speedily to report favorably the Kerr resolution, were adopted at a mass meeting held here tonight under the auspices of the Central Labor union. The conditions existing in West Virginia were referred to by the speakers as "indescribable."

Those who spoke were Representative Buchanan of Illinois, "Mother" Jones, John B. Connelley, editor of a labor union organ, and Frank Phelan and William Fairley, both organizers of the United Mine Workers of America.

Secretary Wilson of the department of labor was present, but did not speak.

Miners Deprived of Rights.
Representative Buchanan declared that the miners of West Virginia had been denied the rights of citizens guaranteed to them by the constitution and laws of that state, and said it was time the American people should make some effort to correct such conditions. Mr. Fairley declared that "no man or woman, no pen or painter could describe accurately the horrors perpetrated on the miners of West Virginia."

"Mother" Jones said that the miners in West Virginia revolted against a "condition unknown in any other state of the Union." She referred to conditions that prevailed in Mexico under former President Diaz and of blood revolutions in other parts of the world and declared "We can give them cards and spades in West Virginia." She said that she had been charged by Senator Goff with being a notorious character. "I thank him," she added. "I am. I intend to put such oppressors as Senator Goff out of business before I get through. Senator Goff represents the robbing class."

Hatfield Answers Attacks.
CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 20.—Governor Hatfield issued another statement tonight in connection with the coal strike troubles of the state in which he attacked all persons opposing his attitude with regard to the maintenance of martial law. He stated that he was convinced "there is an organized movement to create strife in the West Virginia coal fields by persons who have ulterior motives."

Governor Hatfield declared tonight that he intended to ask the aid of the

SUBCOMMITTEES ARE BUSY

Senators Townsend and Simmons Engage in Heated Colloquy

WASHINGTON, May 20.—That Republican senators plan to insist upon amendments to nearly every item in the Underwood tariff bill when it comes before the senate for general discussion, became evident today when Senator Townsend, former chairman of the finance committee, declared that every member of the minority would have amendments to propose.

Senator Townsend said the senate knew of no concerted effort to be made purposely to delay the passage of the bill, but said he was assured that the minority would offer many amendments to the schedules. Senator Simmons also announced that many roll calls would be demanded.

Townsend-Simmons Colloquy.
In the debate today on the matter of making public briefs filed by manufacturers with the finance subcommittee, Senator Townsend, of Michigan, engaged in a colloquy with Senator Simmons, relative to the alleged threats of manufacturers to reduce wages and the counter-intention of the administration, through the bureau of corporations, to investigate concerns which might reduce wages following tariff reductions.

"Is the senator aware," asked Senator Townsend, "of any conditions existing which will make possible this proposed coercion on the part of the government as indicated by the secretary of commerce?"

"Remarks of the secretary relating to investigations of manufacturers," replied Senator Simmons, "have grown out of threats constantly made by the protected interests that they would reduce wages unless they are permitted to retain the excessive tariff rates."

Asks for Specific Cases.
"Can the senator give any specific cases where such threats have been made?" Senator Townsend continued.

"I can refer the senator to the hearings before the ways and means committee where statements were repeatedly made by manufacturers that if duties were reduced they would be forced to and would cut wages."

"I also would refer him to the briefs filed with the finance committee which are full of such statements."

"Does the senator continue as a threat, the statement of a manufacturer that certain changes would force

Automobilists Are Haled Into Court

22 Will Appear This Morning. Police to Stop Violations Traffic Rules

An order by Chief of Police Burns, issued yesterday morning, was followed by wholesale arrests of automobilists throughout the day, and by night 22 had been ordered to appear in police court this morning to answer for violations of the traffic ordinance. Some of the arrests were for speeding, others were for not having numbers on the machines or not displaying them properly, one was for running an automobile under another man's number, and still others were for not having the right side of the automobile to the curb line when it was left standing.

Although a few of the arrests were made by patrolmen, most of them were made by a special officer, who was detailed for this work during the day. As a result, a stream of offenders kept coming in at the station all day to see Chief Burns, but they made no headway in trying to explain matters to him, for the order that they must report in court this morning held good.

The auto owners ordered into court this morning are: Mrs. Dewhaver, Colorado Springs; Charles T. Hays, Dr. J. E. McConnell, E. K. Howard, J. Dawson Hawkins, W. H. Lawrence, J. W. Atkinson, the Anders family (two counts); W. W. Price, C. S. Wolfe, H. B. Baker, R. C. Allen, Dr. E. N. Wilson, William Hamlin, Jr., Dr. S. N. Pauley, J. E. Rice, Dr. C. F. Stough, A. Schneiderhahn, Clarence Mortenson and T. J. Brown. Arrests for similar violations of the ordinance will continue, for the ordinance will be rigidly enforced.

Other Rules.
The order yesterday embraces other features besides violations of the traffic ordinance. It was issued in typewritten form in a new loose-leaf book, labeled "Rules and Orders of the Police Department," which has just been

U. S. BEGINS SUIT
VS. 'SHOE TRUST'

CONTROL MACHINERY IS ALLEGED

Judge Gives Prosecution an Unrestricted Hand in Handling Case

BOSTON, May 20.—An unrestricted probe into the acts of the United Shoe Machinery company, the alleged shoe machinery trust, will be allowed the government as a result of a ruling by Judge William L. Putnam at the opening of the suit to dissolve incorporation in the United States started today.

Attorney Charles F. Thorne, Jr., of counsel for the defense, requested the court to restrict the government to proof of a plan on the part of the defendants to monopolize the shoe machinery business of the country, if such a plan never existed, he said, the government would lose its case as the acts complained of were done in pursuance of a plan of monopoly.

Judge Reprimands Counsel.
"It is pretty dangerous for the court to restrict counsel in a case of this character," said Judge Putnam, who is presiding with Judge Frederic Deane and Judge Arthur L. Brown. "It is dangerous for us to intimate anything just now," he added, "but I would suggest that instead of taking up the time of the court, counsel argue on facts so far as they relate to acts of the companies, operated as incidental to the shoe machinery business."

Of the 11 defendant companies, nine were created as incidental to the shoe machinery business, conducted by the United Shoe Machinery company and its holding company, the United Shoe Machinery corporation.

Secured Control of Business.
Through these 11 companies the 23 individual defendants acquired, from the date of the formation of the United Shoe Machinery company in 1898 to the time the dissolution suit was brought in 1911, the business of 200,000,000 pairs of shoes, the business of individual partnerships and corporations, which the government charges were formerly in competition with the defendants.

"By acquiring the business of these individuals, partnerships and corporations," said William S. Greig, special assistant to Attorney General McReynolds, in opening the prosecution, "secured control of 98 per cent of the shoe machinery business which relates to the fastening of the soles to the uppers on boots and shoes."

Could Lease Project.
The government, Attorney Greig said, makes no objection to the company leasing its entire project, but claims that "tying" clauses of these leases compel the shoe manufacturers

Rev. A. W. Moore Resigns AS PASTOR THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Rev. Adna W. Moore, who has been pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city for the last eight and one-half years, will deliver his resignation tonight at a meeting of the congregation at the church.

Moore has been called for by the Second Congregational church of Birmingham, Ala. It is not known what action will be taken on the resignation, but it is expected it will take effect at once, and Mr. Moore will leave Colorado Springs within a week or two. His family will remain in this city for the summer, however.

Mr. Moore came to Colorado Springs as pastor of the local church in November, 1904. He was for a time in Paso county, Oregon, where he was

Grand Jury Cases ARE SET FOR TRIAL

The first of the cases following indictments by the recent grand jury probably will come up in the district court next Tuesday, the three against Attorney E. K. Robinson having been set for trial that morning by Judge Little when he filed the docket for the May term of the district court yesterday morning. The date was not fixed definitely because of the absence from the city of Attorney S. H. Kinsley, who will represent Robinson. One of the cases against Robinson is for an alleged attempt to influence a referee in a case, and the other two are for alleged attempts to influence a deputy sheriff and a constable in the selection of juries.

Of the other grand jury cases, that of Frank Collins, charged with embezzling, was set for June 5, and the two against Mrs. L. Trosell, charged with running a disorderly house and with living off the earnings of a brothel woman, were set for June 6. Both Collins and Mrs. Trosell are represented by Attorney W. D. Lombard.

The case of C. N. Cox, charged with gambling, was set for June 10, and as he was not in court yesterday, the clerk was instructed to notify him to appear tomorrow.

O. S. Sends Greetings to New Executive, Urging Continuation of Relations

HAVANA, May 20.—Amid scenes of intense patriotic enthusiasm, General Mario M. Menocal was inaugurated at noon today as third president of the Cuban republic. The ceremony took place in the historic palace of the Spanish captains-general in Havana and was attended by a brilliant assembly, including a special American mission.

Special fetes were held tonight when all the city was brilliantly illuminated. The principal streets, lined with triumphal arches, the buildings draped with the national colors, were thronged. There were superb electrical displays in the Prado and Central parks.

General Menocal was escorted to the palace by a squadron of rurales and cavalry and was met at the entrance by the retiring president, General Jose Manuel Gomez, and the members of his cabinet. They proceeded to the red salon where the oath was administered to the new president by the chief justice.

President Menocal and General Gomez then appeared on the balcony of the palace where they were greeted by the thousands of an immense gathering in the Plaza de Armas.

A battery of artillery facing the palace, the Cuban naval vessels in the harbor and all the fortresses fired a national salute. Immediately afterward General Gomez and his family left the palace in carriages, proceeding to the ex-president's country estate at Calafate.

After his inauguration President Menocal received the American special mission. The American minister, Arthur M. Reaume, officiating as chief of the mission, congratulated President Menocal in behalf of President Wilson. Secretary Malone read a message of felicitation from the president of the United States, to which President Menocal responded in terms of the highest appreciation for the good wishes extended to himself and the Cuban people by President Wilson.

SHOW FILMS HERE AGAIN TOMORROW

3,700 People Saw Movies of the Region Yesterday—Show at Manitou Today

The Pikes Peak region moving pictures will be exhibited again tomorrow at the Opera house. Arrangements for the additional days' exhibit display were made last night by the advertising committee when it was found that the unfavorable weather conditions had prevented large numbers from seeing the films and in response to many requests that another opportunity be given for the people to see the pictures.

Today the films will be shown at the Maubert theater in Manitou, through the courtesy of Manager H. J. Bass. Both afternoon and evening exhibitions will be given, the doors opening at 7 o'clock this afternoon. Many people have taken a great interest in the pictures in view of the fact that many of the best scenes are in the vicinity of Manitou, and it is expected that the theater will be filled to capacity throughout the afternoon and evening.

Three thousand seven hundred people saw the pictures during the day. From 10 o'clock in the morning, for twelve hours, a steady stream of people poured into the Opera house, until at night when the final show was made it was found that the first day's business was almost equalled. Had it not been for the forbidden water at times during the afternoon and evening, it is believed that the picture would have been at least 500 spectators.

A. W. Sowers of the Sowers Motion Picture Service, who made the films, was in the city during the day and was the recipient of many compliments upon the splendid photography and the general excellence of the films. The pictures are particularly noticeable, not only because of the selection of subjects but for the life and action with which they are characterized from first to last.

Some of the merchants of the city yesterday gave to their employees a treat in presenting them with tickets to the motion pictures. Manager L. J. Newsome of the Emporium extended this courtesy to all his employees, stating that he believed the pictures would give new ideas as to the attractiveness of the Pikes Peak Region.

ALIEN NEGOTIATIONS NOW SHIFT TO TOKIO

Japanese Trying to Pacify
Controversy

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Interest in the negotiations between the United States and Japan over the California land legislation has shifted from Washington to Tokio. The American government having delivered its reply to the Japanese protest is awaiting the next step of Japan and the situation has not been mentioned at the cabinet meeting.

In official circles it is regarded as significant of the desire of the administration to continue the Japanese government of its purpose to do everything possible to maintain the best of relations that American-Chinese friendship can permit.

Blanchard has called upon the foreign minister at Tokio to advise him of the determination of the United States to find a friendly and satisfactory solution of the present issue. Secretary Bryan already verbally has given such assurance to Viscount Chinda.

Japan's Next Move?

It is believed here that the visit to California of the Japanese statesmen, Hara and Hattori, representing both of the great political parties of Japan, will be of benefit as they will be able to enlighten people at home as to the conditions in California affecting Japanese residents. Other influences are working in the same direction and the Japanese-American society at Tokio is sending one of its trusted members to this country, charged with personal messages to prominent Americans calculated to relieve friction between the two countries.

Meanwhile, feeling secure in the belief that nothing more can be done by them until the next word is had from Japan, the president and Secretary Bryan apparently have discharged their minds from the consideration of the subject.

May Resort to Courts.

It is expected that the forthcoming resolution to Secretary Bryan will be strongly argumentative and calculated to result in the conduct of the future negotiations on a strictly legal basis. As it is understood that the state department is looking to the Japanese government or some Japanese citizen to test the law by recourse to the United States courts it may be significant of the drawing of another line that the Japanese are believed to be reluctant to begin such a movement.

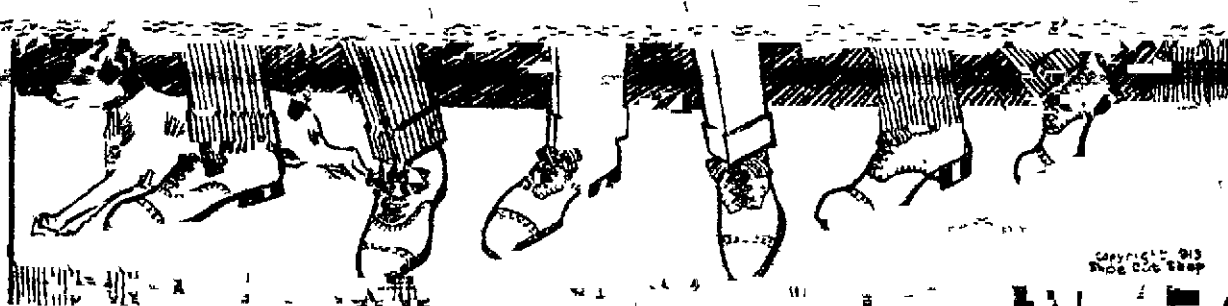

In his protest of May 9 to the state department the Japanese ambassador is understood to have made it perfectly clear that Japan finding it impossible to deal directly with the state department, was relying entirely upon the federal government to insure what he believes to be fair treatment for its subjects.

Probably that conception will be extended to cover the legal test of the California land law, though the ordinary procedure in such cases would be to allow a Japanese subject threatened with expropriation of his lands to begin action in application for an injunction. Meanwhile it is expected that several days will elapse before the Japanese rejoinder is received in view of the fact that 10 days were taken for the preparation and delivery of the American reply to the original protests.

Try to Pacify Public Opinion.

TOKIO, May 20.—The news that the California alien land ownership bill had been signed by Governor Johnson was received here with regret although it had been discounted in official and nonofficial circles. It was hoped up to the last moment, however, that Washington's intervention would prove successful. The newspapers published extra editions with the announcement that the bill had been signed.

The efforts of the Japanese govern-

RAILROAD MEN ASK SAFETY APPLIANCES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—More and better safety appliances are the subjects of a resolution introduced today at the convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The resolution contemplates an effort to obtain from congress more comprehensive federal laws on this subject through the interstate commerce commission. One improvement especially desired is a coupler that will operate from both sides of the car, it being claimed that trainmen are subjected to great risk at times in operating the couplers now in use.

A more rigid federal law regulating the number of hours a railroad man may be compelled to work is the purpose of another resolution. The present law compels a company to give a man 16 hours layoff after each shift of 16 hours but it is asserted that men often are kept at work for much longer periods, on the pretense that their train has been idle a considerable part of the time and actually moving only 16 hours. The railroad men would have the law limit their services to 16 hours continuous duty regardless of all other conditions except those brought about by a wreck.

Another movement set on foot today is intended to bring about legislation placing a minimum of $100 upon fines for violation of the full crew law.

Its seventeenth amendment to the constitution providing for the direct election of United States senators, a member of the committee on the subject of the amendment of the constitution introduced in congress 37 years ago.

The date of the signing of the proclamation will be agreed upon with Representative Tucker of Missouri, who was chairman of the house committee which reported the resolution submitted to the state legislatures for reference during the last congress.

Although the resolution for the popular election of senators was introduced in the house in 1828 such a measure did not reach the senate until 1869. Then the proposition met with senatorial disaster for the next 52 years until February, 1912.

The amendment which will be officially announced will be the second one so promulgated this year, the first being that providing for the income tax which was announced by Secretary Knox in the last days of the Taft administration. Until then the constitution had not been amended since the famous fifteenth amendment in the conclusion of the Civil war.

HARVESTER WITNESSES HOLD MASS MEETING

CHICAGO, May 20.—What Edwin P. Grosvenor, representing the government, called a "witnesses' mass meeting" was uncovered in the Harvester antitrust hearing before a special examiner today. The discovery came in the cross-examination of J. Passagore, an implement dealer of Smithsburg, Md. According to the government report of late he has found difficulty in persuading dealers to tell what percentage of the implements they handle are made by the International Harvester company.

"Has not someone had a talk with you about what you would testify here today?" Grosvenor asked Passagore. "No, not exactly," replied Passagore. "What do you mean by that?"

"Well, not to me personally. There was a meeting of us witnesses this morning and one of the Harvester attorneys, T. J. Doyle of Lincoln, Neb., talked to us."

"Where was this meeting?" "About 20 of us—all that are here in court—got together at the Great Northern hotel."

Doyle the witness said explained to them why they had been called to Chicago and explained the nature of the case against the company.

"Something was said to you about percentages of sales of international product wasn't there?" pursued Grosvenor.

"Yes, something was said about that."

Similar interrogations were put to each witness who followed Passagore on the stand but they answered either that nothing was said about percentages or that they did not recall what was said.

ASK ANOTHER JURY PANEL TO TRY I. W. W. LEADERS

PATERSON N. J., May 20.—Several thousand strikers assembled both at the opening and closing time today at the entrance to the Price silk mill, where the hands returned to work yesterday, responding with jeers when the officers arrested 20 persons.

After examining the list of jurors sworn in to try William D. Haywood, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlo Tresca and Patrick Quinlan on charges of inciting to riot Harry Morelli, their counsel, declared that in his opinion it would be impossible to get a fair trial and tomorrow will ask for another panel.

Barred from holding meetings in halls in Paterson, the strikers went to Haledon this afternoon where Haywood and Frederick Boyd are held and denounced the Paterson police.

SCOT TOWN IN FEAR OF SUFFRAGETTE THREATS

ST ANDREWS, Scotland, May 20.—This little town is almost in a state of siege as the result of threats uttered by the militant suffragettes that they will destroy the putting greens and thus render play impossible in the world's amateur golf championship, which is to be completed for here next week.

The most intense excitement prevails among the townspeople who depend largely for their prosperity upon the golf links, while the members of the Royal and Ancient Golf clubs also are extremely anxious. They and the citizens have organized a vigilance committee, whose members, together with 5,000 volunteers, will guard the greens night and day.

The general anxiety becomes keener every day as it is thought that the militant suffragettes may refrain from delivering their attack until the last moment, when it would be impossible to repair the damage.

As it is understood that the women will use vitriol to destroy the greens all the sentries stationed there have provided themselves with large umbrellas to prevent the corrosive fluid being thrown into their faces.

The River Tay routes, by which the links are reached from Dundee, a hotbed of suffragettes, are closely guarded and to make assurance doubly sure a powerful searchlight has been mounted on the railroad bridge, the light from which sweeps the links, the roads and the river nightly.

IMPORTANT TOPICS TO BE DISCUSSED

State Bar, at Meeting Here, Will Take Up Procedure and Direct Legislation

The annual address at the meeting of the Colorado Bar association in this city, July 10, 11 and 12, will be delivered by Professor Roscoe Pound of the Harvard law school, and one of the leading United States authorities on procedural reforms. The subject of his address will be "Judicial Justice," and will be delivered July 10.

The association is greatly interested in direct legislation and the first day of the meeting will be taken up by a general discussion of this subject. Every state which has a form of direct legislation will be asked to send a representative to the meeting here. It has not yet been decided whether the meeting will be held at the Anglers hotel or the Broadmoor casino.

message of congratulation and good wishes from President Wilson and the American government was carried to President Menocal by the special mission representing the United States at the inauguration of the Cuban executive today. This was delivered by Dudley Field Malone, third assistant secretary of state, who, with American Minister Beaupre and Brigadier General Enoch H. Crowder, judge advocate general of the army, composed the mission.

In felicitating the new executive upon the orderly and peaceful transfer of power from one party to another, the address of the mission laid stress upon the intention of the United States to support "firm and just government against all elements of disorder," and reiterated President Wilson's declaration of policy toward all American nations.

Address of Mission.

The address said: "We bring you a cordial message of goodwill and encouragement in the duties which now fall to you, and we wish to express the hearty sympathy of the American people with every element of good government in Cuba. It is the wish and purpose of the president of the United States and of the government which we represent to support firm and just government as against all elements of disorder."

"As was stated by President Wilson in March last in his declaration of the policy that would be followed by the United States in its relations with sister republics in the western hemisphere, one of the chief objects of his administration will be to cultivate their friendship, to deserve their confidence and to promote in every proper and honorable way the interests which are common to the respective countries."

"The president earnestly desires the most cordial understanding and cooperation between the United States and Cuba. He believes that such cooperation is possible only when supported at every turn by just government based upon law, upon the consent of the governed and upon public conscience. He will seek to make these principles and a firm opposition to all arbitrary or forcible force the basis of our mutual intercourse."

Americans Friends of Peace.

"The American people are the friends of peace and can have no sympathy with those who seek to seize the power of government in order to advance their personal ambitions. There can be no lasting peace in such circumstances. As friends who prefer the interests of peace and honor, the protection of private rights and respect for the restraints of constitutional provisions, mutual respect must continue to be the foundation of the friendship which exists between us."

"The United States has nothing to seek in Cuba except the lasting interests of the people, the security of popular government and the development of such personal and commercial relations between Cuba and the United States as will redound to the profit and advantage of both and interfere with the rights and liberties of neither."

"Our message is one of cordial friendship and felicitation. May Cuba, under your guidance, rise yet another stage upon her progress towards settled peace, contentment and prosperity."

Harmony Between Merchant and Buyer Important in "Trade at Home" Campaign

Much has been said in the past, we hear a great deal today, and still more is yet to be considered concerning the ever-important subject of "Home Trading," says Frank F. Wolff of the Wolff Shoe company.

"This all-absorbing question should have the serious attention not alone of the consumer, but of the merchant as well. May we ask why this attention, disloyalty to the community of the man or woman who trades away from home? Is there any reason for so doing?"

"In taking up the first question, we conclude that the local merchant has the best opportunity of getting the business of those residing in his respective community. This trade he is entitled to and deserves if he maintains a high standard of quality in his merchandise, at fair margins of profit. If he does this he is enabled to more than meet the out-of-town merchants' prices, give better quality and more prompt and satisfactory service."

"He must, therefore, inform that the customer feels that he is not satisfied with the local merchant's goods or he is mistaken in the quality he thinks he gets out of town. The local merchant has the purchasing power and carries his stock right here. Customers visit his shop and have the supreme advantage of seeing and examining closely the article desired and seeing it belittled. Why then should he purchase elsewhere?"

"Taking up the second question, I cannot imagine any citizen so unfaithful or disloyal to his home city or community that he should prefer to buy in any other than the city in which he resides, buy from total strangers, rather than his friends and neighbors, unless in his estimation he has a sufficient reason for it. All things being equal, no man will do otherwise than give his home merchant the preference, but all things are not equal."

"The local dealer must maintain quality, not fictitious, but real. He must sell at fair prices and merchandise his wares. All this is not unreasonable then but essential. Selling at fair prices means selling at fair profits to himself and deliver to his patron one hundred cents worth of merchandise."

to use all or none of the machines grouped together by the company."

Mr. Gregg said the government contended that the defendants violated the Sherman antitrust act, first, by the organization of the United Shoe Machinery company; second, by the so-called "tying" clauses in the leases, third, by the acquisition of the 55 competing companies; fourth, by a scheme to monopolize the shoe machinery business; and fifth, by the organization of the United Shoe Machinery corporation.

The government, in consequence, asked that the alleged contract and combinations be adjudged unlawful, and that the court adjudge the United Shoe Machinery corporation and the United Shoe Machinery company of New Jersey each a combination in restraint of trade and decree that each of them be dissolved.

Deny All Charges.

Attorney Choate, in opening the defense, denied that the leases compelled manufacturers to use the company machines exclusively if they used one of them. He explained that welt and stitching machines which attach the soles to the uppers, and lasting machines, are the principal machinery in the shoe industry. A number of auxiliary machines work in connection with these. The auxiliary machines, he explained, were furnished free of charge with the principal machines, and for the reason the company in the "tying" clause of the leases limited the use of its auxiliary machines to the principal machine, with which they are grouped.

By an initial payment it was possible, he said, for the shoe manufacturers to free themselves from the restrictions of the "tying" clauses. "The system," Mr. Choate said, enabled the shoe manufacturers to start business with only a small outlay of capital, while the United Shoe Machinery company kept the machines in repair. During the 12 years the company has been in business, Mr. Choate said, not a penny has been added in the royalties required for the use of the machines. In view of the fact that all the company's machines were covered by patents, the restricted use of them, he said, was not only permissible, but customary.

Wood Choppers Convicted for Trying to Blackmail Pres. Wilson Last Year

NEWARK, N. J., May 20.—Seely Davenport and Jacob Dunn, mountain wood choppers of Wharton, N. J., were convicted by a federal grand jury tonight of sending threatening letters to Woodrow Wilson while he was president-elect. In the case of Davenport the jury recommended mercy. The communications mailed to Mr. Wilson were received by his secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, in May and November of last year, and demanded money in sums of $1,000 and $5,000 under penalty of death.

GOOD DENTISTRY

When we do your dental work we sell you not only the best quality of material but service and workmanship of the highest grade, thus insuring strength and accuracy, beauty, efficiency and durability.

Our modern methods and equipment together with a large volume of business enables us to make artificial teeth, or plates, gold and porcelain crowns, bridge work, gold inlays, fillings and all other dental work at prices one-fourth to one-third less than other dentists charge.

We make a specialty of the treatment of Pyorrhea, tighten loose teeth and make the gums firm and healthy. Pyorrhea is first treated by special bleeding gums; as the disease progresses the teeth become loose and sore and move from their proper positions.

If Pyorrhea is neglected it means the loss of all the teeth. Our treatment is painless, a sure cure and is inexpensive. Of course, the longer Pyorrhea is neglected the more difficult the treatment becomes and the greater the cost will be.

Our Maxillary Method of replacing teeth without the use of plates is the most comfortable and natural looking substitute for the natural teeth. We perfected this system eight years ago and have pleased hundreds of patients for whom we have done this work. It costs no more than the ordinary dentist charges for ordinary bridge work.

We offer you not only the highest quality of dental work, but do it in the painless way that has won the good will of our large number of patients. No matter what dental work you need, from the most complicated or difficult case to a simple filling, we guarantee you will be pleased with the reasonable charge and the quality of our work.

Call today and we will examine your teeth (without charge) and tell you what work you need and what our charges would be to put your teeth in good condition.

Remember, each day you delay adds extra trouble and expense.

U. S. SOON MAY MAKE OWN ARMOR PLATE

Can Save Millions Annually
on Battleships, Believes
Secretary Daniels

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Plans for manufacturing armor plate for American warships in the plants owned and operated by the government are being considered by the navy department. Secretary Daniels declared today that the United States paid too much for its armor plate, that there was no such thing as competition between private concerns and that a government factory seemed to be the only solution of the problem. He added that he would not disturb the contracts let just before the close of the Taft administration by Secretary Meyer because no better bids could be expected than those already accepted.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona, who has been making a fight in the senate for an investigation of armor plate manufacturers, recently charged that the government paid enormous profits to private plants, the contract prices in some instances being about double what the cost warranted.

Is Studying Problem

The secretary said that he was still studying the problem, and that he had not decided exactly what plan he would follow in securing full information on the subject, whether it would be by the appointment of a technical board or otherwise.

Contracts for class armor plate for the dreadnaught Pennsylvania were let at $44 a ton. This was $4 a ton more than the government has ever paid before, according to statements by Senator Ashurst on the floor of the senate a few days ago. The senator charged at that time that the only three companies bidding for the contracts had conferred and submitted virtually identical estimates. He declared that experts had told him the United States could make similar armor for $25 a ton and thereby save more than a million and a half dollars on the Pennsylvania contract alone.

DIVORCE SUIT HALTS, DEFENDANT DEAD

DENVER, May 20.—When the divorce suit of Mrs. Theodore C. Thompson, wife of a retired grocer, was called in the district court today, the attorney for the defendant announced that there would be no defense. His client had committed suicide during the night. His body had just been found by the attorney's clerk who had gone to the Thompson home to make sure of his presence in court.

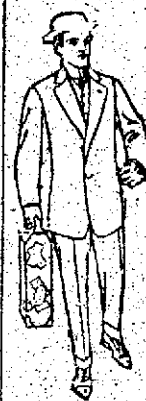

The grocer had made careful preparation for his ending. He connected up an extension electric lamp to a large mirror so that the light would fall brightly on the right side of his face, before sending a heavy caliber bullet through his head.

while efficient work has been done. The number of spiritual evangelists and field secretaries has been reduced and competent home missionaries put in the field to work without supervision, except by 2 Presbyterians and synodical home missionary committees. Action by the Southern Assembly in Indianapolis by an overwhelming vote in support of a statement of belief, as submitted by the special committee, appointed at the general assembly of last year, is regarded as one of the triumphs of the present gathering. Some minor changes were made but reports remain pretty in essence. This statement will be circulated as a tract among members of the church.

purchased. A blank sheet also is inserted in the book and as soon as the members of the department have read the order carefully they are required to sign a statement that they have done so. The order in regard to the traffic ordinance is that the policemen must watch both automobiles and motorcycles carefully for speeding, for not having numbers or not displaying them properly, for not having lights burning at the proper time, and for not backing the right side of the machine to the curb when it is left standing. The rule in regard to turning corners, now in force at the intersection of Pike's Peak avenue and Tejon street, will be enforced throughout the business district.

The order also reads that the officers must watch the violations of the following ordinances: prohibiting spitting on the sidewalk; prohibiting the bunching of tourists tied on the streets; and regulating boys and peddling house solicitors. The order also says that as the repertoire is in operation vagrants and loiterers are not to be tolerated from town, but are to be brought to the station.

Display Regulations

Except in the commission district goods may not be displayed on the sidewalks at a distance of more than 34 inches from the line of the business house. No solicitors are to be allowed at the depots, and the hotel solicitors near the stations are to be kept in the stands designated for them. In the business district hotel and rooming house solicitors must not work nearer than 20 feet from an intersection or street, and on the sidewalks must keep within ten feet of the curb line or two feet of the building line.

Other orders will follow the first one in the new book at the police department, but nothing has been given out as to their nature. Chief Burns said yesterday, however, that the ordinance in regard to washing sidewalks, which goes into effect June 1, will be rigidly enforced. According to this ordinance, which is operative during June, July, August and September, all sidewalks in the downtown district must be washed before 5:30 o'clock in the morning. The district over which it operates extends from Platte avenue to Vermillo avenue, and from Cascade avenue to Nevada avenue, taking in both sides of the boundary streets. This district also extends along Huerfano street to the viaduct.

Most of the cases coming up in police court yesterday morning were those of violators of the traffic ordinance who had been arrested Monday. Mrs. Cora Naele, proprietor of the New York rooming house, was fined $10 for speeding, and K. K. Scott and E. M. Light, $5 each for similar offenses. J. L. Warren, for having his machine facing the wrong way when left standing, was fined $1, and Roy Cary was reprimanded for speeding. H. A. Seay was fined $1 for spitting on the sidewalk, but the sentence was suspended.

SCHWAB CONTINUES RELATION OF STORY

Admits Competition Illinois
Concern in Production
of Rails

NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles M. Schwab resumed the witness stand today for further cross-examination by government counsel in the suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation.

Before being questioned by Judge Jacob M. Dickinson, the government attorney, he asked permission to correct the testimony he had given yesterday to the effect that the Illinois Steel company and the Carnegie Steel companies, subsidiaries of the so-called trust were competitors before they were absorbed. He said today that the Illinois company manufactured "only small parts" and was not in reality a competitor of the Carnegie company.

The existence of competition between these two concerns is one of the important points in the government's case against the corporation.

Competition in Rails

Returning to the question of the alleged competition between the Illinois and Carnegie companies, Mr. Schwab conceded that while there was no competition between the companies on structural steel, because the Illinois company made only "small parts," there was competition in rails in the periods when rail-pools were not in force.

In refutation of Mr. Schwab's testimony that one of the principal objects of the organization of the corporation was to develop the export trade, Judge Dickinson read statistics showing that more steel had been exported in the two years previous to the corporation's announcement than in the first two years afterwards.

"Those figures in no manner disprove or detract from my theory," Mr. Schwab replied. "Because they cover but a short time. If you will take the figures for a longer period of time—down to the present—they will show a large increase in the exports."

Ten members of the plate pool, organized in 1900, all competitors, all became subsidiaries of the steel corporation, Mr. Schwab testified.

REPUBLICANS

him to cut expenses?" asked the Michigan senator.

The senator may construe it as he sees fit," Senator Simmons concluded. "Call it a threat or a statement, but the secretary of commerce had reference to these constant warnings by representatives of the protected industries that they would not suffer in their own pockets from tariff reductions, but would shoulder the loss upon their employees."

Prolonged Discussion

Prolonged discussion centered upon an effort begun by Senator Penrose to have the names of manufacturers who appear before the finance subcommittee submitted for the benefit of the minority. He accepted an amendment by Senator Smith of Georgia, for submission of names of manufacturers to the committee and another by Senator Reed for making public a record of manufacturers who appealed to the finance committee when the Dingley and Payne-Albright bills were under consideration.

The Penrose motion, with amendments was about to pass when Senator Lippitt proposed another which would require immediate publication of all briefs filed with the finance committee. Thereupon Senator Simmons moved that the whole matter be referred to the finance committee and the motion was carried, 42 to 23.

Senator Newlands addressed the senate at length on his tariff program, proposed at the opening of the extra session, which would provide for a gradual reduction of the tariff and for an investigation into the wisdom of creating a tariff advisory commission.

Should Improve Upon Opportunity.

"I hope this opportunity—the first the Democratic party has had in many years of basing action upon intelligent information instead of merely jangling adjustments between industries and sections, will not be lost," he said.

Representatives of cotton knit goods manufacturers appeared before Senator Johnson's subcommittee today, protesting against the rate of 20 per cent ad valorem proposed on their wares in the Underwood bill. They maintained that this rate was not protective and that it would let in goods of foreign manufacture.

"That's what we are looking for," said Senator Hughes. "The government will get some revenue and the people will get lower prices."

Senator Stone's subcommittee was engaged in consideration of the main schedule. Though Senator Stone denied reports that the committee had made reductions from the Underwood rates, some items have been reduced. One of these is said to be structural steel. Senator Kenyon of Iowa has introduced an amendment to put aluminum on the free list. This is in keeping with his proposal to put all products of monopolies on the free list.

Senator Reed severely criticizes the Republicans for having in the employ of the finance committee during consideration of the tariff bills men who were interested in the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers, and he read from letters of S. N. D. North, secretary of the National Woolen Manufacturers association who admitted serving as a clerk to the finance subcommittee when tariff bills were up.

"When the Democrats get through with this bill," said Senator Reed, "it may contain some mistakes; but it will

120,000 Loaves Bread Is Monthly Capacity of Star Bakery's New Oven

A new oven, twice the capacity of the old one, has just been installed by the Star Bakery of this city. The oven, which is of the Peterson make, is modern and sanitary, and is capable of baking 120,000 loaves of bread a month. The Star Bakery is one of the local progressive home industries whose business is extending over the entire Pikes Peak region. It has a display in the G. S. News of Local Courts

Mrs. Gretchen S. Knorr was granted a divorce by the district court yesterday from A. Leo Knorr, on the ground of nonsupport. The couple were married in this city on April 28, 1909.

Judge W. S. Morris will go to Castle Rock today to open the May term of the district court, and will be occupied with the trial of cases there for several days. In the first part of June he will go to Elbert court for sessions of the district court. Judge Morris presided at the local sessions of the district court for the January term, and may assist Judge Little, who is presiding for the May term.

Grover Lynch, who was sent to the county jail May 14 because he failed to pay $20 a month alimony to Caroline Lynch, his divorced wife, was released yesterday morning, after he had made arrangements to comply with the order of the court.

Judge W. P. Kinney in the county court yesterday morning admitted the will of the late Dr. J. A. Leech to probate.

Last year the Canadian Pacific Railroad company served about 10,000,000 meals on its trains and steamships, and in its hotels. The average was more than 30,000 meals a day.

DISCUSS CITY FINANCES

Consideration of the problem of relieving the pressing financial difficulties of the city by the sale of new bonds and the redemption of existing bonds, to the extent of half a million dollars if possible, is taking up a great deal of the time of Mayor McKesson and Finance Commissioner Eubank, and the two conferred with City Attorney Hall on the subject yesterday afternoon. They will place the matter before the council as a whole as soon as they have reached a decision. The refunding bonds were voted at the last election, but their disposal may be difficult because of the bad condition of the bond market. The bond market is said to be at the lowest ebb in years.

MANITOU DEPARTMENT

IT LOOKS IN THE MOVIES

Manitou will take a look at the moving pictures of itself today when the reels of the Pikes Peak Region made by the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce will be on exhibition at the Majestic theater. So great an interest has been aroused that Manager H. J. Ross has arranged to open his theater at 3 o'clock this afternoon, running the films through the afternoon and evening.

These of the Manitou people who have seen the pictures at the Opera house in Colorado Springs are well pleased with the representation accorded the various scenic attractions tributary to Manitou, and the display is awaited with a great deal of interest by all the townspeople. One of the most effective views of the reel is that taken at the Manitou Soda Springs. It shows a typical crowd at the springs and gives a close view of people partaking of the famous mineral waters. Other pictures show the Cok road, the Cave of the Winds, the Pass, Williams Canon, Crystal Park, Manitou, Ancient Cliff Dwellings, Mt. Manitou, Scenic, Inclined, Balanced Rock and Garden of the Gods.

Awaiting The Joyful Sound

The Wonderful Music that Bursts Forth
When the Stork Arrives.

That funny, little, hoarse cry that echoes the arrival of the new baby is perhaps the most cherished remembrance of our lives. And thousands of happy mothers own their preservation to a health and strength Mother's Friend. This is an external remedy that is applied to the abdominal muscles. It relieves all the tension, prevents tenderness and pain, enables the muscles to expand gently, and when baby comes, the muscles relax naturally, the form is preserved without laceration or other accident.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at almost all drug stores, as it is one of the standard, reliable remedies that grandmothers everywhere have relied upon. With its daily use during the period of expectation, there is no weakness, no nausea, no morning sickness, no pain, distress or strain of any kind. Its influence is truly remarkable, as it penetrates the tissues and renders them pliant and easily governed by the demands of nature. You will be surprised at the wonderful effect and what a grateful relief it affords. Especially to young women Mother's Friend is one of the greatest of all helpful influences. You will find this wonderful remedy on sale at the store where you trade, or they will get it for you. It is prepared by Dr. J. H. Regulator Co., 1134 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga. Racing Shells Swamped; Lunt and Other Oarsmen Take Bath in Charles R.

Special to The Gazette.

BOSTON, May 20.—Lawrence R. Lunt of Colorado Springs, a third year student at Harvard Medical school, and five other men, who were rescued from drowning in the Charles river last night by the police after two racing shells of the Union Boat club, in which they were rowing, had been swamped, show no ill effects today from their unexpected and chilly bath. Lunt had a narrow escape. He had gone under the water once and was about to disappear the second time when a boat hooked his jersey. The police pulled the sextet from the water and hurried them to the Union Boat club, where they were given medical treatment and were taken to their circulation.

Young Lunt is a son of Judge Horace C. Lunt of this city, and is well known here, where he has lived for many years. His father had heard nothing regarding the accident from him up to a late hour last night, and is of the opinion that the report greatly exaggerates the danger. His son is an excellent swimmer, and it is a common occurrence to be swamped in the river there, declares Judge Lunt. The Union Boat club, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the east, is composed of Harvard students and young men of Boston. Lunt has done considerable rowing during his course at Harvard, and was on the regular varsity crew in 1908 and 1909.

1,000 Mark Alumni High School to Be Passed This Year

The alumni roll of the Colorado Springs High school will pass the 1,000 mark June 6, with a class of 100 will receive diplomas. The graduate list now totals 938 and about 100 of this number are expected to attend the alumni reception which will be held at the Anders hotel on the evening of June 6. The committee on arrangements for the reception consists of Miss Nellie Cheley, Herbert Stubbs, Fred Morath, Dr. C. R. Gillott, and Miss Edna Jacques. The finance committee, to whom dues are to be paid, consists of Wilfred Auld, Elsie Whitmarsh, Mabelle St. John, Nana Pickett and Frank Evans. One of the features of the reception will be a playlet, "Nancy Oldfield," given by graduates.

PENNEL LUMBER CO. USES 320 CARS YEAR

One of the "up and coming" industries of the Pikes Peak region and one that is now busy from morning to night is the lumber business, and among the prominent local firms is the Pennell Lumber Co., situated on West Vermijo street. This company handles in a year more than 320 car loads of lumber, cement, and mill work, which means more than 15 trainloads of goods. The company employs 46 men in all of its departments, and has an actual payroll of $15,000. The company's holdings represent an investment of $175,000. Contrary to the belief of many who do not come in contact with the business, the majority of mill work, fancy carved wood work, and smaller jobs that many believe are made out of the city, are done right in the Pennell shops. The exhibit of the company, which is displayed in the windows of the Diechman and Douglas, has attracted much attention. During the day the company's expert wood carver is busy carving out some elaborate carvings, which are to be used on the windows of the new Y. W. C. A. building.

UNIQUE NUMBER LIGHT INVENTED BY LOCAL MEN

The automobile number light, which has just been devised by Michael and Brown, two Colorado Springs merchants, is among the new products which is being manufactured in this city this year. The number is attached to the tail light, and when the light is lit it illuminates the number. It is claimed that if this light was to be installed on every machine in Colorado Springs it would greatly increase the safety of not only the public but of the automobile owner as well. The lamp is claimed to be the only one that meets with the requirements of the city ordinances of every city in the country.

The lamp is being boasted to all the manufacturers through the country. The makers claim that if every automobile that has been put out this year would install one of the lights the royalty at 10 per cent would amount to $175,000.

Personal Mention

Miss Genevieve Price of Denver is a guest at the Acacia hotel.

C. C. Hoyt, city passenger agent for the Santa Fe, has gone for a two weeks' trip through Kansas and Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Grace of 1621 Hayes street have gone to Chicago, where Mr. Grace will attend the master boiler makers convention. They will visit in St. Louis and Nebraska before returning.

Mrs. Mary C. C. Bradford, state superintendent of schools, will be in Colorado Springs today for an inspection of the city and county schools. She will address a meeting of the teachers this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the High school building.

A BIG DYEING AND CLEANING INDUSTRY

One of the industries of the city that has been growing and keeping pace with the progress and development of the Pikes Peak region is Coutures, the French Art Dyers and Expert Cleaners.

No expense has been spared in the building of this plant to make it the largest and best equipped not only in the city, but the west, until at the present time it represents an investment of $50,000, employing 30 people in the main plant and having a pay roll of $1,520 a year and all spent at home. Mr. Couture, who is an expert in this business, having been for a number of years manager for one of the largest dyeing and cleaning establishments in the east before coming West, gives his personal attention to the mechanical and finishing department of the business.

Mrs. Couture has personal supervision of the office and the reception of the patrons of the firm. This is the only plant in the west that has in connection with it a hat bleachery. This department is in the management of Mr. J. W. Holcomb, who was for a number of years employed by the John B. Stetson hat makers, making this department one where ladies and gentlemen's old hats are made new.

The handling and delivery of goods to the trade is a department of business that has been the cause of much worry and friction, but has been reduced to a science by the Coutures. All goods are handled in the most sanitary manner and delivered to their patrons in dust proof wagons and automobiles that are a credit to the city.

Last year saw the completion of an underground system for the handling of naphtha and all chemicals, a combustible nature, which up to many plants cause so much damage by fire. The installation of this system has reduced the possibility of fire to the minimum. In the event of fire breaking out the chemicals and other combustibles are automatically drained into the large underground tanks. The building is fireproof and can be closed airtight and is also equipped with a steam fire fighting system that makes it impossible for any damage by fire to occur. This makes a business that is considered by underwriters to be most hazardous, one of comparatively small risk.

One of the axioms they use in their advertising is that they clean or dye anything from a necktie to a carpet and this is literally true.

The motto is promptness, efficiency and fair dealing, which accounts for the wonderful growth of the business since it was established in this city some five years ago.

U. S. SOON MAY MAKE OWN ARMOR PLATE

Can Save Millions Annually
Secretary Daniels

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Plans for manufacturing armor plate for American warships in the plants owned and operated by the government are being considered by the navy department. Secretary Daniels declared today that the United States paid too much for its armor plate, that there was no such thing as competition between private manufacturers and that a government factory seemed to be the only solution of the problem. He added that he would not disturb the contracts let just before the close of the last administration by Secretary Meyer because no better bids could be expected than those already accepted.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona, who has been making a fight in the senate for an investigation of armor plate manufacturers, recently charged that the government paid enormous profits to private plants, the contract prices in some instances being about double what the cost warranted.

Is Studying Problem

The secretary said that he was still studying the problem, and that he had not decided exactly what plan he would follow in securing full information on the subject, whether it would be by the appointment of a technical board or otherwise.

Contracts for class armor plate for the dreadnaught Pennsylvania were let at $454 a ton. This was $34 a ton more than the government has ever paid before according to statements by Senator Ashurst on the floor of the senate a few days ago. The senator charged at that time that the only three companies bidding for the contracts had conferred and submitted virtually identical estimates. He declared that experts had told him the United States could make similar armor for $254 a ton and, thereby, save more than a million and a half dollars on the Pennsylvania contract alone.

purchased. A blank sheet also is inserted in the book, and as soon as the members of the department have read the order carefully they are required to sign a statement that they have done so. The order in regard to the traffic ordinance is that the policemen must watch both automobiles and motorcycles carefully for speeding, for not having numbers or not displaying them properly for not having lights burning at the proper time, and for not having the right side of the machine to the curb when it is left standing. The rule in regard to turning corners, now in force at the intersection of Pike's Peak avenue and Tejon street will be enforced throughout the business district.

The order also reads that the officers must watch for violations of the following ordinances: prohibiting spitting on the sidewalks, prohibiting the bunching of tourist cars on the streets, and regulating hotel and rooming house solicitors. The order also says that as the rockpile is in operation, vagrants and loiterers are not to be floated from town, but are to be brought to the station.

Display Regulations

Except in the commission district goods may not be displayed on the sidewalks at a distance of more than 14 inches from the line of the business house. No solicitors are to be allowed at the depots and the hotel solicitors near the stations are to be kept at the stands designated for them. In the business district hotel and rooming house solicitors must not work nearer than 20 feet from an intersection of streets, and on the sidewalks must keep within two feet of the curb line or two feet of the building line.

Other orders will follow the first one in the new book at the police department, but nothing has been given out as to their nature. Chief Rime said yesterday, however, that the ordinance in regard to washing sidewalks, which goes into effect June 1, will be strictly enforced. According to this ordinance which is operative during June, July, August and September, all sidewalks in the downtown district must be washed before 5:30 a. m. in the morning. The district over which it operates extends from Platte avenue to Vermilion avenue and from Cascade avenue to Nevada avenue taking in both sides of the boundary streets. This district also extends along Huerfano street to the viaduct.

Most of the cases coming up in police court yesterday morning were those of violators of the traffic ordinance who had been arrested Monday. Mrs. Cora Nigle, proprietor of the New York rooming house was fined $10 for speeding, and K. K. Scott and F. M. Light $1 each for similar offenses. J. I. Warren, for having his machine facing the wrong way when left standing, was fined $1, and Roy Cary was reprimanded for speeding. H. A. Seum was fined $1 for spitting on the sidewalk but the sentence was suspended.

SCHWAB CONTINUES RELATION OF STORY

Admits Competition Illinois
Concern in Production

NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles M. Schwab resumed the witness stand today for further cross-examination by government counsel in the suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation.

Before being questioned by Judge Jacob M. Dickinson, the government attorney, he asked permission to correct the testimony he had given yesterday to the effect that the Illinois Steel company, and the Carnegie Steel companies, subsidiaries of the so-called trust were competitors before they were absorbed. He said today that the Illinois company manufactured "only small parts" and was not in reality a competitor of the Carnegie company.

The existence of competition between these two concerns is one of the important points in the government's case against the corporation.

Competition in Rails

Returning to the question of the alleged competition between the Illinois and Carnegie companies, Mr. Schwab conceded that while there was no competition between the companies on structural steel, because the Illinois company made only "small parts," there was competition in rails in the periods when rail pools were not in force.

In refutation of Mr. Schwab's testimony that one of the principal objects of the organization of the corporation was to develop the export trade, Judge Dickinson read statistics showing that more steel had been exported in the two years previous to the corporation's announcement than in the first two years afterwards.

Those figures in no manner disprove or detract from my theory," Mr. Schwab replied, "because they cover but a short time. If you will take the figures for a longer period of time—down to the present—they will show a large increase in the exports."

him to cut expenses?" asked the Michigan senator.

"The senator may construe it as he sees fit," Senator Simmons concluded. "Call it a threat or a statement, but the secretary of commerce had reference to these constant warnings by representatives of the protected industries that they would not suffer in their own pockets from tariff reductions but would shoulder the loss upon their employees."

Prolonged Discussion

Prolonged discussion centered upon an effort begun by Senator Penrose to have the names of manufacturers, who appear before the finance subcommittee submitted for the benefit of the minority. He accepted an amendment by Senator Smith of Georgia, for submission of names of manufacturers who call upon minority members of the committee and another by Senator Reed for making public a record of manufacturers who appealed to the finance committee when the Dingley and Payne Aldrich bills were under consideration.

The Penrose motion with amendments was about to pass when Senator Lippitt proposed another which would require immediate publication of all briefs filed with the finance committee. Thereupon Senator Simmons moved that the whole matter be referred to the finance committee and the motion was carried, 42 to 23.

Senator Newlands addressed the senate at length on his tariff program proposed at the opening of the extra session which would provide for a gradual reduction of the tariff and for an investigation into the wisdom of creating a tariff advisory commission.

Should Improve Upon Opportunity. I hope this opportunity—the first the Democratic party has had in many years—of basing action upon intelligent information instead of merely juggling adjustments between industries and sections will not be lost, he said.

Representatives of cotton knit goods manufacturers appeared before Senator Johnson's subcommittee today protesting against the rate of 50 per cent ad valorem proposed on their wares in the Underwood bill. They maintained that this rate was not protective and that it would let in goods of foreign manufacture.

"That's what we are looking for," said Senator Hughes. "The government will get some revenue and the people will get lower prices."

Senator Stone's subcommittee was engaged in consideration of the metal schedule. Though Senator Stone denied reports that the committee had made reductions from the Underwood rates, some items have been reduced. One of these is said to be structural steel. Senator Kenyon of Iowa has introduced an amendment to put aluminum on the free list. This is in keeping with his proposal to put all products of monopolies on the free list.

Senator Reed severely criticized the Republicans for having in the employ of the finance committee during consideration of the tariff bills men who were interested in the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers and he read from letters of S. N. D. North, secretary of the National Woolen Manufacturers association who admitted serving as a clerk to the finance subcommittee when tariff bills were up.

When the Democrats get through with this bill, said Senator Reed, "it may contain some mistakes, but it will contain no poker by paid employees of the woolen trust or other manufacturing interests."

DISCUSS CITY FINANCES

Consideration of the problem of relieving the pressing financial difficulties of the city by the sale of new bonds and the redemption of existing bonds, to the extent of half a million dollars if possible, is taking up a great deal of the time of Mayor McKesson and Finance Commissioner Eshank, and the two conferred with City Attorney Hall on the subject yesterday afternoon. They will place the matter before the council as a whole as soon as they have reached a decision. The refunding bonds were voted at the last election, but their disposal may be difficult because of the bad condition of the bond market. The bond market is said to be at the lowest ebb in years.

MANITOU DEPARTMENT

IT LOOKS IN THE MOVIES

Manitou will take a look at the moving pictures of itself today, when the films of the Pike's Peak Region made by the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce will be on exhibition at the Majestic theater. So great an interest has been aroused that Manager H. J. Ross has arranged to open his theater at 3 o'clock this afternoon, running the films through the afternoon and evening.

Those of the Manitou people who have seen the pictures at the Opera house in Colorado Springs are well pleased with the representation accorded the various scenic attractions tributary to Manitou, and the display is awaited with a great deal of interest by all the townspeople.

One of the most effective views of the reel is that taken at the Manitou Soda Springs. It shows a typical crowd at the springs and gives a close view of people partaking of the famous mineral waters. Other pictures show the Cog road, the Cave of the Winds, Ute Pass, Williams Canon, Crystal Park auto road, Ancient Cliff Dwellings, Mt. Manitou, Scenic Incline, Balanced Rock and Garden of the Gods.

Awaiting the Joyful Sound

The Wonderful Music that Bursts Forth When the Stork Arrives.

That funny, little, brassy cry that echoes the arrival of the new baby is perhaps the most cherished remembrance of our lives. And thousands of happy mothers owe their preservation to health and strength to Mother's Friend. This is an external remedy that is applied to the abdominal muscles. It relieves all the tension, prevents tenderness and pain, enables the muscles to expand gently, and when baby comes, the muscles relax naturally, the form is preserved without laceration or other accident.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at almost any drug store, as it is one of the standard reliable remedies that grandmothers everywhere have relied upon. With its daily use during the period of expectation, there is no weakness, no nausea, no morning sickness, no pain, distress or strain of any kind. Its influence is truly remarkable as it penetrates the tissues and renders them pliant and easily governed by the demands of nature. You will be surprised at its wonderful effect and what a grateful relief it affords.

Especially to young women. Mother's Friend is one of the greatest of all helpful influences. You will find this wonderful remedy on sale at the store where you trade, or get it by mail for you. It is prepared by Brad, and Regulator Co., 138 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga. Write them for a very valuable book to expectant mothers.

Racing Shells Swamped; Lunt and Other Oarsmen Take Bath in Charles R.

Special to The Gazette. BOSTON, May 20.—Lawrence K. Lunt of Colorado Springs, a third year student at Harvard Medical school, and five other men, who were rescued from drowning in the Charles river last night by the police after two racing shells of the Union Boat club, in which they were rowing, had been swamped, show no ill effects today from their unexpected and chilly bath. Lunt had a narrow escape. He had some under the water once and was about to disappear the second time when a boat hook checked his Jersey. The police pulled the sextet from the water and hurried them to the Union Boat club, where they were given medical treatment and stimulants to restore their circulation.

Young Lunt is a son of Judge Horace G. Lunt of this city, and is well known here, where he has lived for many years. His father had been working regarding the accident from him up to a late hour last night, and is of the opinion that the report greatly exaggerates the difficulty. His son is an excellent swimmer, and it is a common occurrence to be swamped in the river there, declares Judge Lunt.

The Union Boat club, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the east, is composed of Harvard students and young men of Boston.

Lunt has done considerable rowing during his course at Harvard, and was on the regular varsity crew in 1908 and 1909.

1,000 Mark Alumni High School to Be Passed This Year

The alumni roll of the Colorado Springs High school will pass the 1,000 mark June 5, with a class of 100 will receive diplomas. The graduate list now totals 933 and about 500 of this number are expected to attend the alumni reception which will be held at the Adlon hotel on the evening of June 6. The committee on arrangements for the reception consists of Miss Nellie Chelver, Herbert Stubbs, Fred Morath, Dr. O. R. Gillett, and Miss Edna Jacques. The finance committee, to whom duties are to be paid, consists of Wilfred Auld, Elsie Whitman, Michelle, St. John, Nann Dickel and Frank Evans. One of the features of the reception will be a playlet, "Nancy Oldfield," given by graduates.

PENNEL LUMBER CO. USES 320 CARS YEAR

One of the "up and coming" industries of the Pike's Peak region and one that is now busy from morning to night is the lumber business, and among the prominent local firms is the Pennell Lumber Co., situated on West Vermijo street. This company handles in a year more than 320 car loads of lumber, cement and mill work, which means more than 15 trainloads of goods. The company employs 48 men in all of its departments, and has an actual payroll of $45,000. The company's holdings represent an investment of $175,000.

Contrary to the belief of many who do not come in contact with the business, the majority of mill work, fancy carved wood work, and smaller jobs that many believe are made out of the city, are done right in the Pennell shops. The exhibit of the company, which is displayed in the windows of the Dieckman and Douglas, has attracted much attention. During the day the company's expert wood carver is busying himself with some elaborate oak carvings, which are to be used on the mantels of the new Y. W. C. A. building.

UNIQUE NUMBER LIGHT INVENTED BY LOCAL MEN

The automobile number light which has just been devised by Michael and Brown, two Colorado Springs merchants, is among the new products which is being manufactured in the city this year. The number is so attached to the tail light that when the light is lit it illuminates the number. It is claimed that if this light was to be installed on every machine in Colorado Springs it would greatly increase the safety of not only the public but of the automobile owner as well. The lamp is claimed to be the only one that meets with the requirements of the city ordinances of every city in the country.

The lamp is being boosted to all the manufacturers through the country. The makers claim that if every automobile that has been put out this year would install one of the lights the royalty at 10 per cent would amount to $175,000.

Personal Mention

Miss Genevieve Price of Denver is a guest at the Anconia hotel.

C. C. Hoyt, city passenger agent for the Santa Fe, has gone for a two weeks' trip through Kansas and Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Grace of 1621 Hayes street have gone to Chicago, where Mr. Grace will attend the master boiler makers convention. They will visit in St. Louis and Nebraska before returning.

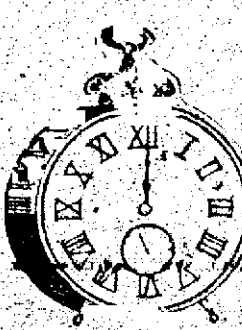

Mrs. Mary C. C. Bradford, state superintendent of schools, will be in Colorado Springs today for an inspection of the city and county schools. She will address a meeting of the city teachers this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the High school building.

A BIG DYEING AND CLEANING INDUSTRY

One of the industries of the city that has been growing and keeping pace with the progress and development of the Pike's Peak region is Coutures, the French Art Dyers and Expert Cleaners.

No expense has been spared in the building of this plant to make it the largest and best equipped not only in the city, but the west, until at the present time it represents an investment of $50,000, employing 30 people in the main plant and having a payroll of $4,500 a year and all spent at home.

Mr. Couture, who is an expert in this business, having been for a number of years manager for one of the largest dyeing and cleaning establishments in the east before coming west, gives his personal attention to the managerial and finishing department of the business.

Mrs. Couture has personal supervision of the office and the reception of the patrons of the firm. This is the only plant in the west that has in connection with it a hat bleachery. This department is in the management of Mr. J. W. Holcomb, who was for a number of years employed by the John B. Stetson hat makers, making this department one where ladies and gentlemen's old hats are made new.

The handling and delivery of goods to the trade is a department of business that has been the cause of much worry and friction, but has been reduced to a science by the Coutures. All goods are handled in the most sanitary manner and delivered to their patrons in dust proof wagons and automobiles that are a credit to the city.

Last year saw the completion of an underground system for the handling of manure and all chemicals of a combustible nature, which in so many plants cause so much damage by fire. The installation of this system has reduced the possibility of fire to the minimum. In the event of fire breaking out, the chemicals and other combustibles are automatically drained into the large underground tanks. The building is fireproof and can be closed airtight and is also equipped with a steam fire fighting system that makes it impossible for any damage by fire to occur. This makes a business that is considered by underwriters to be most hazardous, one of comparatively small risk.

One of the axioms they use in their advertising is that they clean or dye anything from a necktie to a carpet and this is literally true. The motto is promptness, efficiency and fair dealing, which accounts for the wonderful growth of the business since it was established in this city some five years ago.

CONDITION IS WORSE

George D. Evans, who is at St. Francis hospital as a result of a series of hemorrhages which he sustained recently while a prisoner in the county jail, had another hemorrhage Monday night, and yesterday was worse than for several days. Those in attendance at the hospital believe that he will recover eventually, but say that his improvement is retarded greatly.

I had backache, headache, pain in my legs, chills, fainting spells, sick stomach, dragging feelings, and no patience or courage. Since taking Cardui, I have no more pains, can walk as far as I want to, and feel good all the time." Take Cardui and be benefited by the peculiar herb ingredients which have been found so efficient for womanly ills. Cardui will relieve that backache, headache, and all the misery from which you suffer, just as it has done for others. Try Cardui.

A BETTER HOME

Does your home give you all the comfort and satisfaction you would like?

There's a big difference in homes. Some have the cozy inviting atmosphere which makes men want to hurry back. Others are pleasant enough, but they lack something.

Those little touches that make home cozy and "homelike" are not hard to attain. They are not the expensive things. A new chair with right atmosphere, here a new little table, there a few things, and your home is transformed.

Let your home grow with you to be your ideal. Make it a rule to add something each season. Surprising how soon you will find it more charming than you had suppose it could be.

Oil Enterprises Materially Benefit Colorado Springs

Financial circles, from New York to San Francisco, in Paris and in London today are discussing the business venture that made a group of Colorado Springs men rich, that brought this city into the financial spotlight, put the Salt Creek oil field into prominence on the map as being one of the most productive in the country, and has made the Midwest oil company famous. Today stock in the company is eagerly sought by capitalists, and each report of the company shows the remarkable field of operation in which the wells and refineries are located.

The public knows today how Yerner Z. Reed, the Colorado Springs capitalist, saw the possibilities in the field, how he spent seven years in Paris perfecting the financing of the scheme, and how he secured French capital, which added to local capital and the business energy of a group of his associates, resulted in the organization of the Midwest Oil company. These local men, Oliver H. Shoup, B. H. Hopkins, J. L. Warren, D. L. Schuyler and others, also saw visions in the future and today are becoming powers in the financial world.

Colorado Springs is the home of the Midwest company. Its head offices are in this city, and the money from the company comes to local banks. It is without doubt one of the most important factors of local business. The large profits of the company have induced many Springs investors to purchase shares, and today much of the stock of the company is owned by local business men.

Not only from the financial standpoint but from the standpoint of the highest class of advertising, Colorado Springs as the home of men who do things in business, has the advantage come to this city. These men who made Midwest a byword in the oil business have increased the faith held in Colorado Springs by outside business men, and has strengthened business conditions in this city.

Mr. Reed a few months ago finished up business affairs in Paris, connected with the raising of capital for investments in Colorado and Wyoming amounting to some $60,000,000. The Midwest oil company has headquarters in the Exchange National bank building with a large branch office in Denver.

Organization Remarkable

The organization of the company was remarkable, being practically the first venture of its kind in distant foreign capital. Mr. Reed originally secured more than $5,000,000 in French capital, and then Edmond Thien, Deloncles, a Paris banker, became interested in the company, and it is self furnished personally and through his associates the bulk of the capital for the Wyoming oil development.

The oil field in question is located on 1,280 acres of patented land in Natrona county, Wyo., 40 miles from Casper. A pipeline has been built at a cost of $500,000, and oil is being piped at a rate of some 4,000 barrels a day. The oil itself is of high quality, being 20 per cent gasoline, 33 per cent kerosene and 25 per cent lubricating oil. It also has a paraffin base.

The formation of the oil company by Messrs. Reed and Shoup of this city put an end to the warring factions in the Casper district. There had been many group claims and lotators, and through the energy of the two local men the merger was consummated.

O. H. Shoup of this city, general manager for the Reed interest, is president of the big corporation. A. M. Johnson is vice president; Jay L. Warren is secretary, and the board of directors includes Mr. Reed, Mr. Deloncles of Paris, R. H. Hopkins of this city, Newton Wilson and C. A. Fisher of Denver.

PURE WATER BRINGS CONCRETE PLANT HERE

The Colorado Concrete Manufacturing company, whose plant is southeast of Colorado Springs, began work last April, and besides its local market, has already had shipments going as far west as Utah. At the plant, glazed cement pipe, concrete fence posts, cement blocks and bricks, cement roofing tiles, and ornamental concrete articles are made. The pipe, which is calculated to stand more than 30 pounds of hydraulic pressure, is used for sewers, storm sewers, drainage purposes, and culvert purposes or railroad tracks. The ornamental concrete work includes columns, cornices and balustrades for porches and bridges, and the company is preparing to begin the manufacture of ornamental concrete lawn posts. The balustrades on the new bridge at Pike View were made at this plant.

The location of the plant here was due to the importance in the work of the character of the sand and the purity of the water used. More than three months was devoted to a search for sand of the proper quality, and the company has now its own sand pits, two miles from this city. The water used is obtained from the city. The cement is shipped in from Portland, Ore., all that goes into the articles made here being, in fact, produced in Colorado.

YSAYE A WIZARD WITH HIS FIDDLE

HOTDS AUDIENCE IN TRANCE UNTIL END—IS RAPTUREOUSLY APPLAUDED

Great Crowd Cheers Him So Frantically the Maestro Plays Some More

From San Francisco Call, May 12, by Walter Anthony:

The first of Ysaye's genius burn brighter, even, than when he was here before—I think it was nine years ago. The Belgian's touch is as firm as then, his bow arm as steady, and his soul sense—his sensuous quality of playing—manifested itself yesterday afternoon at Scottish Rite auditorium to a great audience.

It was the first of a series of four recitals which he will give in this city, not forgetting his appearance next Wednesday afternoon at the Greek theatre, and if the enthusiasm of yesterday's auditors may be accepted as evidence, it is certain that the succeeding concerts will attract crowds, for they cheered Ysaye yesterday afternoon. It was not tentative, half-hearted and embarrassed cheering, but as spontaneous and immediate as the yelling from the bleachers when the game is tied. It was pure enthusiasm, drawn by the overwhelming size of the Belgian's art, his impassioned playing, his cool control of himself, and his mastery of his violin.

Shows Himself a Master

He proclaimed himself "the king of them all" yesterday, and it is no disparagement to any artist of the violin to say that he could have sat at the feet of the Belgian yesterday and applauded unashamed a genius greater than his own.

There was something diabolical in Ysaye's performance of the Wieniawski "Faust," particularly that portion which is the "Cair of Gold." Mephistopheles' aria. This was done on the G string, which vibrated with trumpet like boldness and size.

When the "Faust" number was finished the program was supposed also to be, but it was not. The audience crowded about the stage, cheered, waved hats and altogether behaved in a most extraordinary manner for a Sunday afternoon concert audience. Ysaye came out and bowed, and bowed, and begged with his hands to be permitted to retire. It was no use. The audience wouldn't budge. Ysaye consented and played the Wieniawski polonaise with animation and force, as though it were the beginning instead of the finale of a taxing but ideal program.

Demonstrates His Skill

The consummate skill with which Ysaye makes up his program was also demonstrated. It began with Mozart's D major sonata, wherein an occasional glimpse of the mighty technique of the artist could be had through the tender cantabile measures, wherewith the sonata is mainly provided.

Mendelssohn's E minor concerto, opus 64, followed. From its first phrase, with its octave passages, to its finale of dazzling speed and splendor, Ysaye was master of the work, bringing to it many a touch new to us—old and familiar as the piece is. The audacious movement was played with such poignant tenderness that it almost embodied pain, so exquisitely were the feelings worked upon by the master with the bow.

Purity and peace characterized the Wagner-Wilhelm "Preislied," rather than passion and fire; an interesting composition with a drone base effect as of archaic country dances, by Ysaye himself, followed, and then there was a mazurka by Zarzky, which had the energy of gypsy music. Then came the "Faust" fantasia.

Accompanist Also Praised

Meanwhile several encores had been demanded and given. One was Kreisler's beautiful "Caprice Viennois," in which the "double stops" executed by the player brought forth harmonies of deep beauty. A "Scherzo" waltz by Chabrier-Loeffler, was another exquisite contribution.

Much praise was won by the accompanist, Camille Devaux. Both as accompanist and soloist he "scored."

He played a "Reverie Nocturne," an original composition and a Zanella

KIRBY ATTACKS ORGANIZED LABOR

REFERS TO "STAINS" OF DYNAMITERS

Pays Respects to "Inner Circle" of A. F. of L. and the Tariff Bill

DETROIT, Mich., May 20.—(C. N. B.)—Kirby, who has been called the "stain" of the American Federation of Labor, in his annual report today dwelt at length on the industrial and legislative conditions and their effect upon manufacturers and employers. He referred in detail to the treatment of corporations and the railroads and the attitude of manufacturers toward the tariff. He said in part:

"Conspicuous in the numerous events of recent years that have transpired in the field of American industry is the tragedy of Los Angeles and the drama of Indianapolis. As a reward to the principal accomplices in this conspiracy, they have, one after another, through the power of the invincible 'inner circle' of the American Federation of Labor, been selected to their respective offices. Point to me one single labor leader or delegate who has arisen and indignantly demanded that such type of leadership be forever barred from the administration of union affairs.

Bemoans Sherman Act.

"During recent years we have witnessed the prosecution and conviction of many business men under the Sherman antitrust law for seeking in some way to protect their business against ruthless competition and dominant methods of the labor trust. If they have violated the law, we have no complaint to offer for the penalties which they may be called upon to pay, but we do protest against the free and unmolested manner in which the labor trust defiantly continues to violate the same law.

"We are justified in our condemnation of representatives and senators in congress who in the name of political expediency stoop so low in the scale of public duty as to vote for such legislation as the Clayton antitrust and contempt bills passed in the lower house of the Sixty-second congress and which only escaped passage in the senate by a hair's breadth.

Pays Respects to Tariff Bill.

"And should we not gaze with amazement upon the spectacle presented to us in the closing days of the last congress, when both houses and senate passed the sundry civil appropriation bill containing the provision that no funds appropriated for the use of the department of justice in prosecuting violators of the Sherman act should be used for the purpose of prosecuting the defendant in combination a bill which William H. Taft promptly vetoed. The same bill is pending again, having been promptly passed by the house in the special session and this is the way the party in power starts out to make good its boasted slogan of 'equal rights for all, privileges to none.'

Referring to the Industrial Workers of the World as being supplemental to the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Kirby said:

"Against these forces of evil, domestic and alien, we must stand flintlike in our resolve that our government is and must be a government of law.

"If as a result of radical and ill-advised tariff legislation we suffer business depression and the loss of opportunity to labor," he said in conclusion, "the aftermath, like in the recent floods, will plainly be visible and the remedy sharp and decisive."

B. C. Profiting by Influx Chinese

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 20.—Notwithstanding Premier McBride's repeated declarations for a White British Columbia, the revenues of the province are growing more than ever by the immigration of the Chinese. The number coming in during the last fiscal year was greater than in any preceding year, according to figures published today.

Altogether 7,745 Chinese entered, mostly through Vancouver, and nearly all remain in British Columbia. Of these 367 were admitted as students, merchants, etc.

The remainder paid tax at $500 per capita, aggregating $3,849,492, a half of which is paid into the British Columbia treasury.

The total Chinese population of Canada is now 30,000, more than two-thirds of whom are in British Columbia. The immigration of Japanese is limited to four hundred annually, for which no head tax is charged.

Militants Bankrupt, Says London Paper

LONDON, May 20.—The Standard asserts that the militant cause is practically bankrupt. It claims to know that the alleged huge war chest of the suffragettes of more than $500,000 is a "gigantic bluff," that the alleged $75,000 subscribed at the last Albert hall meeting consisted of dummy cheques, there being only $4,000 in cash, and that the resources from the sale of militant papers and public subscriptions are dwindling.

WOOD IMPLICATED IN DYNAMITE PLOT

Witness Tells of "Planting" Explosives in Lawrence, Mass., During Riots

BOSTON, Mass., May 20.—Dennis J. Collins, a dog fancier of Cambridge, on trial with Pres. William M. Wood of the American Woolen company and Frederick E. Attey, a Boston dye manufacturer, for alleged conspiracy to plant dynamite at Lawrence during the textile strike of 1912, testified as a witness for his prosecution when the trial was resumed today.

Collins said that on January 19, 1912, he met John J. Breen, the Lawrence undertaker who was convicted of actually planting dynamite in the house of Breen's house in Lawrence and opened it contained sticks which felt "cold."

HENRY M. FLAGLER DIES IN FLORIDA

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., May 20.—Henry M. Flagler, aged 68, capitalist and railroad magnate, died at his winter home here this morning after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Flagler recently fell down a flight of steps at his home and because of his advanced age his recovery had not been anticipated.

Henry M. Flagler was born at Canadara, N. Y., in 1850. Little is known of his early life except that he was clerk in a country grocery in Orleans county, Mich., while in his teens. Later he moved to Saginaw, Mich., where he engaged in the manufacture of salt.

Becoming interested in the possibilities of the petroleum industry, he removed to Cleveland, O., where he organized the company of Rockefeller, Andrews and Flagler, engaging in the refining of oil.

The Standard Oil company was the outgrowth of this venture and Mr. Flagler remained actively connected with the management of the great corporation since its inception.

In 1885, Mr. Flagler paid his first visit to Florida and became impressed with the business possibilities presented there by the railroad field, in connection with the development of winter resorts.

Try the New Way of Curing Corns

Easy As One, Two, Three; No Fuss,
No Pain, by Using "GETS-IT"

Just take two seconds to put a little "GETS-IT" on that corn. That corn is "done for" as sure as the sun rises. The corn shrivels up, vanishes. That's

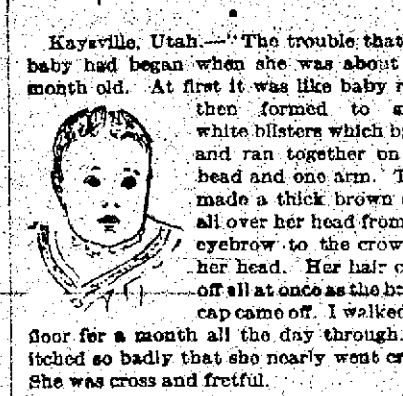

"When I Think of All the Things I Tried for Corns and Failed, and 'GETS-IT' Got 'em in a Hurry."

The surprise you get by using this new plan corn cure. There's nothing to stick to the stocking or sock; your corn pains stop. You've saved the bother of applying plasters that make the corn bulge out from the shoe. You're saved selves that eat into the healthy flesh and "pull," no more fussing with bandages. You don't have to help by picking and dragging out your corns, or cutting with knives or razors. "GETS-IT" is safe, painless, stops pain, never hurts healthy flesh. It is guaranteed. Try it on warts, calluses and bunions, too.

"GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

RASH ON BABY'S HEAD AND ARM

Small White Blisters. Hair Came Off All at Once. Itched So Badly Nearly Went Crazy. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Kaysville, Utah.—"The trouble that my baby had began when she was about one month old. At first it was like baby rash, then formed to small white blisters which broke and ran together on her head and one arm. They made a thick brown scab all over her head from her eyebrow to the crown of her head. Her hair came off all at once as the brown cap came off. I walked the floor for a month all the day through. It itched so badly that she nearly went crazy. She was cross and fretful."

"I used to no use at all. I remembered of an aunt using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for rheumatism, so I sent for a sample. The first application helped her. I washed her head thoroughly with the Cuticura Soap, dried it very carefully with a piece of cotton, then anointed the Cuticura Ointment over the affected parts and in this morning washed it again. I used the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, bought two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. I used them for two months and she was completely cured and her hair has come back pretty and nice again."

(Signed) Mrs. Olive Harvey, Sept. 25, 1912. Cuticura Soap (20c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Be Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Everywhere free.

Witness Tells of "Planting" Explosives in Lawrence, Mass., During Riots

BOSTON, Mass., May 20.—Dennis J. Collins, a dog fancier of Cambridge, on trial with Pres. William M. Wood of the American Woolen company and Frederick E. "MADE IN COLORADO SPRINGS"

THE show windows on Pikes Peak avenue and Tejon street afford plenty of evidence just now that Colorado Springs is a manufacturing town in much larger degree than its people had supposed. The exhibits range from turquoise and other semi-precious stones to heavy steel castings, and from trunks to saratoga clips, and all were made in Colorado Springs in every stage of the process. It would be interesting to know the aggregate value of the yearly output and the extent of the out-of-town market, but it must be considerable for if these enterprises did not pay they would not exist.

Home industry and home trading go hand in hand. Local industries cannot be built up unless the local people patronize them, for all of the goods made here are adapted to the local market and the makers must first win the support of the home people before they can look for outside markets.

Colorado Springs already has retail stores far superior to those usually found in a city of its size, and it has them because the people support them. It could just as well have a number of flourishing factories. We do not mean that it is ever likely to be a large manufacturing center, but it could easily support a number of successful small factories for the production of things which are in everyday use in every household. And it would support them if purchasers would insist on having a homemade article.

A few years ago all of the arts and crafts goods sold in Colorado Springs were bought in the East. There, goods, mostly leather and brass ware, form an important item in the summer business for immense quantities are sold to tourists. Now there are two or three local concerns which not only supply the local market but have built up a considerable outside trade.

This is also true of the business in high-class colored photographs and scenic views. It is not so long ago since the dealers in such goods bought their supplies mostly in Detroit from a concern which had sent a man here to take the photographs. Now there are several local photographers who devote themselves entirely to the production of colored photographs of a quality vastly superior to those formerly sold.

Because of the large number of travelers who come here in summer the business in trunks and other traveling paraphernalia is much better in Colorado Springs than in other places of its size. Yet how many people know that perhaps four-fifths of all the trunks sold here are made in Colorado Springs? The list might be extended to include a wide variety of articles of local manufacture which have found a ready market because in price and quality they can compete with goods made elsewhere.

Take a turn up and down Tejon street and Pikes Peak avenue today and see the window exhibits. Observe how many things are made in the Pikes Peak Region, and ask yourself if it isn't worth while to encourage these local industries by calling for the homemade article whenever you need such things.

FARMING IN COLORADO

THE fact that Colorado imports between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 annually in farm products is assurance of a good cash market at high prices for all that can be raised by 30,000 farmers.

This is the summing up of a report on agriculture in Colorado recently issued by the Federal government. But where are the 30,000 farmers? Evidently they are not here. Farmers in the Middle West sell their land at high prices and chase the rainbow to its end somewhere in western Canada in the expectation of buying equally good land for five or ten dollars an acre and getting rich over night. They go to a bleak and inhospitable climate to which they are wholly unused, and generally they are disappointed. It is safe to say that they would do much better in Colorado where farm lands of all kinds and prices can be had on easy terms, and where any man who knows his business and is willing to work at it can succeed.

"Colorado apples, peaches and other orchard products command the top of the market in eastern centers," says the report. "Colorado is one of the leading fruit producing states of the West. There is a great opportunity for newcomers in the markets of the states for small fruits, such as raspberries, strawberries, dewberries and grapes. The raising of these can be combined with truck gardening, thus bringing quick returns."

This agrees with the recommendations recently made by Agricultural Commissioner Lauck as to raising small fruits in El Paso county. All conditions are favorable and the opportunity awaits the men with the energy and the "know-how." Apparently there is no good reason why all of the small fruits used in Colorado Springs should not be raised in El Paso county.

CALIFORNIA AND THE JAPANESE

OF COURSE there will be no war with Japan over the California land bill. That is an absurdity which is taken seriously only by the yellow newspapers. But for the sake of the argument, suppose California did carry the matter to such an extreme that it could not be settled amicably and war ensued.

What a spectacle it would be to see California execute a right-about-face and plead with the Federal government for protection from an invading force. Just now the statesmen of the Pacific coast are the very embodiment of flamboyant independence. They cannot see that the rest of the country has a right to be interested in the sort of laws they enact against the Japanese. It is their own affair, and they propose to handle it as they see fit.

But if their capacity for blundering should lead them into such utter disregard of treaty obligations that war ensued it would be a horse of another color. Then the whole nation would be called on for men and money to protect California from invasion. All of which indicates that the failure of the Constitution to give the Federal government power to control state legislatures in matters affecting foreign policy is a weakness which ought to be remedied.

WANTED: FIVE HUNDRED MOTHERS

To the Editor of The Gazette:
 Five hundred mothers who are interested in the welfare of their children are needed to contribute or raise $100 apiece to make our playgrounds a success.

Just think what it will mean! Two playgrounds under trained supervision, people who have charge of playgrounds summer after summer, and know how to make them places of safe and healthy recreation for your children! Ball teams organized, folk dances taught, open-air gymnastics, the best physical development of the children secured.

Think of how much it will mean to you this summer to know where your boys or girls are away playing, that they are in good and safe surroundings, no bad language, no evil habits, no danger on streets—just good wholesome fun. Is it not worth paying a dollar to get this for your children? A number of people have given over $500 out of good will—$500 more is needed—will you not help us get it?

It is not for this summer only, but will become a permanent institution in connection with all our public schools.
 If you will help, send whatever you can to Mr. C. M. Cole, superintendent of public schools, Ogden Building, and do it today.

FROM OTHER PENS

Will the Ladies Wear Waistcoats?

From the Christian Science Monitor.
 The pleasure derived from the announcement, announcing good anything, that the ladies are going to wear waistcoats this year, was recent to say, is immediately neutralized, if not altogether destroyed, by the further announcement that most of the waistcoats going with the three-piece suits for women are merely simulated, not real waistcoats. Now, a simulated waistcoat is no waistcoat at all. What man has been hoping for and looking forward to for many years is that woman, in her natural and praiseworthy fondness for his attire, would some day, sooner or later, adopt his waistcoat. In this anticipation he has been moved by the same motive that prompted him to hail with rejoicing the announcement that she was going to have real, not simulated, pockets in her skirts. Pockets are things all right-thinking men would like to see introduced into fashions for women, for throughout all history man has been carrying in his pockets things that by all rights she should carry, and probably would carry, if only she had pockets in which to put them.

The great charm of a waistcoat, from man's point of view, is that it is largely made up of pockets. It has two lower and two upper, and usually, one inside. Take these with the two side and two hip and four pockets in his trousers, and with the two lower and one upper outside and two inside pockets of his coat—to leave his overcoat out of the discussion completely—and it will quickly be seen that man has a complete equipment of places in which to put things, and forget them. At the most, woman has only one pocket, and this is generally in her outer skirt when she is out with man, so that man has to furnish what might be called the storage room for the trip, excursion or tour, as the case may be. Man might not complain of this, if it were not for something else. A woman no sooner hands him something to put in his pocket than she wants it again, and then she seems to take delight in seeing him begin with his trousers pockets and end with his waistcoat pockets in his efforts to find it. He never does find it the first time he goes through the process, of course, and seldom the second time, so that this gives the woman who is so anxious to please an opportunity of asking him if he cannot remember for a minute where he put things. To be frank about it, he cannot. If you have ever observed a man looking through his pockets for a knife, a lead-pencil, a card, a comb, a ticket, a dime—anything—you have seen how little he knows about its exact location, and you will appreciate how needless and how cruel it is for a woman to look at him smilingly, and to make remarks about his methods, when he is almost hopelessly lost in his wanderings between trousers and coat and waistcoat.

If woman is going to wear a waistcoat, by all means let it have pockets—five of them—and then let her be as agreeable as man has ever been in the matter of carrying things. The moment she puts on a real, not a simulated, waistcoat, he may ask her to carry things for him, and then equally between the sexes will have received a real, and not a simulated, forward impulse.

AN ARCTIC HERO GONE

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
 While the civilized world is lamenting the sad fate of Captain Scott, there comes the announcement of the death of W. F. de Long. It is the irony of fate that probably not one in a thousand of our readers will have the slightest notion of who de Long was or what he did, yet in many respects he was the greatest of our Arctic heroes. He was a member of the ill-fated Polar expedition more than 40 years ago and one of those few who were saved from a floating ice-berg.

Put his greater claim to fame lay in the fact that he was a member of the expedition, under Lieutenant DeLong, and was one of the few survivors of that expedition. When the Jeanette sank in the Arctic the members of the expedition sailed in three small boats for the mouth of the Lena. All of one boat's crew were lost at sea. Admiral Melville's boat safely landed all its passengers and all got back to civilization except one Chinaman, who went insane. DeLong's boat reached the shore, but as there was no food all starved to death except Nindeman and Norrois, two men sent south for aid. These were found almost dead by Melville. Unfortunately by the time DeLong's camp could be reached, all were dead.

Nindeman's heroism in the two expeditions was so much appreciated that he received a congressional medal of honor. In later years he achieved fame as a naval constructor, but so short is human memory, when he died many of his acquaintances had forgotten his more important career. Of such thin material is fame constructed.

THE FRENZIED SOCIETY REPORTER

From the Pueblo Chieftain.
 Palms and potted plants lent attractiveness to the vestibule, and the tea table which was artistically placed in the Indian room was crowned with fragrant pink roses reflecting the "color of love and youth," while pink satin bows and pink shaded candles added the charm of perfect appointments. All during the hours an orchestra hidden behind a screen of palms and apple blossoms dispensed sweet music, which gave the superlative touch to the delight of the moment.

Mrs. Asbury White and Mrs. Frank Cuddeback sat every heart at ease by their greetings, and the guests passing on were engaged in pleasing conversation by the assisting ladies.

Does a College Education Pay?

By RUTH CAMERON.

I am sometimes asked by letter-friends, "Does it pay to send a boy or girl to college?" Being a Yankee, I always answer that question by two others.

In the first place, what is the cost going to be? There are prices too high to pay. For instance, if it is going to include four years of unremitting self-denial for the rest of the family, and four years of combined study and attempts at self-support for the student, that may be too high a price, especially if the student's health is not of the best. I say "may" because this is a question in which circumstances alter cases.

Secondly, in what coin do you expect payment to be made? If you expect that a college education will surely increase the earning powers of your son or daughter to an extent commensurate with the investment of time and money which is being made, you will probably be disappointed.

This is especially true if you expect an immediate payment. The graduate of the ordinary classical course in any college is prepared for just one profession—that of teaching. That means that these graduates must either enter that overworked field and start at the small salary which such overworking causes, or that they must spend further time in making more specific preparation for some other profession, or that they must start at the bottom of some business or profession, receiving approximately the same wage at which a high school graduate would start.

As a rule the college graduate rises much more rapidly and ultimately receives a higher salary, but this is not always true, because many of the graduates are a girl who is extremely likely to marry before receiving any financial return for her investment.

On the other hand, if you are willing that part of your payment shall be a broader outlook on life, a larger capacity for intellectual enjoyment, a better standard of living, a handful of precious friendships, and a handful of golden memories for your son or daughter, you will probably find that a college education pays.

Do not think I am disparaging a college education. I would be the last to do that, but I do believe that many fathers and mothers expect too much financial return and are sadly disappointed. All our colleges contain specific courses which do actually prepare for some business or profession. It is inevitable that there can seldom be a full financial return for the time and money invested. Whether it is best that our colleges should take on such specific courses is quite another question, and one I am not qualified to discuss, though I must say I have a very strong opinion in the matter.

In the meantime, let the fathers and mothers who want to know if a college education pays, digest the following: "A college education is not to teach one to make a living, but to make a life."

Philanthropy

By GEORGE FITCH,
 Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Philanthropy is a very high class method of putting it back.

When a man gives a dime away, that's charity. When he gives ten dollars that is generosity. But when he gives a million away, that is philanthropy.

Philanthropy has filled the country with orphan asylums, old people's homes, hospitals and missions. And in getting together the money with which to build these things, some of the philanthropists have made enough orphans to fill the asylums, enough poor old people to crowd the homes, and enough cripples to congest the hospitals.

"A very high class method of putting it back."

It is not necessary to manufacture these orphans and cripples in order to make a great fortune, but it is the easiest way. And this country is a great labor saver.

Some men can make a million by inventing useful machinery, discovering gold mines or selling goods more skillfully than other men. But most men have to do it by using small wages and getting together with other men to make prices look like a monopoly in context for the altitude record.

Many a man has saved a cistern full of dollars by not installing safety appliances on his machinery and after wards has become a philanthropist by building a human repair shop to take care of the men who got mixed up in said machinery.

Many a man has employed men and gave some of it back to them in a living wage and has sent his name thundering down the ages by building pomegranate take care of them when they can work no longer.

For this reason many thoughtless people are inclined to look on philanthropy with great scorn. They are the kind of people who, if robbed by a holdup man, would not be gracious enough to thank him for giving back change.

However, there is nothing wrong with philanthropy, and the men who give some of it back are better than those who send a duke or do feigning work for feigned barons. If we watched our money more carefully, there would be fewer philanthropists. And there would also much less need for philanthropy.

EXAMINERS FOR MINE

INSPECTORS ARE NAMED

DENVER, May 20.—Announcement was made today of the appointment of the board of examiners for coal mine inspectors. Under the new law three of the members are named by judges of the district courts, the fourth by the governor and the four to choose the fifth. Judge Harry S. Class selected W. H. Adamson of Leyden, Judge A. W. McHardie, John R. Jenkins of Cokedale, Judge J. W. Shenofer, George Pearl of Denver, Governor Ammons, R. H. Weitzel of Pueblo. It is expected that the four appointees will select James Dalrymple, the present chief coal mine inspector as the fifth member of the board.

DR. COOK ROUSED

No information can be obtained as to whether President Wilson intends to take any action on the letter he recently received from Dr. Frederick Cook of North pole fame, in which the explorer charges government officials with a "propaganda of character assassination." In his letter Dr. Cook asked that a commission of polar explorers be appointed to investigate his claim and that of Admiral Peary to the discovery of the North pole. He declared that the future of his children depended upon an "exposition of the unfair methods of the armchair geographers in Washington."

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

A force of men was sent to the petrified forests near Florissant to attempt to saw down a large petrified tree stump, said to be 40 feet in circumference and to weigh 100 tons, for removal to the museum at Denver.

At a meeting of the city council an invitation to join the G. A. R.'s procession on Decoration day was accepted, and it was decided to investigate the joining of the city hall to the firemen.

An Experience With a Mail Order House

Mrs. Johna buys a stove from a catalog house. You will be interested to know what a great saving she made. She looked through the catalog very carefully, and after reading over the description and studying the pictures well she selected a particular stove at $7.93-1-3. Of course, she sends her money with the order. At the end of 21 days she gets a notice from the railroad company that they have a shipment from Roe Ward & Co. She engages an expressman giving him $1.50, believing that sufficient to pay the freight charges, but the expressman comes back with the information that the charges are $2.35, and after making an additional trip the stove is promptly delivered, after this 21 days wait.

Mr. Johna on arriving home that evening is met by his economical housewife with the good news that the new stove is here. Now Mr. Johna is one of those kind of men who believes in seeing what he buys. Before he could see the new possession he must first remove the crate only to find that one of the front doors is broken squarely in two. This unpleasant discovery does not tend to make Mr. Johna feel especially pleasant. When he learns at the supper table of the 45 cents for freight charges and of the small additional 25 cents for delivery, he is getting almost to the place where he will begin saying to Mrs. Johna, "I told you so." The only thing to do now is to wait about setting up the stove until a new door can be had. This arrived promptly at the end of 10 days without any cost for the door and the express amounted to only 80 cents.

Two "Storms" Brewing

During the 10 days there has been a great change in the weather, and incidentally a storm has been brewing in the mind of Mr. Johna, which has almost reached its fury. When with everything ready he proceeds to blacken and set up the stove, merely because one leg won't stay in, he loses his temper and actually gets mad at the stove. "An inanimate thing," simply because it won't stand up. Now the matter of stove pipe is not a hard proposition to a man who knows how, but even a novice could easily see that Mr. Johna did not know how. At any rate, it became necessary to have a pair of tinners' shears, a piece of pipe eight inches long and some stove pipe wire.

Because Roe Ward & Co. are a little too far away, he goes down to Mr. Accommodating Merchant and buys the necessary pipe for 10 cents with the wire shears. Finally, now after 34 days' time the new stove is working but not in a very satisfactory way. Mrs. Johna writes to Roe Ward & Co., stating her reasons for complaint, and in reply receives a very nice letter, which explains how after careful investigation they found that the order clerk made a slight mistake and sent them the wrong stove. They express their regrets in the most profound way and offer to replace the stove if Mrs. Johna will return the one she has. When Mrs. Johna explains to Mr. Johna this most generous offer he does not seem to appreciate the generosity shown by Mr. Catalog. Evidently, by visions of his former experiences rise before his mind. In fact, his dreams have all been most remarkable experiences with stoves.

That Left Hind Leg

The pleasant evenings at home have not been made much pleasant by the presence of this stove that never would and maybe wouldn't heat at the right time. Mr. Johna did not exactly like the idea of having to frequently adjust that left hind leg of the stove. Because the stove grate cannot be found and because Mr. Johna still feels grouchy about putting up a stove, no definite decision has been made about having the stove replaced. In fact, the weather being extremely cold now, they might need the stove during the three weeks that it would take to make the exchange. All the time Mr. Johna could find he has been thinking about this stove transaction and Mrs. Prudence, who lives next door, tells about her new stove and relates her experience about this way.

Mrs. Prudence called at the store of Mr. Trustworthy to see a stove. A short examination and a simple explanation of the stoves convinced her that she wanted a particular kind. Mr. Trustworthy explained that although this stove costs a little more, yet in the end it would be economical to use each fortnight for the use of the newly organized Pilsen's Dancing club.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

May 21, 1893.

It was rumored that an electric trolley line would be built to connect the terminus of the line then in operation with the Iron Springs.

The Manitou school board decided to open a free kindergarten in the public schools.

City Engineer Pease of Manitou announced that the base of the balanced rock was slowly crumbling away.

because it would save more fuel and last longer than the cheaper kind.

Mrs. Prudence hesitated about purchasing the stove because she did not have sufficient money just then to pay for it. Mr. Trustworthy's remedy, so glad to accommodate her in the matter of a little credit that she decided then and there to have the stove.

Within two hours of her arrival home Mr. Trustworthy's men bring in the new stove, before 20 minutes have passed the stove is set and all ready to use. No one has lost their temper, the stove had been properly put together and well blackened before leaving the store. The men knew how to set up the stove as they had everything necessary at hand. Mrs. Prudence says that she has known Mr. Trustworthy for years, and that bright young man who sold her the stove, has proven himself a man of his word heretofore, and she is certain that Mr. Trustworthy's guarantee is good not alone on the stove, but on everything he sells.

Mr. Johna begins figuring and finds that their catalog stove cost just 29 cents more than the one Mrs. Prudence got, but the experience is worth something, and then there is to some people, but not to the Johnas, some sort of fascination about buying from a big eastern house.

The final chapter of this true-to-life story is not as unusual as real. Mrs. Prudence is a member of the hospital guild, and among others, Mr. Trustworthy is solicited for a subscription, which he generously makes. Mrs. Johna is also solicited for her church society and accepts Mr. Trustworthy's gift in a gracious way. "Of course" (but is it quite right?)

Former Pres. Taft Must

Submit to Vote Test

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 20.—Former President Taft is preparing to transfer his voting residence from Ohio to Connecticut. He will have his name put on the list of "voters to be made" and in September the board for admitting voters will pass on his qualifications after an examination which will include the applicant's reading, as usual, of any section of the constitution of the United States that the board may select. As President Taft must live in the state one year before he can vote, he will not be eligible for city election in the fall but will be qualified for the state election in 1914.

President Taft officiated last night as starter of the running and bicycle races of the New Haven Amateur Athletic association. He fired a pistol for both events and was loudly cheered.

MISS BAKER MEMBER

STATE LIBRARY BOARD

DENVER, May 20.—Governor Ammons today appointed Miss Lucy Baker of Colorado Springs a member of the state board of library commissioners, succeeding Alva Adams. Water commissioners were named as follows:
 District 10—Frederick D. Eubank of Fountain.
 District 17—C. M. Weybright of Rocky Ford.
 District 9-3—R. Cruise of Mount Morrison.

PARIS POLICE USE

HAND CANNON

From Popular Mechanics Magazine.
 The Paris police department is now equipped with what is considered an effective weapon for use in dislodging automobile bandits or other criminals who barricade themselves in houses and defy capture, which is a habit the Paris "Apaches" have developed quite extensively in recent years. In two recent affairs of this kind the hand cannon kept the police off several days.
 The weapon is a hand cannon, designed particularly for throwing bombs, which when they explode, will fill a building or room with suffocating gases sufficiently powerful to overcome the occupants. The cannon looks like a piece of iron pipe, and may be carried in the hands or slung over the shoulder like a rifle. It can also be used as a fire extinguisher, for throwing life lines into the upper windows of burning buildings, forcing doors open by hurling heavy projectiles and throwing grenades in war time.

Teacher and Pupil to Meet

Word was received here yesterday that Louis Persinger, Colorado Springs' own violinist, and former pupil of Eugene Loebe, will arrive here Friday afternoon, two weeks earlier than he had planned, and in plenty of time to hear the concert given by his friend and former master. The presence of two violinists of such rank at the same time will be noteworthy in the musical history of Colorado Springs, and the reunion between the two musicians will be full of pleasure.

In the New York Evening Post recently, the same amusing reminiscences of Mr. Persinger concerning his concert tour of the west and south. One was a gushing girl who said he played Beethoven's "Mignone" "perfectly lovely," and the newspaper critic in a southern town who wrote that his playing might not be as "classical" as Ysaye's, but it was more enjoyed by the audience, and the one in the west, who said he had a "wonderful technique, producing tones from deep viola to the lightest and faintest of capriccios." Then another wrote of his "mood ranging anywhere from the G string to playing up near the bridge, prestissimo." In one small town, he mentioned to the local manager that his violin was over 200 years old. The manager scratched his head a minute and then whispered: "Well, say, young man, don't say anything about it, and maybe the audience won't know the difference."

"In traveling about this year," Mr. Persinger said to a representative of the Musical Courier, "I believe I have solved one problem that has long bothered me—and that is, what becomes of all the talented music students. Such thousands and thousands of Americans flock to the leading European centers, remain there studying for a time and then with comparatively few exceptions, disappear. No one seems to know why or where, but they are rarely heard of again. Now I know. They go to the smaller cities and towns of the United States, settled down and teach, drill student orchestras, organize musical clubs, and let their own careful training lift the musical standard of the entire community. They are real pioneers, and must be considered as largely instrumental in making this a music-loving and music-knowing nation. It is amazing the number of ambitious music students there are at present in this country. I was asked to hear any number of them play, and pronounce a verdict at every stop."

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harrison Heath, who are at present living at the Antlers hotel, have made an announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to Henry Niel Shellenberger, one of the prominent young business men of the city. The marriage will take place in the early autumn.

Minerva Alumnae Meet

At the last meeting of the Minerva alumnae yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Florian Cajero, one of the honorary members, officers were elected for next year. Those who were chosen were: President, Mrs. B. B. Wolf; vice president, Miss Marjorie Pitman; secretary, Miss McClintock; treasurer, Miss Ethel Rice. After the business session the hostess served a delicious supper, and the guests spent an extremely pleasant social hour. Those who were present were Mrs. George M. Howe, Miss Janet Kampf, Miss Ethel Rice, Miss Ella Taylor, Miss Harmony Woodworth, Miss Edna Jacques, Miss Lillian Johnson, Miss Harriet Sater, Miss Addie Hemmenway, Miss Vesta Tucker, Miss Hester Frost, Miss Mary Randolph, Miss Adelaide Zimmerman, Miss Irma Gillilan, Miss Marjorie Pitman, Miss Ernestine Parsons, Miss Eva Canon, Miss Jeanette Scholz, Miss Matilda McAllister, Miss Anna Siskham, Miss McClintock.

Frohman's Will Visit Here

Mrs. Gustave Frohman, wife of one of the theatrical trio of New York city, with her son L. H. Frohman arrived here yesterday and they are staying at the Antlers hotel. During their stay they will spend much of the time seeing the Pike's Peak region on horseback and by motor. They will go from here to Portland, Ore., to join Mr. Frohman, who is conducting the northwestern tour of Llanche Bates.

APPLE SHIPMENT LAST YEAR SHOWED INCREASE

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The total commercial movement of apples from producing regions during 1912 was 30,443,314 bushels, the department of agriculture announces in its second report on the production. "Bumper crops in such states as Michigan, Missouri and Arkansas outweighed the decrease in production in such states as Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The quantity shipped out of the central states was 13,504,342 bushels, an increase of 58.2 per cent over 1911. The western states, including Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico shipped 8,709,128 bushels, an increase of 32.2 per cent. The eastern states, which include West Virginia, Vermont and all bordering on the Atlantic ocean, shipped 9,430,282 bushels, an increase of 7.7 per cent, but reports on the shipments were incomplete.

Healthy Baby Is Precious Blessing

To Make It Healthy and Keep It Healthy Use a Reliable Baby Laxative

DOROTHY JOHNSON

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life. To start with a good digestive apparatus is to start life without handicap. But as we cannot all have perfect working bowels we must go the next best thing and acquire them, or train them to work better. This can be done by the use of a laxative-remedy very highly recommended by a great many mothers. The remedy is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and has been on the market for two generations. It can be bought conveniently at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, and those who are already convinced of its merits buy the dollar size.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect, and gentler than any other little of it is required and its frequent use does not cause it to lose its effect, as is the case with so many other remedies.

Thousands can testify to its merits in constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headaches, etc., among them reliable people like Mrs. M. Johnson, 752 Dayton St., Kenosha, Wis. She is the mother of little Dorothy Johnson who was always in delicate health until her mother gave her Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Johnson says: "I never saw such rapid improvement in the health of anyone. Syrup Pepsin is a wonderful remedy and I shall never be without it again." Thousands keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it from infancy to old age. The users of Syrup Pepsin have learned to avoid cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and other harsh remedies for they do but temporary good and are a shock to any delicate system.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 411 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

DEFECTIVE TYPEWRITER

LEADS TO AN ARREST

DENVER, May 20.—Two defective letters on a typewriter formed the clue on which federal authorities today arrested E. A. Dickson on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails.

Four months ago, the proprietor of a moving picture theater reported to the police that the upholstery of one of the seats in the playhouse had been slashed with a knife and that he had received an abusive letter threatening more damage. The offense was repeated. Then other picture houses became victims of the mysterious vandalism.

The postoffice inspectors were notified and began work on the case. They found that all the letters were written on a typewriter on which the capital "B" was clogged and the top of the small "n" was flat.

Then, by painstaking observation they determined at what mail box the letters were posted. An inspector was placed at the box to take out every letter deposited and examine the subscription.

Last night an envelope showed the defective "B" and "n" and the man who mailed it was followed and arrested.

He gave his name as "E. A. Dickson" and when arraigned before United States Commissioner Hindsdale today, he pleaded not guilty.

TROOP MOVEMENT ONLY

CARRYING OUT OLD ORDER

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Secretary Garrison pointed out today that the movement of troops from Fort Slocum, N. Y., and other eastern posts to the Pacific coast was being made under an order issued March 15 by former Secretary Sifonson, which directed immediate recruiting of 2,000 men to bring the Hawaii garrison up to its full strength. Army officers say it is difficult to secure recruits on the Pacific coast and that it is necessary to enlist the men in the eastern and middle states. The order for 2,000 recruits has not nearly been filled and war department officials say the movement will go on for some time.

In view of the bill now pending in the United States senate for the coinage of "half cents" it is interesting to note that the United Kingdom coined in the year 1910, 2,588,000 farthings; in 1911, 5,194,800 farthings; and in 1912, 7,669,760 farthings.

OLD GUARD REALIZES PARTY REUNION NOW IS IMPOSSIBLE FEAT

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Stripped of all externals, the question which Messrs. Cummins, Hadley, Borah and the rest of those interested in the recent Chicago conference are asking Messrs. Barnes, Root, Penrose, Crane, Devine, Stevenson, and the other "Old Guard" politicians who have absolute control of the party machinery, is whether or not they are willing now to confess that they were wrong in their handling of the Republican national convention of 1912. To be specific.

Mr. Root is said to confess that he personally stole two votes for Taft from Massachusetts.

Messrs. Crane, Penrose, Barnes, Stevenson and the rest, are asked to confess that they stole two votes from California, 14 votes from Washington, six from Arizona, 26 from Texas, and so on.

G. O. P. Machine on Grill.

And the whole Republican machine, little and big, is asked to confess that it stole the nomination of the presidency from the rank and file of the party and gave it to Mr. Taft whom the party disowned.

How much time, effort and money have these real Republican leaders devoted since the perpetration of the theft at Chicago to justification, defense, praise, and denial of that crime? How many printed pages have they emitted in support of their work? How many thousands of the people's dollars have they spent in postal transport of such documents or congressional franking?

Will Root confess? Will Crane make the desired admission? Will Penrose seek the mourners' bench? Will "Big Steve," alias "The Beast," and Tom Devine, Scott, Williams, Nicholas Murray Butler, and the rest of them display repentance? "Bill" Barnes' snort of disgust is the answer.

"Uncle Joe" Responds.

That little knight errant of Republicanism, the Honorable Joseph Gurney Cannon, of Danville, Ill., has already made public response for himself and those who stand with him to the proposition of the recent Chicago conference of "near-Progressives" for a reorganization and regeneration of the Republican party. The day after the conference closed, "Uncle Joe" went over to Terre Haute with a hundred supporters from his district, to talk to a gathering of Indiana Republicans about party politics. This is what he said:

"The proposal that the Republican national committee call a convention to change the basis of representation in the national nominating convention is not well considered. The convention in 1915 will have full power to provide for a basis of representation not only for future conventions, but for its own proceedings."

"Political parties are voluntary organizations. These gentlemen have been meeting in Chicago voluntarily. Do they want a law passed for other people to read people out of a party? It is not in the power of these gentlemen to reorganize the Republican party."

"Uncle Joe" Cannon's comment on the Borah-Cummins-Hadley proposition for reorganization of the Republican machine is brief to the point, and conclusive. "I am entirely satisfied," he says, "with the Republican party without an adjective."

McKinley of Same Mind.

Former Congressman William B. McKinley, of Illinois, who was the titular manager of the malodorous campaign for the renomination of Taft last year and who lost his seat in congress as a result, is another of the "real" Republican leaders who do not feel the need of party reorganization. He has already announced his intention to put the temper of the people of his district to another test next year by running again for congress.

"I should run," he said, recently, "even if I were positive that I should be beaten, but I don't believe I shall be."

The standpat Republicans of Kansas have called a meeting to be held in Topeka on June 3 which they are advertising as a "harmony" meeting and the ostensible purpose of which is to bring about, if possible, a union of Progressives and Republicans. The effort has been under way for several weeks and has met with no favorable response whatever from Progressives. Despite this fact, the standpatters have endeavored to create the impression that a number of Progressives would attend the meeting and would join in plans to effect the union so heartily desired by the Republicans. The only attention which Kansas Progressives have paid to this Republican scheme was in the assembling in Topeka on May 12 of 60 of the prominent Progressive leaders—men and women—of the state who unanimously adopted resolutions declaring against the participation by Progressives in the Republican meeting and also that "there is no doubt whatever that the Progressive party in Kansas will nominate candidates for governor, United States senator, congressmen in every district, and a complete list of state, county and township officers in 1914."

Dolley Denounces Plan.

Special significance attaches to this action from the presence in the conference of J. N. Dolley, the Republican state chairman and author of the famous Kansas "Blue Sky" law. Mr. Dolley made a vigorous speech, denouncing the proposed "get-together meeting" and declared that the standpatters in the state have nothing in common with the Progressive party. He urged the Progressives to pursue the path marked out last fall, fighting for progressive principles and letting the standpat Republicans go it alone.

"These old machine men," he said, "cannot realize that a new life has entered politics; a new thing is being enacted. They believe yet that the people are interested only in tradition and party names. They think that the voters of Kansas have no other thought of politics than that there is an office to barter for."

"The Progressives have nothing to do with that old theory of politics. If they did have, then there would be no need of a Progressive party. You have a fight to make which the old bosses like Albaugh and Mulvane and Curtis and that crowd cannot understand. Go ahead and make the fight. I firmly believe that the Progressives will sweep Kansas in the next election, and that not even a combination of Democrats and standpat Republicans can beat them."

Hard Blow to Standpatters.

Mr. Dolley's denunciation of the standpatters is the hardest blow the Republicans in Kansas have received since the split of last year. He conducted the fight for the Republican ticket last fall and the standpatters were counting on him, because of his well known progressive ideas, to bring the Progressives back to the party.

The standpatters got another jolt through the presence in this conference of Joseph Mercer, chairman of the Chase county Progressive committee. The standpatters had been advertising that Mr. Mercer had deserted the Progressives and would return to the Republicans. Mr. Mercer told the conference that he was proud to be chairman of the Progressive committee in his county and that he knew of no Progressive who had the slightest idea of attending the "get-together" meeting in Topeka or of making any other effort to go back to the standpatters. Telegrams were received by the con-

HEAVYWEIGHT MAT STARS TO MEET TONIGHT IN THRILLER

Colorado and Kansas champion heavyweights will meet on the mat tonight at the opera house in what is expected to be the hardest fought and best exhibition of the wrestling game witnessed here for years. Frank DuCray the speedy grappler from Grand Junction, who has defeated every Colorado wrestler he ever met, and Charles Delivuk, the Austrian champion of Kansas, both finished their training yesterday. Delivuk arrived early yesterday morning and took a run to Manitou before breakfast. After breakfast he raced to Manitou again and says he is in the finest of condition. DuCray has been working out in the city for the last 10 days and says he never felt better.

To pick the winner in tonight's match is difficult. The men met a year ago in Grand Junction and Delivuk won after DuCray had been thrown from the platform on his head, which stunned him. The Kansas matman has the advantage in weight, but not in cleverness. Both have had experience in the game.

CLEVELAND, 10; WASHINGTON, 9.

CLEVELAND, May 20.—Cleveland won today's game in the ninth inning, scoring three runs and beating Washington, 10 to 5. Each team hit freely. Cleveland, using five pitchers, and Washington two.

In the ninth Chapman singled and scored on a double by Morgan, while Cleveland scored three runs on a double by Morgan, a single by Chapman and a home run by Morgan. Jackson was forced out at home. Morgan's infield hit, the bases still being filled. Batting for O'Neil, Carr hit a two-bagger that sent in two runs and gave Cleveland the game.

Washington scored a hit in the first three innings on hits off Mitchell and Blanding, and Cleveland's errors. In the second, Jackson's throw struck a bat and bounded away, three runs scoring. Cleveland walked three.

On President Johnson's order, Umpire Dineen hit Altrick off the bench, claiming that Washington exceeded their limit of 25 men in uniform.

DETROIT, 3; PHILADELPHIA, 7.

DETROIT, May 20.—"Ty" Cobb, not content with hitting twice for extra bases, walking on two occasions and stealing home once, stretched a base hit into a double in the tenth inning when Daley was slow in fielding the ball, and brought home the winning run today when Brown walked (batter's strike) and High in succession. The final count was Detroit 3, Philadelphia 7, and the contest, from opening to close was one succession of thrilling situations.

Apparently beaten when they came to bat in the eighth, the Tigers drove in four runs with four hits which placed them one run ahead of Philadelphia. The Athletics then evened matters up when two men out and nobody on base. Olding put the ball over the left field wall for a home run.

Cobb's hit in the tenth was a low drive to center. Veatch bunted and was thrown out. Then Manager Mack ordered Brown to bunt both Gahne and Moriarty to fill the bases and set the stage for a possible double play. After this was carried out, Manager Jennings ordered High to bat for Stange. The defensive error quickly came (four balls and the game was over).

Cobb's steal of home occurred in the third inning.

Packard, who took Fromme's place, was very effective in the home team being retired in order in four successive innings. Alexander held his opponents down to five hits and did not give a pass. Cincinnati escaped a shutout in the sixth inning, when Bates scored on a miff of his liner by Luderus and Tinker's double.

CENTRAL WINS SOUTHERN TITLE, DEFEATING TERRORS, 7 TO 6, IN THRILLING CONTEST

McGraw of Visitors Fans 15 but Slumps in Seventh and Score Is Tied; Steal Home Fatal

Bob McGraw's clutch delivery was too much for the Terrors today and Central High school of Pueblo won the championship of the southern interscholastic division by defeating the locals by the score of 7 to 6. It was a weird exhibition of the great national game, featured by a hard rain storm, attempts to steal home, a sensational tying of the score by the locals in the lucky seventh and a desperate attempt to put over the winning run.

McGraw, with the exception of the seventh inning, when five runs scored, had the locals guessing, striking out 15 men and scrapping for every available point of advantage. Forrest Deal, who faced him in poor form, having little speed, giving five bases on balls and being saved by sensational fielding on many occasions.

Schneider Steals Home.

Until the seventh inning the Terrors' efforts to score were pitiful and had it not been for Schneider's daring theft of the home plate in the first the Brown would not have scored. This white-stockinged shortstop, whose work is improving daily until he can be counted one of the classic men in high school circles, got to first in the opener on an error by Farlow. He then deliberately stole second and third. While McGraw never expected a steal home, Schneider ran in on his worklike delivery and sliding about 10 feet got to the plate just as the ball reached Cullip. From that time on until the seventh, McGraw struck out two men an inning, as regular as clockwork.

In the seventh the locals began to worry Bob McGraw and he lost his control. V. Deal opened with a terrific liner to center; the visiting left fielder, who dropped the ball. McCrory then singled and stole second. Worth lined out to Farlow and Smith worked McGraw for a base on balls. Tillman saw the bases full before him and hammered a hot one to Davidson who whipped to the plate, expecting a force out. Deal crossed the pan just as Kuhn caught the ball. Kuhn was straddling the plate, not touching it and the run counted. Shippee struck out and with two down McGraw lined out a double to center field. McGraw and Smith scored and Tillman and Schneider did likewise. After Whiteberger had smashed another two-bagger, five runs over, Forrest Deal struck out.

McGraw scored the first run for the visitors in the second after Shippee furnished his cutter. Smith then made two errors successively and Bobby scored. In the second two more runs scored for the Blue. Coates got on when V. Deal dropped a pop. May singled, Davidson flew out to V. Deal and McGraw hit a hard one to center field, scoring two men.

The rain began to fall gently but firmly in the fourth and Deal lost control of the ball. He walked Humphrey and Dyke and Kuhn scored them with a single. Three singles in the sixth gave the visitors another run.

After the Terrors had tied the score Cannon opened with a triple to right

D. AND B. SCHOOL HAS EIGHTH ANNUAL MEET

Young athletes at the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind held their eighth annual track and field meet yesterday afternoon at Palmer field and a number of good records were made by the competing students. John Thomas threw the baseball 250 feet, winning from Charles Allen by two feet. The three-mile handicap bicycle race proved the thrilling event of the day. Tom Matthews winning first, Frank Love and Foster Gilbert, scratch men, made the best time.

Other events and winners were—100-yard dash (handicap)—Ernest Lewis, first.
100-yard dash (free for all)—John Carson, first.
50-yard dash (free for small boys)—Wagner, first.
Shot put—Harry Metcalfe, first.
220-yard dash—Ernest Lewis, first.
50-yard sack race—L. Rayline, first.
Hammer throw—Powell Wilson, first.
580-yard run (handicap)—Ernest Lewis, first.
One-mile run—Charles Allen, first.
Relay race won by Foster, Gilbert, Sam Martinez, Willie Williams and Ernest Lewis.

The rain interfered with several other events.

ANDERSON IS VICTOR IN 12TH

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—Joe Mandot of New Orleans, was knocked out in the twelfth round of his scheduled 20-round fight here tonight with "Bud" Anderson of Vancouver, B. C. Mandot was not knocked down in the final round, but he was "out on his feet."

He was clearly insensible. Referee Ertson, seeing the condition of the southerner, stopped the fight with Mandot staggering blindly about the ring and held up Anderson's hand in token of victory.

Mandot was unable to land a blow in the first round. In the second, Anderson punished him severely with vicious rights to the body. Mandot stayed away from the hard-hitting northerner in the third, but managed to put several light blows to Anderson's face. Mandot scored with a hard right to the jaw as the bell rang.

In the fourth and fifth rounds Anderson played Mandot's own game, long range fighting and more than held his own.

Mandot took the aggressive in the sixth and tried repeatedly to put Anderson away with a punch, but every intended knockout blow was cleverly evaded while Anderson found further opportunity to batter the southerner's ribs with rights.

In the tenth round Anderson rocked Mandot's head with a right and left, and when the southerner went into a clinch and Anderson played his right to the stomach with telling effect.

Anderson forced the fighting at the beginning of the twelfth and staggered Mandot with rights and lefts to the face and body. When a terrific right to the jaw made Mandot wilt, apparently helpless, but still on his feet, Referee Ertson stopped the fight to save him from a knockout.

BRITTON GETS BEST OF MURPHY IN 10 ROUNDS

KENOSHA, Wis., May 20.—Jack Britton of Chicago, bested Eddie Murphy of Boston, in a 10-round fight here tonight. Murphy showed superiority in only one round, the third.

In the eighth the going saved him. Murphy came back strong in the ninth and held that round even.

In the tenth, Britton began leading for the first time in the battle and Murphy took a lot of punishment.

PRINCETON DEFEATS YALE

PRINCETON, May 20.—The Princeton tennis team season ended today with a clean slate by defeating Yale here this afternoon seven matches to two.

GUNBOAT SMITH WINS ON DECISION OVER WILLARD

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Fifty pounds advantage in weight, six inches in height and a reach like the arm of a giant, could not win tonight for Jesse Willard from Gunboat Smith, who earned a referee's decision in the last round of a 20-round bout. The heavier punch of the more experienced and aggressive veteran counted for more in the result than the bulk and strength of his opponent.

It was 9:50 o'clock before the going started. Smith and Willard, on their way. The first round was uneventful, but toward the end of the second Smith landed fiercely with right and left to the jaw and Willard spat blood as he went to his corner. The referee took a long lead in the third, landing several hard swings to the jaw and Willard appeared distressed. The round closed with the Kansas on the defensive.

Willard began punting to the gunner's stomach in the fourth round, rushing Smith to the ropes and varied his assault with a smash to the nose that brought blood. In the succeeding round he continued his spurt, at one time almost putting Smith through the ropes. Smith fought back savagely, but his blows were ill-timed. The next round was tame, the Kansas not following up his advantage.

There was much clinching in the seventh and Referee Selig was kept busy separating the pair. Both showed up perceptibly and put until the tenth round, when a fierce mugging resumed. Smith then split the Kansas's ear with a right swing and blood flowed in a stream from the wound. The advantage at this stage was with the gunner.

Smith pecked away at Willard's ear in the eleventh and the crowd jeered the giant, who clinched repeatedly to avoid punishment. A left to the chin in the next period staggered Willard, faking for a knockout, the bigger man now prancing around the bigger man, landing frequently, but seemingly without effect behind his blows. In the thirteenth he hit Willard almost at will, the Kansas seemingly content to back away and cover as best he could.

Willard opened the fourteenth round with an unexpected onslaught that took Smith unawares and landing a left to the jaw that dazed him. Smith fought back smartly and lasted out the round; his left eye was closed when he hit his corner in the fifteenth, but in the next round he showed up stronger, holding the Kansas even. Honors were even in the seventeenth and eighteenth, which were featured by heavy punching. In the nineteenth Smith again opened Willard's ear, outfighting the giant at close range.

LIPTON CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

LONDON, May 20.—The New York Yacht club today, cabled to the Royal Ulster Yacht club, definitely accepting Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America's cup. The races will take place in September, 1914, under the New York Yacht club's present rules as to measurement, time allowance and racing rules.

Sir Thomas considers that the conditions of acceptance of his challenge by the New York Yacht club are a great victory for him. He says they will enable him to build a good sea-worthy boat. It is still a question whether Sir Thomas will be allowed to tow his yacht across the Atlantic.

"It does not really matter much," he said, "whether I am allowed to tow or not. Any way I should not want to tow except in the case of a head wind or a dead calm."

Asked whether he thought the defenders would meet him with a bigger boat than the challenger, he replied: "That does not give me the least worry. They have always treated me in the most generous and sportsmanlike spirit."

FIRE CHIEF ILL—Fire Chief P. D. McCarlin, who has been ill at his home since last Saturday with asthma, is showing, but little improvement, and while his illness is not serious, it will be several days before he will be able to be on duty. This is the first time in 26 years that "Patsy" has had to call a doctor.

IMPROVING—Ada McAllister, who sustained injuries as the result of being kicked in the head by a horse at Broad last week, is recovering but is still unable to speak. The injury partially paralyzed her brain and although she is able to understand what is said to her she cannot reply. It is believed, however, that she will recover from this within a few weeks.

MARRIAGE LICENSES—Two couples were granted marriage licenses here yesterday, as follows: John W. Drake, aged 32, and Zenyrra Guzman, 27, both of this city, and Rud W. Rewes, 35, Rocky Ford, and Mabel Newhill, 22, Denver. Miss Guzman was divorced in this city August 28, 1911, on grounds of cruelty, and was granted the use of her maiden name. Rewes was divorced in West Plains, Mo., in 1909, on grounds of desertion.

The Why and Wherefore of "Home Industry Week"

A Question for Every Business Man, Every Taxpayer, Every Resident to Answer--"If Everything Used in the Pikes Peak Region Was Made Here--as Far as Possible--How Many More Industries Would There Be, How Many More Pay Rolls and How Much More Money Would Be in Circulation in This City?"

Colorado Springs is not an industrial center, where the smoke of factories clouds the air. The region has developed along lines of scenic and climatic advantages. BUT--

Do you know that there are 150 manufacturers in the region?

Do you know that there are 35 lines of manufacturing represented here?

Home Industry Week, now in progress under the direction of the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, is probably teaching you a lesson. If it isn't it should be. Take a walk in the business section and study the exhibits that have been placed in the merchants' show windows, and then you will realize how much you haven't known about what is being made for you to use--right here in your city. Colorado Springs has a highly developed case of civic pride and it is believed that the truths of Home Industry week, with the correlative idea of trading at home, will bear much fruit.

WHY HAVE "HOME INDUSTRY WEEK?"

The merchants division and the committee on trade and commerce of the Chamber of Commerce recently came to the conclusion that the people of Colorado Springs were not well acquainted with the home industries of the region and started the campaign of education in the manner being followed out. In the same connection comes a "Trade at Home" feature that has been brought up on several occasions as one way to show civic loyalty.

The people knew that some things were being made here but did not realize how many articles that they used every day in their homes and business are being manufactured here. It was to bring this out that plans for the present week were formulated.

The industries of the Pikes Peak region are capitalized at $11,574,000. Payrolls amounting to $100,000 a month are paid exclusive of the coal mines and mills, which increase this amount to the neighborhood of $200,000. Working conditions in the industries are excellent and the average annual wage being $874, as compared with $500 in Pueblo and $589 in Denver. Working conditions, such as sanitation, safety appliances, and working hours are excellent, ranking much higher than in many other cities of the same character as Colorado Springs.

WHERE THE FACTORIES ARE LOCATED.

The largest "industrial" district in Colorado Springs may be generally located as that part of the city lying south of Huerfano street and west of Tejon street. The whole southwest quarter of the city is to a great extent such a district. Its development as such is illustrated by one interesting effect. It has had. The Lincoln school, situated at the southwest corner of Vermijo and Cascade avenues, required 10 to 15 years ago a corps of six teachers and the principal, and occupied an annex in addition to the main building. Later, with the upgrowth of the industrial district around it, the number of pupils dwindled and the annex building was moved to another school. When the school board decided to introduce manual training in the grade schools, it was found possible to locate the shops for all the schools of the city at this building, so few had become the regular pupils there.

WHAT SECTION INCLUDES.

This section includes the grain warehouses, the lumber yards, several coal yards and ice plants, two broom factories, two creameries, the packing houses, the commission houses, the plant for the manufacture of artificial gas and one of the substations of the electric light company, the car barns, shops and power plant of the street car company, two foundries, the freight yards of the Denver & that of the coal mines, north and northeast of the city. This third district is cut by three railroads, the Denver & Rio Grande, the Santa Fe and the Rock Island.

PRODUCTS ARE VARIED.

The manufactures of the region are varied. Only those who have made a close analysis during the preparations for the present campaign can realize this statement. There are no large industries but there are many small ones who are planning to increase their capacity to a great extent if they receive the support of the people of the city.

Among the articles manufactured here are pottery, extracts, art metal novelties, concrete pipe, plumbing, etc., brick, craft jewelry, butter and creamery products, potato chips, auto lamps, lumber and mill work, canned chili, candies and confectionery, trout flies, meat products, castings, furnaces, stoves, mine machinery, cuts and half-tones, leather goods and trunks, bottled goods, mineral waters, bakery goods, cigars, tents and awnings, peanut products, brooms, buttons, furniture and furniture polish, monuments, rugs, electric signs, coal chutes, freight cars, freight cars, optical goods, tin, copper and zinc goods, heat and power.

One of these other districts stretches along the line of the Colorado Midland railroad to the west and northwest of the larger district. Another is to the south and southeast of Colorado Springs, partly along the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and Santa Fe railroads, and a third such district is lumber, brick and iron castings, etc., are among the most important, from the standpoint of products and payroll.

COAL INDUSTRY IMPORTANT.

The whole northern half of El Paso county has been found to be practically one great coal field, and this field is a part of the same great deposits of coal as are the fields in northern Colorado.

The coal beds near Colorado Springs have a 5 per cent dip to the north, east, and, as the surface of the ground there is dipping the other way, to the west and southwest, the coal deposits should naturally outcrop. This outcrop does not, however, actually take place, the edge of the coal layer being covered with sand and other deposits.

Because of this lay of the coal deposits, two methods of mining are open to the local operators. They can start at the outcrop and mine along the slope of the coal, or they may go farther back, sink a shaft to the coal deposits, and mine from there. Most of the local mines are shaft mines.

NINTH MINE PROJECTED.

The local operating coal mines are now eight in number, with a ninth projected. This projected coal mine is the farthest north of any in this locality, being about a mile north of Pike View. The coal there is said to be of large extent, and some of the best lignite ever found in Colorado.

LUMBER COMPANIES ARE BUSY.

There are four large lumber companies here, the Newton, Crissey, Fowler, Pennell and El Paso lumber companies, and all run mills in connection with their business. All are located in the southwest quarter of the city.

These mills make interior fixtures, sash, doors, and fixtures not carried in stock that are necessary to their trade. In their work, the local mills have to pay practically the highest wages in the country, 34 on an eight-hour day as compared with eastern wages of from $2 to $3.50 on a nine-hour day, but turn out some of the best work in the country. These mills are some of the best equipped in the state.

The trade of the four companies is mostly local, in building and repair work, but they do some wholesale business to small towns nearby, within a radius of 40 to 50 miles.

"CAN MAKE BRICK FOR 300 YEARS."

There are three brick plants in the section, the Mount Washington Brick plant, southeast of Colorado Springs, operated by the National Clay Products company, the Schlinginger Bros. plant, in west Colorado Springs, and the plant of the Hill Brick & Tile company, near the Portland mill. The National Clay Products company owns Mount Washington, a hill more than 100 feet high and covering an area of about 10 acres. This hill is composed entirely of the finest shale, making the supply of material for these plants practically inexhaustible. Those in charge say that they can make 20,000 brick daily for the next 300 years. Most of the brick made at this plant are used in this region, but many shipments are made to the mining districts, as well as to other points in Colorado and western Kansas and Nebraska.

VAN BRIGGLE POTTERY UNIQUE.

The Van Briggle pottery, which is located on West Tenth street, at Monument Valley park, makes art pottery that are widely known, and is the first tile, terra cotta and garden pottery. The glazes and other raw materials used are obtained near this city, and the products made are sold in many of the western and southern states.

FIFTY FREIGHT CARS BUILT LAST YEAR.

The shops of the Colorado Midland railroad are located just outside the southeast part of Colorado City. Roundhouses are there, and also the shops of the bridge building department, although the latter are doing little work but repairing at the present time. The main shops are paying much attention now to repairing and building freight cars. Some 50 new freight cars were built there last year, and others were repaired. No passenger cars are built here, but much remodeling and improving of the rolling stock now in use is being done. The bulk of the locomotive repairing for the line is also done here.

PACKING COMPANIES TO HAVE NEW PLANTS.

The industrial enterprises developed here that are directly or indirectly connected with the food supply of the city are many. There are four large firms handling wholesale meats, three that ship the meat in and one that has a slaughter house near this city. The three firms who have only storage plants here are Swift & Co., at 100 West Lincoln street, the Armour Packing company, at 102 West Cucharsa street, and the Colorado Packing & Provision company, at 123 South Sierra Madre street. Both Swift & Co. and the Armour Packing company are building new plants at a considerable cost this spring.

IRON MOULDERS BUSY.

Companies doing foundry and machine work can be numbered among the busiest in the entire region. The Hassell Iron works, the Colorado Ingot Iron Pipe & Flume company, the Progressive Stove & Furnace company, at present, writing are working to catch up with orders and expect to have the busiest season in years. Iron castings of all kinds, patterns, stoves, furnaces, repair work, and machine shop work are all done by these companies. The Modern Steel & Iron works has started recently and plans to take up manufacturing in the future.

THREE ICE PLANTS.

There are three companies making ice in this city, the Union Ice & Coal company, with its plant on Vermijo street, west of Sawatch street, the Lake George Ice company, with its local plant on Moreno avenue, west of Sierra Madre street, and the El Paso Ice & Coal company, with its plant on West Cucharsa street. The Lake George Ice company cuts natural ice at Lake George, Colo., about 115 miles west of this city on the Colorado Midland railroad. The local plant is for storage purposes only. The other two companies make artificial ice, using the ammonia process in freezing it.

BROOMS AND STREET CARS.

Colorado Springs should be well supplied with brooms being manufactured here annually. The two factories are the P. Bechtel Broom factory, 517 West Huerfano street, and the Colorado Springs Broom Manufacturing company, at 631 West Huerfano street. All the street cars used on the lines of the Colorado Springs & Interurban railway are manufactured at the shops in this city. During the last few years 26 cars have been built here, 13 closed passenger cars, 10 passenger trailers, three open passenger cars, being included in this list. The system now has 80 cars.

THINGS TO EAT AND DRINK.

Getting closer to the everyday life of the people are the things eatable and drinkable and wearable. Meats and their products, bakery goods, creamery and dairy products, potato chips, canned chili, mineral water and bottled nonalcoholic goods, confectionery, and cigars are all made right here in Colorado Springs. Having a special market for novelties, there are a number of firms here who turn out quantities of such goods. Art metal pottery, and leather goods and native stones are produced by manufacturers whose fame have become nation-wide.

The Case Against the Out-of-Town Buyer; Practical Reasons for Trading at Home

"From a patriotic standpoint, it is good to spend your money at home," said Joseph G. Dern of the Dern Tea and Coffee Co. "From an economic standpoint, it is the only thing to do, because every time you help the other fellow you help yourself, be you property owner, business man or wage earner."

The property owner hopes for increased value and keeping his stores and houses tenanted, which depends much on home prosperity. With the business man, the trade goes up and down in accordance with home prosperity. With wage earners, the chances for steady employment and the wages earned depend on home prosperity.

At a low estimate local business would increase from 10 to 20 per cent if all purchases now made out of the city were made of local people. This increase would mean many more people employed, many more homes and stores tenanted and better salaries and wages in many cases. Home trading is the same stimulus to a town that unions are to wage earners or corporations are to financial interests.

Now as to the difference between local and outside prices--the whole question is a matter of method. From the local merchant the consumer demands service, credit and merchandise. Usually he buys in small quantities and if for any reason, imaginary or otherwise, he is not pleased, he simply notifies the merchant, who comes and gets the goods and the transaction is ended as far as the consumer is concerned. Of course, this privilege, which is often abused, puts the local merchant in a place where he, in self-defense, delivers the best goods he can obtain.

From the outside merchant the consumer demands, and gets just one thing--merchandise, generally of an indifferent quality because the chances for return are slight and that of making a regular customer equally as remote. The difference in cost of merchandise between the outside and local merchants is slight but the cost of

$500,000 Being Spent Here for New Buildings

Dovetailing with the present campaign for trading at home and becoming better acquainted with local manufacturers, is the present boom in building that promises to eclipse any summer season for many years. More than a half million dollars is being spent in the construction of new buildings in Colorado Springs. One hundred thousand dollars are being spent in Manitou and Colorado City for new buildings and dwellings.

All this money is Pikes Peak region money, made here, and it will be spent here. The majority of all the large contracts have gone to Colorado Springs builders, who are employing local labor and are using local products in their work, and the money spent for these is finding its way into the exchequers of local merchants.

Among the buildings being constructed are the following:
First unit Myron Stratton Home for the Poor, $150,000
Colorado college men's building, 100,000
T. W. C. A. home, 75,000
New High school building, 60,000
Hollywood Creamery building, 20,000

Finest Trout Flies in the World Made by Springs Man Who Studies Habits of Fish

This summer, when you get out in the stream in the heart of the mountains, with your rod and tackle ready, your creel yawning for the trout whose gameness has made Colorado fishing famous, your blood tingling with excitement at the first cast, halt a moment, and examine your fly, whether it be a

"coachman," a "gray nat" or a "gray hackle." If your fly is a Howarth fly, your chances are good for hooking the big fellow that feeds around the bend under the big rock. Not only that, but you are patronizing home industry.

Right here in Colorado Springs are made the most famous trout flies in the world. Flies that catch fish are flies that make good, and Howarth flies--made in Colorado Springs--are of that variety.

Sam Howarth, of 517 North Pine street is the genius that assists many a sportsman in hooking the speckled beauties. Howarth has probably the most peculiar and, to the fisherman, the most interesting factory in the entire region. Many years ago, in England, Howarth learned the art of making trout flies. He learned under some of the best imitation-bait makers in the world, and he learned his lesson well.

He came to the United States some years ago and lived at Florissant, on the Colorado Midland railroad, for several years. At Florissant, near some famous trout streams, Howarth, who had made a hobby of wrapping flies, began to experiment. He made hundreds of flies for experimental purposes, and day after day he cast the flies over the riffles and into the calm pools to attract the big rainbow or natives that inhabit the streams. He found out what colors and what arrangements of wings and tail attracted, and he kept the secrets to himself.

He has been making flies for years, and sportsmen who know ask for his flies because they realize that he knows what the fish will jump at. The flies are made generally out of four substances, namely: the gut leader, the hook, the feathers or other material for the wing and body and the silken thread for wrapping.

Howarth never allows anyone to watch him wrap flies. He has the secret and is keeping it. Howarth takes orders a year ahead of time and turns out about 100,000 flies annually, working all winter on them.

In addition to having won medals in England for trout flies, Howarth took the gold medal for first honors at the St. Louis exposition. The flies he entered at this exhibition at St. Louis are now on display in the Powell-Doner Sporting Goods company's window on Pikes Peak avenue.

BAMBOOS AS WATER PITCHERS

From the Wide World Magazine. In the Hawaiian Islands the natives carry their supply of water about with them in long bamboo tubes, the joints of which have been knocked out. This may be seen making their way to four by springs with the family "water jug." They patiently fill the long hollow in the bamboo with water, blocking up the end with a wooden plug. This is then carried to the hut, and lasts the family for several days, keeping cool and sweet in the receptacle. The larger bamboo trunks are used in the same way as receptacles for storing various household commodities.

PUT BLAME ON THE STARS

From the New York Tribune.
CALCUTTA—A great deal of talk, some indignation, and much amusement have been caused here by an incident which occurred at the marriage of the heir of the Maharaja of Jaspore to the daughter of the Maharaja of Balarampore. To this ceremony a large number of European guests, including the lieutenant governor of the United Provinces, had been invited. They assembled at Balarampore two days before the date fixed for the arrival of the bridegroom.

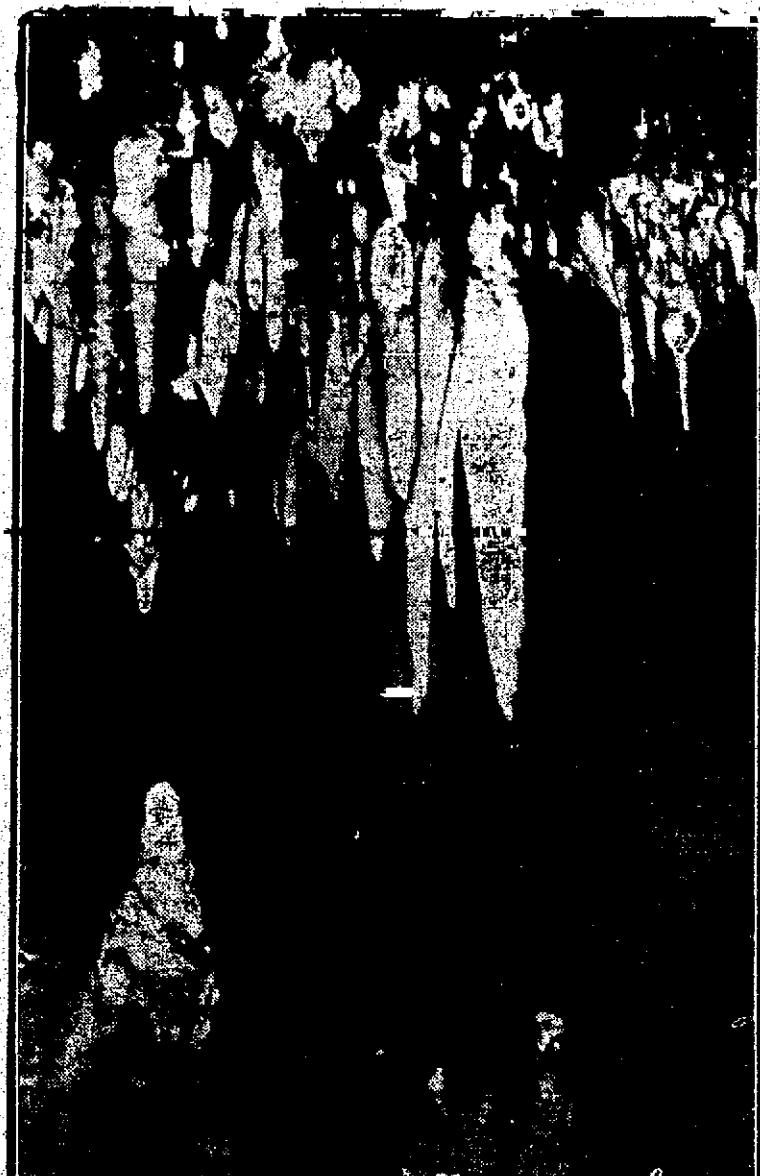

Up to the eve of the wedding day, however, the bridegroom had not arrived. One hundred and twenty elephants with richest trappings of silver and gold, troops and officials were at the railway station to receive him—yet he tarried. It was announced that he was ill.

On the morning after the wedding day the bridegroom appeared. In the meanwhile the carefully prepared program had been altered from hour to hour. The culmination of this course of what was believed to be studied insult came when it was announced that the wedding procession would not start for an hour after the time fixed. The result was that the lieutenant governor did not go to the ceremony. Great indignation prevailed for a time, but this has now been changed into amusement by the explanation which the Maharaja of Jaspore has published. After stating that his son, the bridegroom, was ill, he says:

"For reasons which are more easily intelligible to an Indian than to a European I was helpless. Till 9 p. m. according to my priests and astrologers, there was an inauspicious time—what they call Bhadra—and till then preparations for the procession could not be commenced."

THE SHIELDS-METZLER Grocery Co.

One of the Widest-Known Exclusively Wholesale Institutions in the West

The Shields-Morley Grocery Company was incorporated February 5, 1910, by the late Messrs. John G. Shields and F. H. Morley. The company was first capitalized at $50,000, and later, in keeping with the growth of Colorado Springs and the state of Colorado, the capitalization was increased to $150,000.

On August 7, 1912, The Shields-Morley Grocery Company was succeeded by The Shields-Metzler Grocery Company. The present officers of the company are: Franklin T. Metzler, President; William H. Barry, Vice President; John Oliver Spicer, Treasurer; James M. Metzler, Secretary. The firm's business extends practically all over the southern and western portions of the state. The present owners and officers of the company were all associated with the old company for a number of years and they have always adopted liberal policies and are held in the highest esteem by the manufacturers, competitive jobbers and retailers with whom they do business.

It has been the policy of this house to assist materially any public work that is being done for the upbuilding of their city, county and state. They do a large business in eastern Colorado. Most of this territory belongs naturally to Colorado Springs. They have given great assistance to the Chamber of Commerce in their work in the dry farming district. During the past fall and winter this firm has marketed over 30 cars of Mexican beans, which is one of the principal crops of eastern Colorado, the amount of these transactions being in the neighborhood of $35,000. Most of the sales were made direct from points in eastern Colorado to points in Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. Through the untiring efforts of this firm a market was found and established for this very profitable crop and most of the transactions were handled without profit to the firm.

They employ regularly about 20 people, all of whom without exception, make their home in Colorado Springs. The average payroll is about $3,500 per month or in the neighborhood of $42,000 to $45,000 per year. This firm is the distributing agent for many popular brands of goods, such as: White House coffee, Morning Dawn New York canned fruits and vegetables, The Lindquist Cracker Company's products, The Kuper Pickle Company's products, Sweet's Salt Lake candies, New York Havana and Export cigars. And wherever possible, they push and distribute to the exclusion of all other lines, Colorado manufactured goods. They are local distributing agents for The Manitou Mineral Springs Company, and are making a very beautiful window display by courtesy of The Perkins-Shearer Company.

This company is one of the most valuable assets of Colorado Springs and their business methods justify the patronage of the goods they distribute to the fullest extent.

SEES FAILURE FOR CANAL
From the New York Times.
BERLIN.—German experts continue to express doubts of one kind or another on the Panama canal question. The latest writer declares that the canal will already be partially antiquated when opened, because the locks are too small.

A comparison of the Panama locks with those of the new Kaiser Wilhelm canal shows the length of the Panama locks to be 305 meters, as against 330 for the Kaiser Wilhelm, the breadth 33.55 against 45; the depth, 12 against 13.77.

The writer comes to the conclusion that the future is much more favorable for the Suez than for the Panama canal, and declares that this may explain the striking fact that England took no part in the more recent competition for building the American canal, leaving the matter entirely to France and the United States.

'The Accompanying Cut of the Emery Studio

Located at corner of Kiowa Street and Cascade Avenue, shows one of the most completely and finely equipped buildings of its kind in Colorado.

It was constructed primarily for the purpose of Photography several years ago, and Mr. Emery has kept the plant in the front ranks by installing the newest and most up-to-date equipments of this science as they have been perfected year by year. Only the best materials and latest styles are put into the finished product.

The Emery Studio enjoys more than a local reputation. The peculiar advantages for Photography in this region and climate have helped make the plant one of the very best of its kind anywhere. The people of Colorado Springs do not need to look to other cities for the finest work in portraiture.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

INDIANA AUTO MEN DESERVE CREDIT FOR GREAT SPEEDWAY

Indianapolis Course Has Made Auto Racing as Safe as Possible

By GEORGE M. DICKSON

General Manager National Company. When the first self-propelled vehicle was made to run, and then, more remarkable, was actually stopped at will, people laughed. That laugh soon changed into an ever-increasing cheer all over the world.

When four Indianapolis men presumed to suggest a speedway upon which automobiles would be raced at unheard of speeds the same people smiled knowingly. That smile has changed into a look of surprise and admiration.

Such is the progress in Indiana, where the first car was built, and where the fastest time with motor cars has been made.

These four men who conceived the new world-famous speedway are Carl Fisher, A. C. Newby, James Allison and Frank Wheeler, all connected with the motor car industry of Indianapolis. In 1909 the first meet was held on the two and a half mile speedway. The track was not paved then. At that time one manufacturer watched his car practice and suggested that the day would come when he could do a mile a minute on the track. Last year cars traveled at the rate of 100 and more miles an hour on the speedway. Such is the rapid growth in motor car building.

The speedway has done much for the entire motor car industry. It has done much for the particular car builders who entered their product. It has done much for the city of Indianapolis and more surprising it has declared dividends for the owners.

The next contest to be waged for cylinder supremacy will be held May 26.

At that time American made and foreign built cars, driven by intrepid experts, will "go after" the international championship in the 500-mile race, 200 time around the two and one-half mile track. The track has been paved with brick.

Last year the largest paid admission that ever attended a sporting event in the history of the world paid real money to come inside of the speedway. Last year the 14th annual car hang-up, a new world's record. Last year's race was marked by two or three unusual features. The two cars that gave the National the hardest fight for victory were two European cars—a Mercedes and a Fiat. The National's actual running time was 81.72 miles per hour. The Mercedes, driven by Ralph De Palma, made a marvelous race, going out in a dramatic fashion that brought sighs of regret from everyone just as the worthy pilot was nearing the end of the terrific run.

Joe Dawson, an Indianapolis boy, drove the National to victory last year and the year before that in the first 500-mile race. Ray Harroun, another Indianapolis boy, drove the Marmon "Wasp" to victory. Harroun's elapsed time average was 74.61 miles per hour.

Who will win this year is a matter that even the most skilled "rail birds" hesitate to predict. The record is now hanging up is fast. Some of the foreign entries are puzzlers, as no one knows just what they are capable of. Some of the American made cars, may spring some surprises and the Hoosiers are eager that the record be kept at home.

The speedway has had a practical benefit, furnishing an exhilarating sport and gala holiday carnival. It has been a great manufacturing adjunct. The manufacturer who can put his craft through miles of sustained terrific speed and then makes an analysis of his car, every part of it, can learn a great deal. This is proven true by the fact that when the track was first built, the cars could not produce nearly as great speed as they can today. In the early days the cars were not as perfect as now, were not as reliable, were not as sure under every emergency as now. A race is a white heat test upon every ounce of power and every fiber of strength that furnishes the public its unimpeachable guarantee of the merits of the car. The public sees in a perfectly fair contest just what the various cars can do, and this is the judgment of actual tests.

Touring is not nearly as hard a test upon a car's "makeup" as the 500-mile race. In 1911 alone National cars made a total distance greater than twice across the United States. The speedway has caused the automobile dealers all over the country to come to Indianapolis automobile factories for their product instead of going to Detroit. It has caused a general quickening of civic pride and informed the world of the many superior features of Indianapolis, such as its ideal shipping facilities and interurban lines.

The speedway has been the greatest advertisement for Indianapolis, the city that never had. The speed battle ground contains 235 acres; the ground will accommodate 200,000 people; there is parking space for 10,000 automobiles; the turns of the track are banked 16 feet and have a radius of 1,500 feet; 3,500,000 brick were required to pave the track, and there are 41 buildings within the inclosure.

The prize money for the winner of the 500-mile race is divided into 10 prizes, the first being $20,000. Following are the cars that finished in the first 500-mile race in 1911 in order as they finished: Marmon, Lozier, Fiat, Mercedes, Marmon, Simplex, National, Amplex, Knox, Jackson, Stutz and Mercedes.

There were 25 other cars entered, but only the first 12 were counted. Last year the cars that finished and the order in which they crossed the tape at the conclusion of the 500 miles of running were: National, Fiat, Mercedes, Stutz, Schacht, Stutz, White, Lozier, National and Knox. Only the first 10 were counted last year.

DAYTON FLOOD PUT AUTO MEN TO SEVEREST TEST

The Dayton flood put many automobiles to the severest test to which they could be subjected and the disaster was especially trying to such delicate accessories as the Delco system of electric starting, lighting and ignition. It has been extremely gratifying to the Delco people to hear of incidents in which many hours of immersion failed to diminish the effectiveness and reliability of this device, the car responding promptly without overheating.

The experience of Dr. Ginn of Dayton illustrates this in a remarkable manner. The doctor had his Cadillac car in a garage located in the business section of the city. Water rose to a height of three feet above the car and remained there for 24 hours, and the mechanism of the car was under water nearly 60 hours.

After the water receded the car was rolled into an alley where it remained 10 days.

The doctor then ordered it put into condition. The installation of new coils, dry cells, relay and ignition switches was all that was attempted.

The engine was cranked over by hand and the doctor drove off home without trouble. He then left his car in his own garage. After two days he thought he would make an experiment. He pressed the starting button of the Delco system, threw out the clutch and the electric motor cranked over the engine at its normal speed; the side lights and the tail light also responded perfectly.

No part of the Delco apparatus was touched; but the storage battery, motor generator and voltage regulator continue to perform their normal functions.

MOTORCYCLE SERVICE

Louisville, Ky. business men are rapidly adopting the motorcycle for use in their public service departments.

One grocery company there has purchased a motorcycle for the order clerk, who makes his daily rounds in a small portion of the time it formerly required. The only all night drug store in Louisville uses a motorcycle to deliver prescriptions on telephone orders in emergency cases. This one motorcycle takes the place of three bicycles. A cleaning company also uses a motorcycle in collecting and delivering garments. Five motorcycles are at the disposal of street lamp inspectors and repair men of the Louisville lighting company. There are also three real estate men in Louisville who have provided motorcycles for their collectors.

MOTORCYCLES AID "CLEANUP"

Prof. E. L. Finney, of St. Paul, Minn., and his assistant, will ride motorcycles this year in their annual "cleanup" tour of the city schools. Each spring the director of school gardens visits the various schools of the city, talking to the children on the importance of cleaning up the yards. It usually requires several days to visit all of the schools, but with the aid of a motorcycle, Professor Finney expects to complete his task this year in a couple of days.

PACKARD TO TRY TO BREAK RECORD FOR ITS ENGINE

Having eclipsed all previous records for an official nonstop motor test by keeping one of its '38' engines running for 200 consecutive hours at a constant speed of 1,200 revolutions per minute, the Packard Motor Car company has decided to go still further and will attempt to set the record at 300 hours. The test is being conducted on the dynamometer of the Automobile Club of America under strict supervision.

The 200 hours ended at 5 o'clock on Monday morning, and the extension of time will bring the test to an end at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. The strain on the motor is equal to pulling a full load an approximate distance of 500 miles a day, or more than 11,000 miles in 300 hours, the equivalent of the average season's running.

NEW AUTO HANDBOOK OUT

A handbook that will prove of great value to automobilists is being distributed among users of electric vehicles by the New York Electric Vehicle association. The volume includes a list of charging stations in New York, on Long Island, upstate as far as Hudson, east as far as New Haven, west as far as Boston and south to Philadelphia and Atlantic City. All of these points are indicated on a map which gives the distances between points and indicates the most direct routes. Needless to say all the points in the territory are within a day's electric run of New York. In the city itself the charging stations are listed by localities.

Seven new 1913 model motorcycles have been purchased by the Chicago police department. Two fishermen from Riverside, Cal., recently rode their motorcycles from Lake Hemet up to the snow line of the mountains. They claim to be the first who have been able to reach that point on motorcycles.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

A motorcycle has been added to the equipment of the service station of a Boston automobile concern. When a call comes in from an automobile in distress the cyclist packs a kit of tools on his machine and rides to the aid of the motorist.

Members of the New Orleans Motorcycle club have just dedicated a fine new club house.

MORE MOTORCYCLE WEDDINGS

Clad in serviceable corduroy suits and leather leggings, George A. Lawrence and Flora Isabella Cantwell chugged into San Jose, Cal., on a motorcycle, procured a marriage license and the services of a justice of the peace and then chugged away again toward the southern part of the state, where they will spend their honeymoon.

An extensive motorcycle honeymoon has also been planned by Rev. C. W. Wharton of Kentland, Ind. Rev. Wharton, who is to be married within a short time, recently purchased a motorcycle with side car attachment, and with his bride will tour France, Germany, Switzerland and the Netherlands.

24-HOUR ENDURANCE RUN

A 24-hour motorcycle endurance run will be a feature of the Indiana State convention of the Federation of American Motorcyclists, which is to be held at Indianapolis, May 16, 17 and 18. The route for this run is 375 miles in length, and includes Martinsville, Spencer, Terre Haute, Crawfordsville, Frankfort, Elwood, Muncie, Richmond and Cambridge City. Starting from Indianapolis Saturday, May 17, the cyclists will ride constantly for 24 hours with only short stops for meals.

"I have ridden my motorcycle more than 40,000 miles in the last three years, and it now runs as good as ever," says H. H. Mansfield of Rulo, Tex.

HAIR INSIDE EVERS' NOSE CAUSE OF HIS SUSPENSION

Johnny Evers, leader of the Cubs, who was recently suspended for three days by President Lynch because of his clash with umpire Orth at the Polo grounds Monday, expressed himself in no uncertain terms at the Hotel McAlpin when he received his sentence.

"I have been set down for three days, charged with using obscene language," he said. "As a matter of fact, I took care not to indulge in swear words when I, as manager, asked Orth why he reversed his decision on a base play. I simply told Orth that in my opinion he was yellow."

"Orth got the high sign from Klem to put me off the field because Klem thought he saw me hold my nose with my finger and thumb. I admit that I did touch my nose, but it was because I had a hair inside it. I meant nothing disrespectful."

"I am convinced now that somebody has it in for Charles Murphy, my employer, not me. If that is the case I am with Murphy to a finish. It seems funny to me. I usually bawled when the Cubs are playing the Giants in this city."

When Murphy was asked what he thought of his manager's suspension he diplomatically replied:

100 PER CENT INCREASE

More territory, more business, and better connections is what a motorcycle means to Wayne Patterson, salesman for a Kansas produce house. Patterson says his sales have increased 100 per cent since he has ridden a motorcycle in visiting the neighboring towns. He averages 300 miles a week.

An endurance test of motorcycles and tires will be made by C. H. Turner and E. R. Davis, who will ride their machines from Chicago to San Francisco. They expect to complete the trip in 30 days.

The California members of the F. A. M. will hold their state convention in San Jose, June 21.

MAKES FOURTEEN THOUSAND MILE MOTORCYCLE JAUNT

Just three months to a day from the time he chugged out of Indianapolis on his motorcycle, E. G. Baker chugged back in again, having ridden in the meantime 14,000 miles.

Up hill and down dale he went, over railroad roadbeds, through streams, across deserts, along cow-paths, over mountains.

Cuba, Jamaica, Old Mexico, the Panama canal, the west, the southwest and the south all filed past him as his sturdy motor carried him swiftly through the long miles.

Baker, leaving Indianapolis, struck out for Atlanta, Ga., then Savannah, Jacksonville and thence to Havana, Cuba. He spent six days riding around the island and then shipped to Jamaica, where he rode for three days. In Jamaica his gasoline was served to him in half-pint bottles—wrapped in tissue paper. It's a delicacy in Jamaica.

From Jamaica Baker shipped to Colon and then rode the length of the Panama canal to the city of Panama.

E. G. BAKER.

From there he rode to San Pedro, Los Angeles, and then back into Old Mexico. San Jose, Santa Barbara, Oakland, San Francisco, Stockton, Los Angeles, San Diego followed in order, and then he headed for home. Yuma, Phoenix, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, Little Rock, Poplar Bluffs, St. Louis, Terre Haute and Indianapolis. That's Baker's motorcycle ride in brief.

One day he forded 21 streams. His best day's mileage (10 hours) was 258 miles.

One day he rode 333 miles in 16 hours. During the entire trip he rode 400 miles on the cross ties of railroads.

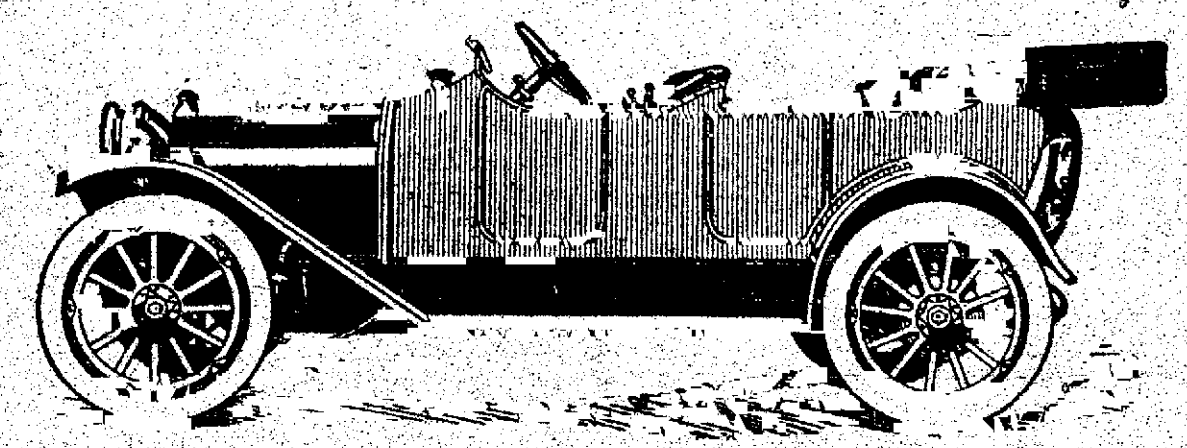

He rode 182 miles on cow-paths. He made what is said to be a record in desert travel, covering 560 miles through sand in 30 hours and 15 minutes.

"It just shows what a motorcycle will do," said Baker. "I have never yet seen the place that I couldn't go on a two-wheeler. It was a great trip—one that was enjoyable from first to last. It was not always easy going—but that, I gained 10 pounds. So it must have done me good."

Testimonials

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 19, 1913. Buick Agency.

Gentlemen: In 1908 I purchased a Model D Buick. It has been used continually ever since, and has run more than 75,000 miles.

Have taken many long tours and in company with high-priced cars that could not make any better showing on the road than my old Buick. For a reliable, serviceable car, nothing can excel a "BUICK."

Yours truly, H. H. STEVENS.

Five years ago, the 28th of March, last, I put my Buick Model 10 Runabout into service. Since that time it has been in continuous service. The mileage has been in excess of 75,000 miles.

My repairs have been five piston rings in engine and iron on steering gear. Would not give my car today for any new cheap car on the market. J. BISHOFF.

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 19, 1913.

Buick Agency. Colorado Springs, Colo.

Gentlemen: We purchased for the Antlers Livery a Model 17 Buick. The car has been in rent service with a day and night driver. The mileage has been in excess of 100,000 miles.

This spring we had it overhauled and painted. It is ready for another season and another 25,000 miles this summer.

Your truly, ANTLERS LIVERY, George Neuer.

The El Paso County Retail Grocers and Butchers Association is a re-organization of the Colorado Springs Retail Grocers and Butchers Association, which was organized in April, 1902. The reorganization took place in September, 1911, and has been very active in matters of city, county and State ever since.

The association is an incorporated body, being incorporated under and by the laws of the State of Colorado. The officers of the association are elected annually from the Board of Directors.

The retail grocers and butchers of Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou realized that they were much in need of some kind of an organization several years ago, a number of them met and organized the Colorado Springs Retail Grocers and Butchers Association, out of which grew the El Paso County Retail Grocers and Butchers Association. They further realized that they needed mutual protection, to prevent delinquent and worthless accounts from accumulating on their books; they further realized that the daily increasing losses were beginning to heap themselves upon them and that they must find some way to stop the leak, or at least the major part of them, therefore, the organization was formed and has been in operation since that time.

The association is an organization, not as many people have thought and are thinking today, to boost up prices; far from it—it is an organization for the general betterment of the businesses of those connected therewith, for a better acquaintance of those interested in the grocery and meat business in the three cities, and for the mutual and beneficial protection to be derived therefrom, not only in the three cities, but in the County and State.

The association is composed of business men of the highest integrity, who believe in a "square deal" to all. Each member of the association holds one, and only one, share of the capital stock, and has one vote only in the deliberations of the body, and it requires a two-thirds vote to pass upon any subject that comes before the body. This makes the body decidedly democratic in its nature, one where the voice of the majority rules. It is not ruled by one, two or three men; it is ruled by the majority. Every member has an equal right with any other member.

The main objects of the association are to promote a better acquaintance of the persons in the retail grocery business and meat business, for the wiping out of local State and National jealousies, and to bring about a more harmonious feeling and co-operation between those so engaged.

The local association is a member of the Retail Merchants Association of Colorado, with offices at Denver, Colo.; the State Association are owners and publishers of the Merchants Index, a paper devoted to the good and welfare of grocerydom in the State, and it is also a member of the National Association of Retail Grocers, with offices at Cleveland, Ohio.

The work of the local and State Association has been felt, not only in the Pike's Peak Region, but all over the State, as they have devoted a great deal of time to matters that not only concern our local members, but every person who is in the retail business in the State of Colorado, not only those in the retail grocery and meat business, but those in every other line of retail business. They are ever ready to put their shoulders to the wheel and push for or against things that are for the betterment or detriment to the retailers.

The association often confers with other bodies of city organizations who are interested in matters of commercial interest to the community. The officers of the association have given a great deal of their valuable time to matters pertaining to public welfare and have worked hard for some things, that few, if any, know about. It was through the tireless efforts of the association that some of the laws that were passed during the last session of the legislature, are now laws. It was also through their efforts that some of the bills that were introduced were defeated.

Some of the laws that are on our statute books today are there through the combined efforts of the local association and other locals and the State association. All of these laws have been worth thousands of dollars to the retail merchants of the state; they have saved hundreds upon hundreds by having these laws—for instance, our present garnishment law.

What has it meant to them? Some of the bills that were passed by the last legislature, and became laws, are going to be worth thousands more, notably the permission of inter-insurance in the State. And no one can deny it, it was through the tireless efforts of the association of the State that this bill was put through.

The information and credit department of the association is one of its main features, and same is kept up in good working order. The D. B. class of trade is being looked after very closely by the members, and every one of them is saving money by having the information that is furnished by this department. The office receives daily requests from other cities on persons who have removed from here to other parts of the country, and also is daily sending out requests on parties who are moving into our city, and the information thus acquired has proven a boon to those who are availing themselves of same.

The local association holds semi-monthly meetings, the first and third Mondays of each month, and are always ready to lend a listening ear to complaints, requests or suggestions, and is always glad to talk over matters that are of interest to the community.

The Retail Merchants Association of Colorado holds annual conventions. The next convention will be held in Trinidad, Colo., in July, 1914. The National Association of Retail Grocers also hold annual conventions, and ere this appears the annual convention will have been called into assembly in St. Louis. The convention convenes May 15th and lasts four days. A number of the members of the local here will attend the National Convention at St. Louis as delegates.

Every retail grocer and butcher in the three cities should be members of the local organization, for they do not realize what good can be done.

They are sticklers for home industries, home buying and home raising. They are boosters for the Pike's Peak region, and for the cities located at the base of the far-famed mount, Pike's Peak.

Join in with them, help make this the one spot in the country. Help them to fight for the rights that are due, help them to help others to see "HOME" first. Help them boost for more industries and larger pay rolls, to keep Colorado Springs money in Colorado Springs.

Here are 12 REASONS why you should use BRYANT'S BRAND, namely:

- 1—It is made of No. 1 good peanuts.
- 2—It is always fresh, made daily.
- 3—It is pure. Each peanut carefully selected over at our factory before using.
- 4—It is reasonable, return empty bottles to your grocer and receive rebate.
- 5—It is cheaper than creamery butter.
- 6—It is a substitute for meat and is more nourishing.
- 7—It is highly recommended by physicians.
- 8—It is good for the stomach, trouble and is a mild laxative.
- 9—It makes excellent sandwiches for the picnics or lunches.
- 10—It should be served on every family table.
- 11—It is better than sweets for the little folks' piece meal.
- 12—Patronize home manufactured products by using Bryant's P'Nut Butter, and promote Colorado Springs industry.

Cold Facts Showing the Gain in Dollars and Cents, as Well as in Style and Quality, Which Results From Patronizing Colorado Springs Merchants

If a man came to you, guaranteeing a proposition to increase your business 25 per cent, would you listen to him? Colorado Springs merchants say that they know how to increase this city's business by that amount. They say that if every man, woman and child here were to make all expenditures in this city, that the result would be immediately visible in a business boom, a lowering of the tax rate and an improvement of conditions in every conceivable line.

They say further that they are not suggesting this as a charity or sentimental proposition, but from a straight, business standpoint. That cheaper goods, yet of better quality, are to be obtained in the stores of this city, than can be secured elsewhere, is the cold, hard fact which the people of this region have been overlooking, to the detriment of all. The merchants base their arguments on that one fact—that Colorado Springs goods are better and cheaper than those bought outside of the city, taking quality into consideration.

Business to the amount of $3,000,000, approximately, is done in this city annually. To put into circulation $1,000,000 more would be to stimulate business interests immeasurably. In just the same way as it is true that the big fortunes have been made in commerce, so it is equally true that business prosperity means handsome buildings, civic improvements, a greater chance for intellectual growth and esthetic culture. All that would $1,000,000 extra do, if poured into the coffers of the Colorado Springs merchants.

With no thought of personal gain, but with the interests deep at heart of the city where they have lived for 10, 20 or even 30 years, the merchants appeal to the people to trade at home. They say that, other things being equal, a Colorado Springs man who will deliberately trade elsewhere, is a kind of traitor. They state—and they are earnest in it—that a man is an enemy to his city and to himself, who sends his wife to Chicago to spend cash on a probably inferior article, while he gets along in Colorado Springs, spending little, through the extensions of credit given him by local men.

Probably most of the trouble is thoughtlessness, but the merchants pleaded with The Gazette representative to make it clear that they are putting themselves in their customer's place, and that they do not blame a man who sent his money away, if he were positive that he would get the same thing elsewhere for less. But they plead equally hard for a square deal, for a fair trial, so that the people may see for themselves what the merchants already know—that this city can offer unsurpassed advantages to the buyer.

All agree that the Springs should not be given too black an eye, saying that the people are gradually being educated to appropriate local goods. But they likewise agree that while the decrease in the out of town buying is marked it is not great enough to warrant the extension of business which an absolute trading-at-home policy would at once induce.

In some lines, such as shoes, the amount of trade sent out of the city, compared to that done in it, is probably about 10 or 15 per cent, while in dry goods and clothing lines it rises as high as 30 or 35 per cent. There is, of course, no accurate way to estimate the amount of mail order business done. But the mail order business is large, and it is by no means the only channel by which Colorado Springs money gets so far away that it never reaches the local circulation again. Other ways are by personal journeys to Denver, or even to Chicago or New York, where fatigued muscles, tired nerves help to give a scant value received to an already depleted pocketbook.

Intelligent examination of the goods bought here, compared with those purchased elsewhere, will convince the unprejudiced buyer that he will not only display a certain commendable patriotism, but will also help to line his own pocket, by buying in this city.

One merchant said: "Do not be misled by an outside ad like this: 'Good eggs, 30 cents a dozen,' for there may be a bad one in the bunch!" And that applies in more lines than the egg business.

What the merchants want, in short, is a square deal, and they are willing to come more than half way, too. What the citizens—the consumers—want, is value received. And if the two can get together, according to the methods and for the purposes outlined below by some of the leading merchants, the results accomplished will be truly wonderful.

Here are some of the things the increase in home trading will do:

Make possible a larger assortment of goods by local merchants.

Result in the establishment of new stores, industries and enterprises.

Decrease taxes by increasing the wealth of the city without adding to the cost of administration.

Permit innumerable public and private improvements.

Enhance property values.

Bring a reduction in prices by enabling the merchant to sell at a lower margin of profit.

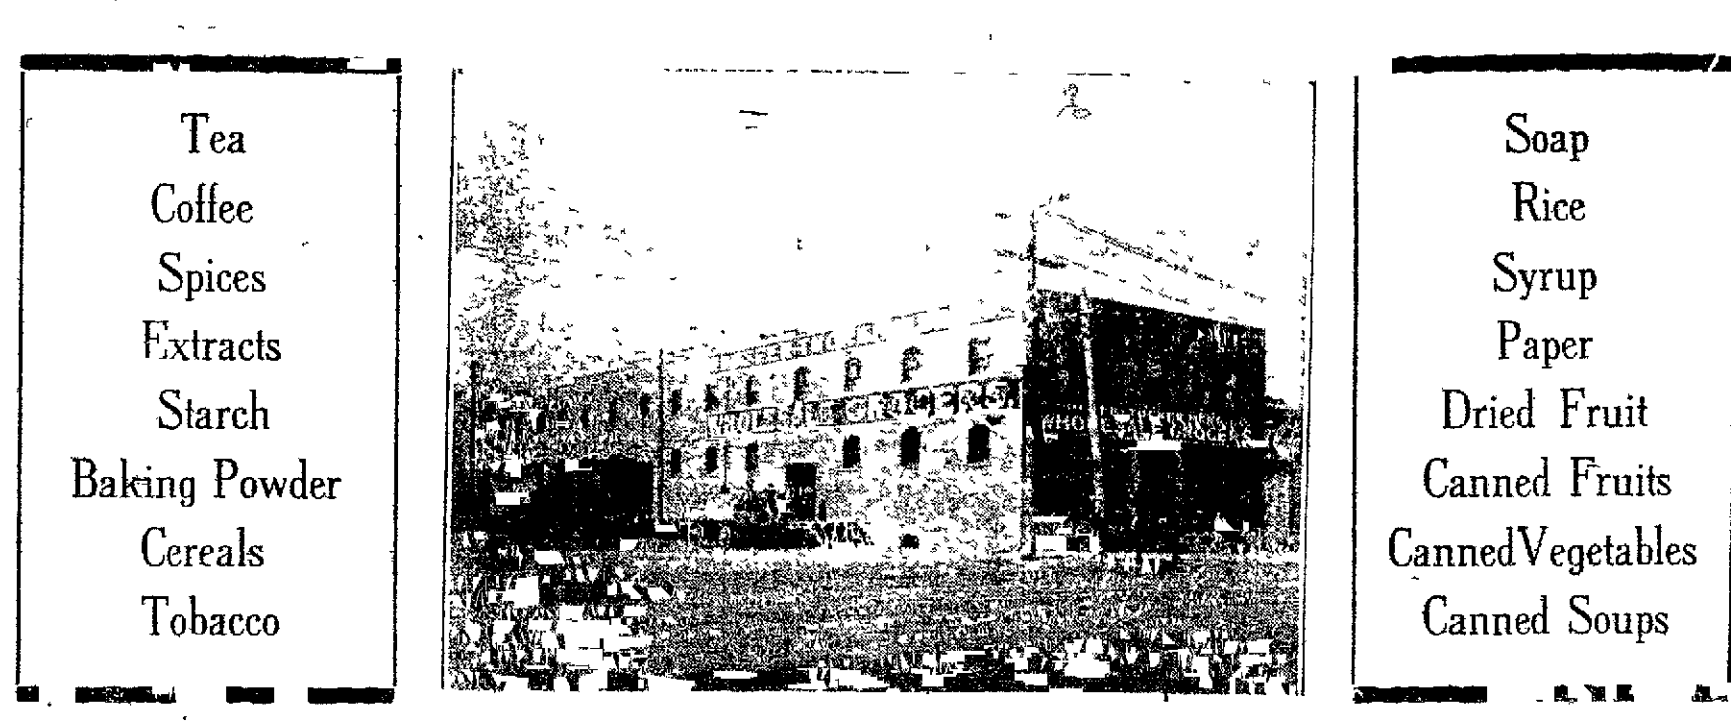

Increase bank deposits.

Indirectly furnish more funds for various philanthropic enterprises now pinched for want of money.

Vorhes Shoe company, and for that reason I suppose that we of the shoe dealer's craft have not the big kick coming that some of the grocers and dry goods dealers have. Nevertheless, many people taken by the fine appearance of some cut in a magazine or catalogue, deliberately make martyrs of themselves in the name of economy, by wearing shoes that pinch their feet. A satisfied customer is one of the best ads for a store and so long as the merchants can continue to keep their customers satisfied, they have solved the secret of it all. In Colorado Springs, all the latest styles are available and that is one of the reasons why we can stand on our own ground. In all the time that I have been here I do not believe that any cases of underselling our prices have existed for long simply because the styles have always been up to those elsewhere while the prices compare favorably with all. "Home trading is the best principle for any community, because it increases the assets of that community, lowers its taxes, raises its payroll, stimulates its business and adds to its general prosperity." "I'LL SAVE YOU MONEY" Says J. R. Lowell of the Lowell-Meserve Hardware company: "We all know that we should trade at home if we are loyal citizens, but we are all looking for the best goods at the best prices, and we should first investigate the local business man who carries what we may want. I believe that if conditions were investigated thoroughly enough we would find that goods can be obtained here as cheaply as in other places. Too many people take for granted that local firms cannot meet prices of foreign competition. They should investigate and it will save them money in the long run." NOT SYMPATHY—PLAIN BUSINESS "Sympathy should not be extended to the merchant just because he is in your city," said C. A. Hibbard of Hibbard & Co. "The local man deserves your trade who gives quality, price and service and he will get it if you give him a chance to show you what he has in any particular line you are investigating." "In this city we have every facility for handling as good and as discriminating a trade as any place in the country. People are gradually coming to believe this. A few years ago they said, 'Well, where there is so much talk about there being low prices, maybe there is something in it.' So they went and investigated, and after a few months they went back to their former tradesmen, saying, 'Well, you said that I'd be back and here I am.' That is a typical example of some of the people who have gone from us to supposed better prices, only to come back and admit that there is nothing in it." "If we did not carry stocks that were really the equal of any, we should not ask for patronage on the merit question alone but wholly aside from any sentimental aspect of the matter, we believe that it is our right to have your trade." PERKINS SHOWS ADVANTAGES "Home trading in Colorado resolves itself into the proposition of trading where you can get the best goods for the least money," said Arthur Perkins of the Perkins-Shearer Clothing company, "and the sooner the people of the city realize that we are willing to meet them half way, the better for all concerned. I believe that we can offer better values right here in Colorado Springs than can be obtained in Denver. This being true it is both disloyal and a harm, to trade there. And the same (Continued on Next Page.)

conditions hold true as applied to other cities.

"It takes some time for the people to realize that a suit at $27.50 here is often the suit at $30 elsewhere. And vice versa, it requires constant lessons to impress upon the mind the fact that the suit which may appear to be a bargain at $18 may be dear at any price, while the same amount invested in a suit here would yield value received."

"One of the great points with us is that we can show you just what you are getting. Your clothing is fitted at home and the merchant is here to make right anything that might possibly be wrong in regards to wear and fit, giving protection to a customer that he will not get away from his home town."

"There is no need for hurry, no need for a selection from a small stock, no need to take the price which your pocket will stand. All these advantages you have ready at your hand and many times you have none of them when you trade elsewhere. Add to this fact that your own people should be given at least an even break, and you have practically unanswerable arguments in favor of home trading."

MUTUAL HELPS PRINCIPLE

"Home trading is founded on the principle of 'helping each other,' said Matt Wilbur of the Wilbur Suit Co., and yet even that principle should not be invoked to make the cost of clothing or anything else greater to the consumer than it is bought at elsewhere. We should help each other, other things being equal. A few reasons why we can put just as good stuff on the market as other cities is that we receive almost daily reports as to the condition of the style market in New York, Chicago and other eastern points, and as soon as the goods are on the market there we have a chance to get them here.

"We know the styles a year in advance and for that reason we can put on the market a suit that is right up to the minute just as soon as they are shown in the shop windows of Broadway."

"The real estate man who sells his real estate should not send his wife to Chicago to get goods nor go to Denver himself to buy his clothes, for in so doing he is indirectly hurting himself, besides having a lot of unnecessary trouble and delay in the bargain."

"Here in this city we have a discriminating trade, which asks favors because it is willing to pay for them. Therefore, if we expect to keep that trade, we must be discriminating, too. And at the same time we must not ask higher prices than do discriminating merchants in other cities. The minute we do that, we destroy the reason for asking for the trade of the home people—and they quickly find it out."

CAN SEE WHAT YOU BUY

"Do we get as much for our money in this city as elsewhere?" repeated C. W. Daniels of the furniture store of that name. "Well, I should say you one better and say that we get more for our money than one trading elsewhere."

Let me explain. In many instances—I am taking up the mail order houses now—the illustration of the piece of furniture as given in the catalogue shows the article in fine surroundings, well set off and glistening with the freshness of the newly-printed page. Emphasis is placed upon the appearance. It is all the purchaser has to go by.

"Compare the position of the purchaser who enters this store—and the same is true of any store well fixed locally. He comes in here, looks over a large selection of any set or particular piece that he may desire, compares prices on that different qualities, sees just what he is getting and then buys. More than that, if he wishes to change or to get his money back, there is no annoying delay after the piece has been delivered. This last, by the way, can be done quickly and not by way of the freight, which the purchaser has to pay if he orders elsewhere."

"Colorado Springs people furnish their houses better than is the case in many cities, and this means that the dealer must carry a better and a larger stock. All this is to the purchaser's advantage. It is to the storekeeper's advantage, too, because it keeps him fully abreast of the times."

"I believe that I am not far from right when I say that each purchaser gets more than a dollar's worth for each dollar that he gives to a Colorado Springs merchant in exchange for some article that he has purchased. If you or I spend a dollar it means that we are getting something which we value more than that dollar, and so when we take the customer's dollar we are giving them at least all that they are worth, or we would not get them."

AS SEEN BY A JEWELER

"That the jewelry business is more likely to suffer from the wily advertising of out-of-town firms than other trades, is the belief of J. C. Johnson, president of The Johnson Jewelry company. His statement follows:

"In the jewelry business, goods can easily be advertised by unscrupulous dealers in a way to show up the home goods in an unfavorable light, and in past years we have been more subject to that than now. I am a firm believer in home trading, because it is always to the advantage of the customer to see and handle the article that he is buying before he pays over his good money for it. The reputation of the dealer is at stake every time a piece of jewelry or cutlery leaves the store. Suppose there happens to be even a small flaw in a piece—what then? The merchant, if he is of the right, 'home trading' kind, will willingly take back the article and make just reparation."

SOME FOREIGN "BARGAINS"

The advertiser for a large firm stands in a position to know the cause and effect of the tendency to go elsewhere and get "bargains." William C. Hollingsworth, advertising manager of the Giddings Brothers Dry Goods company, believes that a campaign of education, to phrase it that way, would do much good. If briskly pushed by the merchants.

"When you advertise," he said, "you see the effect of a certain ad or set of ads at once, and yet there is a vast stand underneath of thought among your customers that after all they can do better elsewhere. And so they run off to Denver, or even to New York, at infinite trouble, and begin to get their 'bargains.' And they get them at their peril."

"Home trading is increasing in this city, because of these very 'bargains.' It does not take shoddy goods of any kind very long to become known, and so when it finally shows up, the patrons are ready to come back and apply at the altar of the good 'old Colorado Springs prices."

"As soon as they come back they find out that this store—and I believe that most of the stores are the same way—is so excellently stocked that they made a mistake in going away in the first place."

"There are many other reasons for trading at home. It is quicker, more convenient and more satisfactory in every way. The sale of merchandise enables us to turn over our goods quickly, and that, too, gives the purchaser all the benefit. Home trading is increasing in Colorado Springs. For the last few years the advance has been steady in this city. It results from the fact that local merchants have cut their prices and enlarged their stocks until they are ready to supply every need."

LOCAL PRICES ARE "RIGHT"

"Of course I believe in trading at home," said J. R. Stone of the Paint Supply Co., "because it is naturally the life of a business. In our business especially I have not a word against local people for not patronizing local industries, because the trade has justified us in buying paint supplies in large quantities. Therefore we can give prices that compare favorably with the best in the country. We are unloading from two to three cars a week and by so doing can give right prices. Ten years ago it was different but the people are beginning to realize that they can get the things they want at home at the right prices."

REFUSE TO TRADE OUT OF TOWN

"I absolutely refuse to trade out of town when the goods can be bought right here in Colorado Springs," said Alex. Reibschel, proprietor of the Globe. "Business is better than ever all over Colorado Springs and we merchants are beginning to feel that the people here are realizing that they can not only help the merchant, which means better business and more prosperity, but that they can get goods here at bargains."

"I bought all my equipment here that was possible and I found that it not only proved to be the best there is but the people from whom I purchased my goods come and trade with me. It works in my case and will with everybody else."

THE ONLY THING TO DO

"I. K. Duvall, manager of the Gorton Clothing company, is quite emphatic in his 'trade at home' interview. 'I believe in it as a creed for the merchant, taxpayer, professional man, laboring man, housewife and every single soul that the census could find. I believe in it every day in the week and every week in the year.'

"It's a shame that there should have to be any bookkeeping for home industry and trading at home. It should be second nature with every person. Civic pride runs high in Colorado Springs and citizens can show it by trading here at home and trading all the time at home. I would like to have Colorado Springs be titled, 'the city that trades at home!'

LIKE BREAD ON THE WATERS

"This trading at home business is a winner in the long run, look at it from whatever standpoint you wish," said W. E. Donor of the Powell Donor Sporting Goods company. "A merchant can start the 'trade at home' proposition in many instances themselves by outfitting their stores and buying goods through local firms. In our case it has been a tremendous advantage. We took special care to see that everything that went into our new store was made in Colorado Springs as far as possible and it has brought us business. Boost the other fellow and he will boost you in a good maxim. I believe that every effort possible should be made to educate the people to what is being made here and to show them that they can get better goods and at good prices as are offered anywhere."

STOCKS HERE RANK WITH BEST

"You won't find any better shops with smarter, snappier goods at better prices in the country than there are in Colorado Springs," said H. A. Hamilton of the Hamilton Jewelry company. "Colorado Springs merchants in general will agree that our famous large ones, I found nothing that was superior to Colorado Springs shops. Being a city where countless eastern people come annually we must have things that they see at home and we carry them. And I believe that the people here realize that fact, too."

MAIL ORDER BUYERS GET STUNG

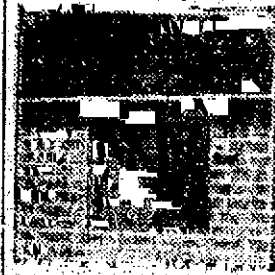

Rudolph Downs of the W. I. Lucas Sporting Goods company, looks at the home patronage proposition in a cold business way. "Time and again," he said, "the buyer of goods through the mail or from salesmen who retail them, get stung. They all look good when they're far away, is a good maxim for the man who gets a beautiful catalogue of merchandise, picks out what he wants, pays for a money order, pays the express charges, opens his package and finds it doesn't contain anything like the picture he saw in the book. If the buyer would investigate he would find that better goods at better prices are on sale right in his home city.

"Take the man who buys a bicycle through the mail. When he gets it, it looks nice and possibly rides all right for a time. Sooner or later something will go wrong and shortly after he has paid repair charges, etc., he will find that if he bought a wheel here it would be much better and cost him less in the long run. My only advice is contained in one word—Investigate."

THE GOODS ARE HERE

D. J. Finkelstein, of the Hub Clothing company, is one of the city's most enthusiastic "trade-at-home" boosters. "If the merchants in Colorado Springs did not carry stocks the equal of any in the west, we should not ask for patronage, on the merit question, or from the standpoint of local to the home city, but such stocks are really carried here."

"Just as cheap?" said he in answer to a question on prices; "why, of course we can sell just as cheap and why not? We have the ability to handle large stocks of goods and we mean to do it so the local people can get the benefit. One of the biggest advantages in home trading is that you can see just what you are getting and can be satisfied with every purchase."

"Our streets are up-to-the-minute and we get the best on the eastern markets. Here we have it on the mill order people who issue but one style book a year and do not keep up with the pace."

"Colorado Springs merchants pay taxes here and why should they not get the benefit of their investment more than those companies who do not pay taxes? All local merchants can ask is to have the citizens investigate and they will find an assortment of right prices that will satisfy their every want."

ASK FOR LOCAL PRODUCTS—L. J. NEWSOME

L. J. Newsome, of the Emporium, is an enthusiastic booster for the Home Industry week scheme and says the "made in Colorado Springs" idea should be carried out all the time by local merchants.

"The idea of the general expression of the extent of home industries will prove to be one of the very best plans ever undertaken by the Chambers of Commerce," he said. "Everybody will be greatly surprised at the extent and variety of home made products. As we become more familiar with what is being manufactured right here at home we will all begin to ask for home made products, and every merchant will gladly supply the demand.

"Everyone should take some time, even if only a few minutes every day, during this week, to study the exhibits and look into what is being made right here in their home town."

CASH RETURNS INDIRECTLY

"Many communities of 250,000 population or more have had the stores of which this city can boast," said L. J. Newsome of the Kaufman Dry Goods company, and that is one reason why we should be very careful in sending our trade to larger cities which have not the opportunities of Colorado Springs.

"The money in this city returns to each spender directly. By that I mean to say that it raises the bank clearings, creates new business, helps to better conditions for business man, property holder or the wage earner. So many people who read interviews from merchants say, 'O well, they are simply trying to line their own pockets. But let them investigate for themselves, the stocks carried here and the prices offered and feel how much more it will help themselves to pay here and they will not have to be exorted often to trade at home."

PLANTING ONE'S OWN VINEYARD

"Trading elsewhere except at home," said L. Polant, prominent dealer in ladies' furnishings, "is like watering somebody else's garden. Your city treasurer levies a tax upon home merchants in proportion to the volume of business they do, and when a portion of your trade goes to another city you

An advertising expert, a friend of ours, started an argument, or rather a running chatter of comment and query, with us the other evening about our advertising, and among other things he said that at times he wasn't sure that our ads weren't downright silly (remarkable what friends can say to one, isn't it?), and we replied that they were answering our purpose very, very well, indeed. Of course there is a lot left for us to do after the ads accomplish their purpose—we then have to MAKE GOOD, to DELIVER THE GOODS, speaking both literally and figuratively, and we're doing it, but whether or not SOME of our ads have been silly, this one is going to be serious, and IMPORTANT AND TRUE. We're going to tell you some things you don't know about

The Pennell Way

Going to tell you:

It represents an investment of $175,000.00.

That we have on our pay roll today 46 men.

That our annual pay roll is $45,000.00.

That every minute of every day six teams and an auto truck are busy keeping material on hand and delivered to our customers.

That we handle in a year 3,000 car loads of lumber, millwork, cement, etc.

That in our Mill Department we manufacture everything from a common door frame to the most elaborate hand carved hardwood decoration, including hardwood venter doors, windows, interior house trims, bank and office fixtures, in fact, anything that can be made of wood.

Did you know this work could be and is being done in Colorado Springs in competition with anyone, anywhere?

Most of you did not, and it is the mission of Home Industry week to make it public. We are glad to be able to tell you these things, truthfully, and we trust you will profit by them.

not only take so many dollars out of your home circulation but you help pay, thereby, taxes to a city from which you derive no benefit. On the other hand when your own city contemplates making necessary improvements you yourself have to shoulder an additional tax.

Thus by trading outside of your home town you not only injure your home merchant but yourself likewise.

It is the eternal ambition of every town, village or hamlet to keep their respective assets at home; but when the settlement is too small, business men fear to venture in local enterprises. Those people must trade else-where.

But Colorado Springs lacks no courageous men and our business houses compare favorably with any of the biggest cities in the country. What justification is there for any resident to take the unnecessary pain of trading in nearby cities?

Yes, we need every dollar at home. That is why we are called upon to patronize home trade and home industry and that is why our Chamber of Commerce boosts for more home industries. It will help develop our assets, it will keep our money in home circulation and will bring others money in.

Hence, boost for home trading, patronize home industries and work for more smokestacks.

PEOPLE ARE WAKING UP.

A. A. Hubbard of the Colorado Springs Dry Goods company says that he has detected a growing distrust of the out-of-town merchant and a more active interest on the part of the people of Colorado Springs in the bargains offered here. "You can't blame the people for getting what they think is a low price," Mr. Hubbard said, "but you can blame them for not investigating local prices first. With the parcel post doing business, the mail order houses have been flooding the country with catalogues but they have made no change in our business. The people know they cannot buy the right kind of dry goods through the mail because they cannot see the quality and can only read flowery descriptions and look at pictures. I know of a number of our customers who have patronized out-of-town merchants and they say that they are never satisfied. Satisfaction means a lot to the buyer and he can get satisfaction at home."

MORE DINNER BUCKET BRIGADES.

Joseph L. Friedman of the D. & F. Clothing company said: "One trip to the mail order house ought to be enough for anybody. As soon as they see that they are getting something different from what they ordered with little or no chance of getting their money back or the article exchanged, they 'come home' and begin to look over the advertisements in the papers here and see where they can get bargains."

"On this home industry proposition I can think of nothing better for the city than to boost the industries we have, patronize them and increase their output, thus increasing payrolls, which will increase business. This campaign will also result in a much larger dinner-bucket brigade here and every city needs a large number of smokestacks to make it a 'booming municipality.' This Made in Colorado Springs boost plan which is in effect this week should be continued by the merchants and by the people themselves throughout the year and not be confined to one week."

ROBBINS SURPRISED.

Raymond B. Robbins of the Robbins Clothing store, "on the corner," says he was among those greatly surprised by the number and excellence of local manufacturers, and that it has taught him a great lesson. "Here I have lived in Colorado Springs many years," he said, "and I have not known until just recently how many things we use every day are made right in our region. I have purchased local products for years in many lines and think that they can't be beat, but it took this idea of the Chamber of Commerce to show me what is what in industries in the Pikes Peak region."

"This trade at home proposition is felt by every merchant. When a business man is paying taxes here, doing something to make the city better, and then to have the citizens buy through mail order houses or make trips to nearby cities, it makes one rather 'nerved.' The goods and the prices are here and only noninvestigation and carelessness will result in the local buyer going out of town for his goods."

BRASS TACKS AND BARE FACTS.

"Getting down to brass tacks and bare facts," said S. J. Deal of the Deal Shoe company, "we find that the men or women who trade out of town when they can get what they want in Colorado Springs shops, have poor business heads. Of course if they want to throw their money away, help to increase their taxes and injure themselves, let them do it. But they will soon begin to realize that it is grinding away on their pocketbook nerve and this is a most unpleasant feeling."

"I certainly feel that everything done to help increase the industries of the region will be done for a greater Colorado Springs. By supporting the home industries we can help get others, because firms who intend to establish factories here, must be shown that they will get local support first."

PAYING YOURSELF INTEREST.

L. J. Peltz, president of the Peltz Mercantile company, says that arguing against trading out of the city is one of his favorite habits. "I believe," he said, "that if we just keep pounding away at this proposition, sooner or later the people are going to wake up to the fact that they are the losers if they do not patronize home merchants, not only from the standpoint of the values they receive through the mail and over the counter, but also in the general prosperity of local conditions. Much has been said on the value of keeping the dollar at home and it cannot be emphasized too strongly. Keep your money at home and you will have it much oftener. Send it away and you will never see it again."

FOREIGN TRADER HAS NO DEFENSE.

A. Shapiro of the Shapiro furnishings store on Teller street says that the

ARMOR PLATE DEAL IS SCORED

Secretary of Navy Attacks Own Department for Shady Contracts

"SITUATION INTOLERABLE"

Three Companies With Monopoly Boost Price 3 Per Cent Every Year

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Responsibility for price agreements among manufacturers furnishing armor plate for American warships was placed directly upon the navy department last today by Secretary Daniels. In a statement following his announcement yesterday of his intention to submit a plan for a government armor plate bid, the secretary declared that the policy of the department in dividing plate contracts among all bidders at the lowest figure offered "makes all pretense of competitive bidding to get the lowest market price a farce that cannot possibly deceive any one acquainted with the facts."

Mr. Daniels said he was glad the resolution for an investigation of this matter introduced recently by Senator Ashurst was before congress and that it only anticipated a formal statement which he proposed to prepare requesting relief from "an intolerable situation."

How contracts for armor for the new battleship Pennsylvania were let by Secretary Meyer last March was told in detail in the statement. Three steel Subsidize Openly.

If we are going to subsidize the Carnegie, Midvale, and Bethlehem companies," said Secretary Daniels, "so to have the advantage of their armaments in times of war, then let us do so honestly and man-fashion by statute, without concealment or attempt at hypocritical evasion of the intent of congress, to force competition and to award contracts to the lowest bidder. If, on the other hand, we are going honestly to award our contracts to the lowest bidder, let us do so. The effect will be possibly to encourage real competition among the companies, provided always that the present contention of the department of justice that the steel companies are a combination, is disproved by evidence."

Bids for the Pennsylvania armory were opened, the statement continues, "after the publication of a notice one inch long, in the smallest type, in one paper, only, the Philadelphia item; that sealed proposals would be received at the navy department February 18, with no hint of the amount and only four weeks in advance of the date set for the receiving of the bids."

Surprised at Low Price.

It would be natural, the statement continues, "to suppose that the lowest such was not the case, nor has it been the case for a long time, and here it is where the whole trouble lies. On the theory that all three companies must be encouraged to maintain their harmonious relations with the contract and sub-contractor departments, the contract arbitrator was divided among them. All three companies agreed on a price of $454 per ton for Class A; $518 for Class B; and $496 for Class C. The contract arbitrator agreed $496 for class B, and $454 for class C. Under the circumstances, we are surprised at the moderation of the bids, because under "big iron" rules we must distribute the work at the lowest price bid among the three firms.

"No Big Stick Used"

A. H. Baldwin, chief of the bureau of manufacturers in Washington, was present today. "The department of commerce has no intention of wakening the big stick over independent manufacturing factories," said one of the delegates.

"What the department is interested in is in finding out the facts relative to the differences in labor costs here and abroad."

Many delegates had voiced opposition to the policy of having federal agents investigate conditions in factories where wages may be reduced on account of the new tariff law, as proposed by Secretary Redfield.

In his report on immigration submitted today, Constant Meese, a San Francisco manufacturer, did not go into the question of Chinese or Japanese immigration to the Pacific coast, saying that he did not concern

SHOE MACHINERY IS SOLD IN GROUP LOTS

Gov't Prosecution Showing Power of Trust That It Is Fighting

BOSTON, May 21.—An extension system which required shoe manufacturers to use certain groups of shoe machinery was declared by the government today to have followed the organization of the United Shoe Machinery company, against which dissolution proceedings are now pending in the United States district court.

By presenting over 40 different forms of leases in use before and after the organization of the company, the government aimed to show extension of the leasing system from three separate groups of machines, which were not "tied" or required to be used together, to nine separate groups, eight of which were tied to one or more other groups.

James A. Fowler, of counsel for the government, informed the court that the leases were changed after the organization of the company and the provisions were made more stringent.

The government objects," said he, "to every provision that ties one machine to another."

Enumerating some of these "tying" clauses, he pointed out that in a lease of a lasting machine, one clause provided that the leased machinery should not be used in the manufacture of any shoes which have been welted or stitched by any machinery not held under lease from the United States Machinery company.

Another clause in the same lease provided that, if at any time the manufacturer should cease to use exclusively leased machinery, the company might terminate all leases, not only of the lasting machinery, but of all other machinery leased from the company.

Charles F. Choate, Jr., counsel for the defense, contended that the "tying" system formed a feature of the leases before the organization of the company, and that whatever changes were made were designed to meet the growing needs of trade and were not in pursuance of a plan to affect a monopoly of the shoe machinery business as charged by the government.

maintained that the ways and means committee thought that in putting a duty of 30 per cent on essential oils, they were taxing oils used exclusively in perfumes and like luxuries, while as a matter of fact many oils included are not used in perfume but in laundry soap.

This, they argued, would put a tax on the "poor man's soap," a result which the committee did not contemplate.

W. H. Wathams of New York made one of the arguments and he urged also that the duty on laundry soap in the Underwood bill, five per cent, was too low. He said the manufacturers were willing to stand a reduction but thought it should not go below 10 per cent, and valorem.

Sugar Interests Busy.
Senator Stone's subcommittee was at work all day on the sugar manufacturers' schedule, while the subcommittee headed by Senator Williams took up the sugar schedule and listened to pleas from Louisiana and Porto Rico cane growers for a higher duty than promised in the Underwood bill.

Henry Pharr, president of the Louisiana cane growers association, made an argument for the growers of his state and promised to file a more extended statement. Senators Thornton and Ransdell and many planters listened to his statement and added their comments for the committee's information.

According to Mr. Pharr the American Refining company, the "sugar trust," would be the beneficiary under the Underwood bill. He claimed that the factories of Louisiana would be turned into useless junk and that the sugar growing lands of his state would lose millions of dollars if cane growers are not free sugar.

He said there were thousands of small sugar growers in Louisiana and insisted that the industry is not in the hands of a few big planters.

Wilson Opposes Free Sugar.
Mr. Pharr told the committee that neither President Wilson nor the Democratic platform had given the people of Louisiana reason to fear free sugar. He said the president had wired a positive refusal to approve free sugar to the collector of the port of New Orleans.

Asked by Senator Williams if the cane growers could not turn their lands over to the cultivation of other products, Mr. Pharr replied that investigation had proved that in no other way could the land be made so profitable.

JAP PAPERS CLAIM GREAT CARE NEEDED AT PRESENT
TOKYO, May 21.—The Tokyo morning newspapers agree that the question of the alien and ownership legislation in California has entered upon a second more difficult and more important stage, since it is directly between the Japanese and American governments. They warn the public against thoughtless agitation, pointing out that this would not be interpreted as being directed against the American nation and not California alone.

The situation, they aver, demands the most careful and most conscientious treatment on both sides, lest it lead to deplorable consequences. The essence of opinion is that as Washington has gone on record in opposition to the legislation, it is reasonable to expect that the American government will exert further efforts to modify it.

The Pacific Chishim says: "Should Washington fail to carry out this obligation, the responsibility for any advancement could be with that administration."

Other papers emphasize the urgency of determining the causes and sources of the anti-Japanese feeling in the United States and the desirability of efforts to remove them.

"IF THIS RE DYING, NONE NEED FEAR ITS TERRORS," SAID BANKER, POISONED BY SELF

Georgia Man Dies After Week's Fight Against Odds That Puzzled Medical World

MACON, Ga., May 22.—B. Sanders Walker, the Macon banker, who took bichloride of mercury by mistake here last Wednesday, died early this morning. He had not regained consciousness since early yesterday afternoon. His immediate family was at his bedside when he died.

At 10:30 P. M., May 21, bichloride in his few conscious moments the courage which has characterized his week's fight with death from poisoning, B. Sanders Walker was expected tonight by his physicians to die at any moment. Although he has battled for life since last Wednesday, when he took a bichloride of mercury tablet by mistake, the young banker lapsed into unconsciousness for the first time today. Since then he has regained consciousness at intervals. A characteristic utterance made just before he went into a state of partial coma late today, illustrates the remarkable composure with which he has faced death.

"If I am dying," he said, "then the sensation is not as it generally is pictured. If this be dying, then none need fear its terrors."

The attending physicians who are said to have exhausted every method of treatment known to medical science, expressed tonight the belief that Walker could not live more than a few hours. The last official bulletin gave his pulse as 120, his respiration 30 and his temperature normal. Despite assurances of certainty of death as a result of his paralyzed organs, Walker's belief that he would recover was not shaken at a late hour.

Efforts to ascertain the exact treatment Walker is being given tonight were unavailing. The physicians declined to discuss this subject. It is understood, however, that they have been in close consultation with the staff at the Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 21.—After swallowing three tablets of bichloride of mercury, Robert Palmer, a cattle salesman and member of one of the wealthiest families of Sioux City, tonight is waiting slow death from the poison.

Palmer was in a local hotel when he took the tablets. He rushed into the street, shouting: "I've done it! I've done it!" A police sergeant who was passing rushed up to Palmer in the excited crowd and grasped him. Palmer picked another tablet from a bottle he had in his hand and swallowed it. The officer overpowered him.

Reports at a hospital tonight were that Palmer has little hope of recovery. Physicians say that he may live for from a week to 15 days, but that death is certain.

Palmer is resigned to his fate and insists that he be taken from the hospital to his home to die.

POPE MUCH BETTER, AND INTERESTED IN AMERICAN PROBLEM

ROME, May 21.—Cardinal William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, after a long audience with the pope today, summed up the impression he had received in a comprehensive sentence.

"The pope," he said, "seemed like a man who, after a sleep, had awakened fresher, stronger, revitalized."

Cardinal O'Connell was accompanied to the Vatican by Mr. Michael J. Spillane and Dr. Slattery of Boston, who remained in an antechamber. Mr. Sanz de Santer, papal chamberlain, conducted the cardinal to the library where Pope Pius was seated at a writing table. The cardinal, taking off his skull cap, was about to kneel when the pope, stretching out his arm, prevented him, saying:

"O'Connell, come—come."

In the conversation the pope demonstrated his intimate knowledge of conditions in the United States. He referred to the recent changes in the administration and also President Woodrow Wilson, and indicated how much he had at heart the prosperity of the United States.

The pope asked Cardinal O'Connell whether he was alone. The cardinal explained that his companions had remained in the antechamber as they did not expect the privilege of seeing the pontiff. But the pope, good naturedly exclaimed: "Nonsense. I shall see them since they are here."

GERMAN STEEL WILL NOT BE EXHIBITED AT FRISCO

DUSSELDORF, Rhenish Prussia, May 21.—The northwest group of the Society of German Iron and Steel Manufacturers voted emphatically tonight to reject participation in the San Francisco exposition.

New automobiles ordered by the German government have been fitted with "side pockets" large enough to accommodate two motorcycles, and have given a good account of themselves in the recent army maneuvers.

Col. Perea, Who Saw Lincoln Shot, Dies; Was Father of 36 Children

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 21.—Colonel Francisco Perea, delegate from New Mexico to the thirty-eighth congress and a delegate to the Republican national convention at Baltimore in 1894, who renominated Abraham Lincoln for president, died at his home here today at the age of 82 years. Colonel Perea was present at Ford's theater the night Lincoln was shot, occupying a seat in the orchestra just below the president's box. He was the father of 36 children. He was twice married and each wife bore him 18 children. He failed of reelection to congress but later served four terms in the territorial legislature. Colonel Perea was educated at a Christian Brothers college in New York. At the outbreak of the Civil war he was commissioned a lieutenant colonel by Governor Connelly and served throughout. He was a descendant of one of the oldest Spanish families in New Mexico.

Currency Reform Quiz Starts Soon

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson had three conferences today on currency reform. He discussed with Senator Kern, the majority leader, and learned that attention had been focused so sharply on the tariff that there was no agreement in sight as to banking reform.

The president talked with Chairman Owen of the senate banking and currency committee early today and later saw Representative Glass, chairman of the house banking committee. Indications are that within another week a bill will be completed, the fundamentals of which will have administrative approval.

Mexicans Busy in Many War Dramas

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., May 21.—Bernatche, a French subject, narrowly escaped execution by the federal military authorities today at Matamoros, Mexico, an order for his release being delivered while a squad of soldiers was being assembled to put him to death. Bernatche, who states that he was charged with aiding the rebels, his case was taken up by United States Consul Johnson of Matamoros, with the French ambassador at Washington, and it is presumed the release order came from Mexico City.

EL PASO, Tex., May 21.—One thousand federal soldiers today departed from Chihuahua city to open the campaign in the southern part of that state. The troops were commanded personally by General Antonio Rabago, military governor of Chihuahua. Their trains will proceed south repatriating the Mexican Central railway as far as Jimenez, and probably will attempt to retake Parral, which was abandoned to the insurgents by General Mercado.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 21.—Operations will be resumed tomorrow at the mines and concentrator at Nogales, Sonora, which was closed last week by revolutionary trouble, which threw out of employment nearly 2,000 men. Officials of the company who had been ordered out of the mining town, left here today to resume their duties.

NOGALES, Ariz., May 21.—An accident to an airplane is delaying a battle. In alighting from a trial flight at Hermosillo last night, Dieder Mason slightly damaged his big biplane. The repairs will require a day or two. In the meantime the state troops are awaiting his arrival at the front before moving on the federalists who remain entrenched outside the gulf port.

TAFT TELLS WHY HE IS UNITARIAN STANDPATTER

BOSTON, May 21.—Former President William H. Taft was the central figure at today's exercises of the Unitarian anniversary week.

After he had been made honorary president of the Laymen's league at its annual meeting in Channing hall, he said:

"When I ran for president I found that many people did not know that I was a Unitarian. Then when it became known that I was a Unitarian, I was asked by many persons why I did not repudiate the infernal label. But I am a Unitarian because my grandfather and my father and my mother were Unitarians. The influence of Unitarianism is a spreading influence today."

There are several methods of utilizing electricity for the purpose of forcing crops and in nearly all cases the success of the scheme depends upon the price secured for early vegetables.

PREACHER BOUGHT STOCK IN MINES WITH CHURCH CASH, $30,000 INVESTED

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 21.—The general eldership of the Church of God, in session here today, investigated charges that M. K. Smith of Findley, O., had failed to account satisfactorily for investments of the church organization. It was charged that $30,000 had been invested in mining stocks. The committee of investigation reported that the stocks and bonds of mining companies found in the treasurer's hands were worth very little.

Wood Case Nears Critical Stage and Bribery Is Admitted

BOSTON, May 21.—Testimony about what went on behind the scenes at Lawrence, Mass., at the time of the great textile strike in 1912, was given today by John J. Breen, convicted and confessed "planter" of dynamite, at the trial of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company. Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, charged with conspiring to discredit the strikers by planting dynamite in buildings at Lawrence.

Breen's story of his activities on behalf of the strikers and the mill owners culminated in a declaration that he refused to accept $7,000 from Atteaux's attorney, Daniel H. Coakley, the lawyer who was cross-examining him.

Testimony previously introduced was that eight persons who had been arrested when dynamite was found in buildings occupied by them at Lawrence, later had brought damage suits against Breen, who had "planted" the explosive. Breen testified that he had gone to Atteaux to get $12,000 after his own counsel had told him that all the suits could be settled for $12,000.

"Settle Cheaply As Possible."

He denied that he knew the damage suits could be settled at a lower figure when he was endeavoring to induce Atteaux to pay him $12,000 from Coakley himself because he would not agree to the terms. Asked by Coakley what the terms were, Breen replied:

"You told me to put most of it in my pocket and settle with the poor folks as cheap as I could. I didn't want that kind of money and I rejected the offer."

Breen accused Atteaux of being the "man higher up." He said that Atteaux had engaged him to plant the dynamite and he arranged with Ernest R. Pittman, the Andover builder, who committed suicide when the grand jury began investigating the alleged conspiracy, to furnish the explosive.

Mr. Wood's name was mentioned only once, and that was when Breen said he asked Atteaux if Wood knew anything about the matter, and Atteaux replied that he did not.

Of the five persons who have figured prominently in the alleged conspiracy, only two really are on trial. Breen was convicted last May. Pittman too, his own life and Collins turned state's evidence yesterday, although in his testimony he implicated neither Wood nor Atteaux. His story of the part he played in the affair related wholly to his associations with Breen.

Under cross-examination the witness was doubtful at times regarding certain meetings and conversations with various persons.

Breen admitted that up to and including January 18, he was worried lest the dynamite in the city yards would do some harm, but his attitude changed on January 19 and he was anxious to place the explosive where it was likely to cause more damage than it could in the city yard.

Tried to Stop Violence.
Asked about his activities during the Lawrence strike, Breen said that he went among the foreigners endeavoring to keep them quiet, and advised them not to commit violence.

It was because of his pride in his city that he showed so great activity in behalf of industrial peace. He said that he did not remember telling State Officer Flynn that his mother would be ruined if the strike continued, and said that if he had made such a statement it was false. He might have told some people that his father's estate held $20,000 in American Woolen company stock, but this, also, was untrue.

He was unable to tell of any specific payments made by him for the money he claimed to have received from Atteaux with the exception of the $50 that was given to Collins and the car fares between Boston and Lawrence. He said he had disbursed between $2,000 and $3,000, but he made no account of his expenditures, though he understood that Atteaux was to reimburse him. Breen said he had been sued by the persons arrested in Lawrence as the result of the dynamite planting, but later he learned that possibly a settlement might be made for $7,000.

Cross-examination of Breen will be continued tomorrow.

GOVT. PROBE WILL BE A THOROUGH ONE

W. Va. Strike Troubles Will Soon Be Under Uncle Sam's Inquisitive Eye

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Federal investigation of the strike of coal miners in the Paint creek region in West Virginia practically was assured today when the senate education and labor committee agreed to report tomorrow with amendments to Senator Kern's resolution authorizing an inquiry. The resolution redrafted by a subcommittee with the understanding that it be laid before the senate with the endorsement of the other members, would allow a "thorough and complete" inquiry into conditions during and after the strike. The committee would be authorized to conduct hearings as a whole or by subcommittee either in Washington or West Virginia, and to subpoena any witness it desires. It would investigate questions of alleged peonage; interference with the mails; violation of the immigration laws; violation of the laws for the trial of accused persons; violation of the Sherman act by the coal operators and the causes that led up to the conditions existing in Paint creek.

Although an amendment proposed by Senator Works for the investigation of ventilation, sanitation, wages, condition of labor and kindred subjects was adopted, the scope of the resolution is so broad that the committee can ask about anything concerning the miners, operators or the mines.

The resolution will be reported to the senate by Senator Swanson, chairman of the subcommittee that perfected it. It may be taken up at once, but probably will go over for a day.

Although the opposition to an investigation is understood not to have given up all hope the fact that a senate committee has endorsed the idea so promptly lead many senators to believe tonight that its adoption can be a question of time.

The inquiry will be undertaken as soon as the resolution is agreed to and it is the hope of senators interested that a report can be returned to the senate before the end of the special session.

I don't see that anything but modesty or fear of a congressional investigation keeps them from putting in, say, $700 per ton as their lowest bid."

Companies Admit Situation.
The secretary made public two letters which he received from companies which submitted bids for the Pennsylvania contract because, he said, they were "so remarkable for their frankness and so completely illustrating for their own words, the evils of the situation."

The Midvale Steel company of Philadelphia, wrote:

"It has been the custom to divide the work between the companies at the price of the lowest bidder after asking the other companies if they would accept the work at this price; this method being deemed expedient by the department. On subsequent bids for similar material it was but natural for the competing companies to bid the price set by the previous divided order."

8 Per Cent Increase Year.
"Instead of awarding a contract for the whole of an order to the lowest bidder, the department in most cases of the kind has divided the order between two or more of the competing firms upon the highest bidder agreeing to reduce their prices to the price named by the lowest bidder. In view of that practice, it has come to be understood by every manufacturer that the naming of a lower figure by him would merely lower the price that he and each one of his competitors would receive for a part of the order."

Concluding his statement, Mr. Danaher commented on the fact that the bids for the Pennsylvania armor were 8 per cent higher than the price of the last previous armor made.

Wood Case Nears Critical Stage and Bribery Is Admitted

BOSTON, May 21.—Testimony about what went on behind the scenes at Lawrence, Mass., at the time of the great textile strike in 1912, was given today by John J. Breen, convicted and confessed "planter" of dynamite, at the trial of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company. Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, charged with conspiring to discredit the strikers by planting dynamite in buildings at Lawrence.

Breen's story of his activities on behalf of the strikers and the mill owners culminated in a declaration that he refused to accept $7,000 from Atteaux's attorney, Daniel H. Coakley, the lawyer who was cross-examining him.

Testimony previously introduced was that eight persons who had been arrested when dynamite was found in buildings occupied by them at Lawrence, later had brought damage suits against Breen, who had "planted" the explosive. Breen testified that he had gone to Atteaux to get $12,000 after his own counsel had told him that all the suits could be settled for $12,000.

"Settle Cheaply As Possible."

He denied that he knew the damage suits could be settled at a lower figure when he was endeavoring to induce Atteaux to pay him $12,000 from Coakley himself because he would not agree to the terms. Asked by Coakley what the terms were, Breen replied:

"You told me to put most of it in my pocket and settle with the poor folks as cheap as I could. I didn't want that kind of money and I rejected the offer."

Breen accused Atteaux of being the "man higher up." He said that Atteaux had engaged him to plant the dynamite and he arranged with Ernest R. Pittman, the Andover builder, who committed suicide when the grand jury began investigating the alleged conspiracy, to furnish the explosive.

Mr. Wood's name was mentioned only once, and that was when Breen said he asked Atteaux if Wood knew anything about the matter, and Atteaux replied that he did not.

Of the five persons who have figured prominently in the alleged conspiracy, only two really are on trial. Breen was convicted last May. Pittman too, his own life and Collins turned state's evidence yesterday, although in his testimony he implicated neither Wood nor Atteaux. His story of the part he played in the affair related wholly to his associations with Breen.

Under cross-examination the witness was doubtful at times regarding certain meetings and conversations with various persons.

Breen admitted that up to and including January 18, he was worried lest the dynamite in the city yards would do some harm, but his attitude changed on January 19 and he was anxious to place the explosive where it was likely to cause more damage than it could in the city yard.

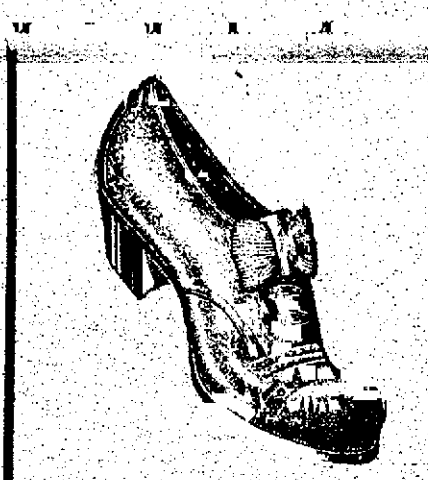

Tried to Stop Violence.
Asked about his activities during the Lawrence strike, Breen said that he went among the foreigners endeavoring to keep them quiet, and advised them not to commit violence.

It was because of his pride in his city that he showed so great activity in behalf of industrial peace. He said that he did not remember telling State Officer Flynn that his mother would be ruined if the strike continued, and said that if he had made such a statement it was false. He might have told some people that his father's estate held $20,000 in American Woolen company stock, but this, also, was untrue.

He was unable to tell of any specific payments made by him for the money he claimed to have received from Atteaux with the exception of the $50 that was given to Collins and the car fares between Boston and Lawrence. He said he had disbursed between $2,000 and $3,000, but he made no account of his expenditures, though he understood that Atteaux was to reimburse him. Breen said he had been sued by the persons arrested in Lawrence as the result of the dynamite planting, but later he learned that possibly a settlement might be made for $7,000.

changes in the bill in the senate was admitted today by Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee. He announced, however, that next Wednesday the subcommittee would begin framing the various subjects and that they hoped to have the bill ready for the finance committee by June 1. The Democratic caucus, he said, would be called for consideration of the bill about June 3 and an effort will be made to report it to the senate the following week.

Raps Oppose End Debates.
The decision today of the majority members of the finance committee to close all private hearings on the bill next Tuesday, has not met with Republican approval and an attack on this plan is looked for in the senate tomorrow. The committee decided to print all bills of manufacturers not heretofore published and to receive briefs until the bill reaches the senate floor.

Another problem confronting the Democratic leaders is the antidumping clause in the Underwood bill, which makes no provision for articles on the free list. This clause will assess an additional duty not to exceed 10 per cent on imports sold in this country for less than the foreign price, but it is not made to apply to the free list and some Democrats insist that the free list should be included.

ST. LOUIS WORKERS CLAIM THEY CANNOT LIVE ON LOW WAGES

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—Conflicting testimony was given today at the hearing before the Missouri senate wage investigating committee as to conditions prevailing in the nut picking industry in St. Louis.

Mrs. Harry C. January, secretary of the Consumers league, testified that women nut pickers were poorest paid wage earners in the city.

On the other hand, four women employed by a dried fruit and nut company testified that though work is not regular they can earn an average of $8 to $9 a week after they become expert in picking nuts and that the average wage for beginners was $3 to $4 a week.

The committee also inquired into labor conditions in the medicine manufacturing industry here. A young woman employed by a medicine company said that 20 years ago she earned $4 a week working for the company and now she earns $8.50. She said that a girl cannot live respectably in St. Louis without outside assistance for less than $3 a week. This witness lives at home. None of the women employed there, she said, is paid more than $2.

Another girl employed at the same place testified that she went to work in the factory eight months ago at $5 a week, and out of that wage she had to support her mother.

Her mother owns their home, however, but has no income. The girl said they managed to get along on what she earned, but that a girl could not live with any degree of comfort on less than $9 a week.

G. F. Lang, superintendent of the company, said the lowest wage paid by the concern is $4 a week, the average $5.50 and the highest $13.

States and the powers of legislation held in California.

Today's address was of a preliminary character and made no prediction of ensuing steps, but in general they reflected a favorable view in Tokyo of the American note replying to Japan's protest.

President Wilson, who had no small part in the writing of the note, is said to have described in most complimentary terms what he believed to be the real feeling among American people toward Japan. Tokyo, it is said, pointed to California and only a part of California, too, as having given evidence of a discriminatory disposition and insisted that the United States as a whole admired the progress that Japan had made in the last half century, respected the achievements of the Japanese people, and was sincerely anxious to show that it regarded Japan on a basis of equality with all other powers and nations.

Deal With Spirit, Not Law

The note was about 1,000 words long and dealt chiefly with the spirit of the American people toward Japan, making little reference to the new law or the treaty, but discussing Japan's contention that the California agitation was in reality an act of unfriendliness and discrimination toward the Japanese.

Officials here were not in the least opposed to publication of the document, but decision on this point was left with the Tokyo government.

While the situation tonight was regarded as satisfactory in official quarters, the Japanese answer was awaited with keen interest. Officials generally, however, were inclined to hope that the acute stage in the negotiations had passed.

The president, realizing that speeches in congress at this time might embarrass the situation, requested Representative Sisson of Mississippi, who had announced his intention of speaking on Friday on the alien land question, to handle delicately as possible diplomatic phases of the case.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Cool headedness and moderation were urged upon the Japanese residents of California at a mass meeting here tonight by Soroku Ebata, a member of the house of peers and of the government party, who is one of a commission sent to this state to investigate the Japanese land holding controversy.

"The whole of Japan's government, the political parties, and the commercial bodies, is unanimously endeavoring," he said, "to solve this California question peacefully. And it seems to me the Japanese government is fully competent to settle this difficulty satisfactorily. There is absolutely no need for you to pack up your things to go back to Japan in fear of something happening."

"California is only one part of this great country after all. Fortunately for you, you have the sympathy of the federal government and a greater part of the citizens of this country. Even in California you have a great many supporters and sympathizers."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Of 50 Japanese born in Honolulu and eligible to American citizenship, but 15 have availed themselves of the opportunity, according to the statement of Gilbert D. Metzger, a Honolulu contractor who arrived here today.

The Hawaiian islands have a population of Japanese laborers estimated at 75,000.

'Made in Colorado Springs'—Good Cooks

AFTER all, there was nothing in the exhibits of home industry week that was more important than the work of the school children. The exhibits of the home industry week were so wonderfully good, that the school children were the pride of the exhibition. The work of the school children was the pride of the exhibition. The work of the school children was the pride of the exhibition.

The exhibit was only dreamed on last Monday afternoon, and the fine art of the school children was the pride of the exhibition. The work of the school children was the pride of the exhibition. The work of the school children was the pride of the exhibition.

The place of honor on the tables was given to the bread and rolls. There was brown and white bread that would have done credit to the most fashionable household in the world and there were some very crusty brown rolls that the judges said tasted as delicious as they looked. The cake table was well filled with light and stony looking cakes, with plenty of smooth white frosting on top. There were cup cakes and cookies also, enough to set everybody's mouth watering, and enough to make the task of the judges a difficult one.

On another table were salads, and the one marked with the flag that spelled victory was the judges' salad, an epoch in the way of salads. Spectators, hearing the judges say that their task was most difficult, and then seeing them smack their lips over that salad, looked as if they were willing to undertake the arduous duty for a time.

Farther on were the desserts, and here again the variety and delicacy made it possible to prophesy that the young cooks would know how to serve well-planned and well-balanced dinners when their turn comes to preside over their own kitchens.

A table of candy was last in the line. Most girls of 12 or 13 are able to make one or two kinds of candy, and there their accomplishments are apt to stop. The girls in modern cooking classes know how to do so many other things that their candy, delicious as it is, is taken more as a matter of course.

The other table in the room contained the exhibits of about 20 boys. They had made and exhibited what they chose, and from coffee to jam they had had offerings that would make the girls look hard to their laurels if they wished to compete.

The judges had a difficult time making the awards, and the auction coming in the evening delayed the teachers in computing the score, so the winners

Today, the centenary of the birth of Richard Wagner, is interesting to consider some of the things critics of his own time found to say of his music as it was given to the world.

The Musical Observer, appearing in a pamphlet issued in 1877, says Wagner's death by a friend, Wilhelm Tappert, Tappert's faith was a marvelous thing, in that it dared to preserve all the stirs and unkind comments, sure that the future would justify the artist and confound the critics.

G. Stradina called Wagner "the handman of modern art." "I found 'advanced' art music in Tristan and 'superhuman' ditto" in "Die Meistersinger." Dr. Tappert called him "a real good rascal, to be sure with a smattering of genius."

Here in Colorado Springs recognition will be made of the anniversary by a Wagner concert to be given by Fink's orchestra Sunday afternoon in Stratton park. Some of the favorite numbers from the Wagnerian operas will be given, and the genius that has stood the test of time will receive its due honor.

The real test by the youth pupils of Mrs. Marie Briscoe will be given this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, in the ball room of the Acadia hotel. The friends of the members of the class have been invited, and the following program will be given:

KEEP IT UP

THE police deserve hearty support for their attempts to enforce what are commonly referred to as minor ordinances of the city, including the traffic laws, etc. The word "minor" is a misnomer, inasmuch as these ordinances, while not relating to actual crime, are of far-reaching importance, inasmuch as they aim to protect life and property fully as much as those dealing with literal crime.

Colorado Springs has had so many serious accidents—some of them fatal—as a result of auto and motorcycle speeding, that there is no need to point out a moral in that respect. The speed maniac not only endangers his own life, but those of others, and he should be squelched every time he crops out. The new ordinance prohibiting the carrying of a passenger in front of a motorcycle is being enforced by the officials, and already the list of motorcycle accidents has decreased.

Many drivers, whether of auto, motorcycle or wagon, seem to think that they are doing all the law requires if they do not exceed the speed limit. This is far from true, and strict compliance with the ordinances would not only expedite traffic, but would cause a much greater degree of safety generally. Horses and autos should not be left facing the wrong way; if they are, the driver, when he starts up again, must necessarily be on the wrong side of the street, at least until he can turn, thus inviting collision with any other vehicle whose driver keeps to the right of the thoroughfare.

At street intersections, and especially in the business district, all turns should be made at right angles "crossing" over diagonally is liable to get you in trouble with street cars, pedestrians and autos.

Colorado Springs is no longer a country village. It is becoming metropolitanized at a rapid rate, and there is no reason why ordinary traffic laws, such as are recognized in cities all over the country, should not be obeyed here.

PRESENT DAY OPPORTUNITIES

OPPORTUNITY is more open to every young man in this age than ever before.

At the present day all a man needs, which is an education, is within the reach of every man, and opportunities for men to rise in every form of endeavor and influence their fellowmen is greater than it has ever been before.

The above extract from the address given by President Lowell of Harvard University at the Colorado College vespers services last Sunday afternoon, show that the eminent educator does not agree with those who shake their heads dolefully at present customs, and hark back to ancient times, saying: "Those were the days."

President Lowell's entire speech carried a note of optimism for the present and future. His comment on the difference between the past and present philosophy is well worth repeating:

The whole trend of philosophy not long ago was individualistic. It was taught that the important thing for each to do was to develop himself. The business of the state was to interfere as little as possible with the doings of any single individual. The interests of all men were essentially identical, and the way to promote those interests to the highest possible extent was that of each man promoting his own interests. He would industriously be promoting the good of the whole world.

We have seen the results of this philosophy. What has it done? It has created the oppression of the weak. The least interests of all men are not alike.

High the business of every man to try to lift the community as a whole, to consider the interests of the community as a whole and to follow out what is needed. The change from the individualistic to the collective philosophy has given to every man the right to take an interest in the welfare of others; has made it his duty to take an interest in the welfare of all mankind.

Seldom has a more striking appeal been made for individual effort on behalf of the community good, than is contained in President Lowell's concluding words. He says:

Every man and woman who has some profound conviction based on good sense can help to mold the future in the present complex age in which we live. I cannot conceive how any man can stand aside and see the flow of the world go on, without a craving to take part in it.

I can conceive of no true man who can let the world go by and be merely a spectator, as if he were asleep and dreaming a strange and unknown dream. In the present day more than ever before, that struggle of the world is full of interest, and the call of duty to every young man to take part in that movement is louder, and stronger, and deeper than ever before.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

SIMULTANEOUSLY with Colorado Springs' awakening along civic lines the last couple of years has come the organization of civic improvement societies in various sections of the community, and these are doing a worthy work in upbuilding their particular localities, which reflects in turn on the improvement of the region as a whole.

The Hillside Improvement Society has long been working hard for betterments on the East side of town, and its plans include a general overhauling of the Prospect Lake section, parking of the tract along Shooks Run, etc. The Broadmoor Improvement Society has planted about 1,000 trees at Broadmoor to date, and is at work on better sewer and irrigation facilities, together with road improvement.

The latest organization of this sort, the West Side Improvement Society, has set about parking "Little Kansas," the lovely tract just west of Monument creek, between the Huerfano and Bijon viaducts. Negotiations already are under way for the conversion of this eye-sore into a park in keeping with beautiful Monument Valley Park adjoining, and the owner, it is said, will donate the land for park purposes. The society also will try to have sidewalks laid from the west end of the Huerfano viaduct to the top of the hill, up to McKinley Place. General improvement of the West Side, especially on West Huerfano Street, on which thoroughfare thousands of tourists travel annually to and from Manitou is another commendable object of the organization.

These improvement associations form one of the best assets of any city, and should be given hearty support.

VACATION SOLDIERING FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS.

From the New York Sun.
The retention by President Wilson of certain high officials regardless of their political affiliations has been justified as a wise measure in no instance more clearly than in the continuation of General Leonard Wood as chief of staff of the army. The plan evolved by this efficient officer to establish summer camps for the training of college students in military tactics and camp life is a brilliant conception. This practical method of bringing to young men a systematic, methodical mode of life, laboring them with correct ideas of self-control, discipline and their responsibility for military service in time of need, is indeed a master stroke of military policy. The benefits of compulsory service in the European armies as illustrated by Germany have been shown to outweigh completely the economic losses involved in the absence of the young men from their vocational work. The regular mode of life under exacting discipline converts the city man into a more vigorous and self-reliant individual; it metamorphoses the slovenly country lad into a cleaner, brighter, more alert man, who takes pride in his neat clothes, his shining boots and military bearing. The candidate for military duty who has earned a college degree needs to serve but one year, because he profits more rapidly by instruction. The aggregate result of this disciplinary influence on all grades of society is evident in the splendid material for offense and defense obtained for the nation not only in its military achievements but in every walk of life.

General Wood offers us the brilliant conception of adapting these potent energies to the totally differing conditions of our own country by offering to the bright young men in all our colleges an opportunity of voluntary training without the expense incurred by the German college graduate, who must defray his own expense or be deprived of the great privileges attached to being an einjährig Freiwilliger. Not having seen the details of his plan, we doubt not that General Wood appreciates the fact that the latter is handicapped seriously by being drilled in the same company with the less intelligent recruits, whose presence must retard his own progress. It is clear that this summer camp exclusively for college students and adapting the course to their intelligence and capabilities. That four to eight months training under these favorable conditions may enable them to approach the attainment of proficiency of German training of an entire year is not an unwarranted assumption. In view of the fact that most college students are fair pedestrians and equestrians. If in addition to this drilling in camps the martial spirit were encouraged, as it doubtless will be, to assert itself in regular drills during the college curriculum, in lieu of some of the too often injurious athletic training, this plan would become ideal for the accomplishment of the purpose in view, the formation of a nucleus for a defensive force in the event of invasion.

This brings us to another and equally important aspect of General Wood's proposal. The benefits and disadvantages of college athletics have been often discussed. Only the physician who has not forgotten his physiology, realizes the deleterious effects of conventional athletic practices. These arise, roughly speaking from sudden departures from resting or approximately quiet, but positive to more or less active muscular movements; but chiefly from overtraining of those who, with or without expectation of participating in athletic contests, aim to excel in muscular powers. The surgeon-general of the navy condemns these methods and recommends in his report for 1912 that "athletics in the navy be so regulated as to avoid these deleterious conditions by the prohibition of endurance contests where the ability to win is largely, if not entirely, dependent upon brute force, and that rather the maximum effort be made to develop a symmetrical, normal physique in the many instead of a highly specialized human machine in a few."

The latest investigation of this subject was made by Dr. Harlow Brook, an eminent physician and pathologist, who by reason of having been for 15 years surgeon of a regiment in the National guard composed largely of college men expresses the conviction that the physical descent of the crack athlete is much more rapid than that of the untrained man who exercises for health or pleasure, and that their physical failure is due to deterioration of highly developed tissues in the sedentary occupations of later life. Harbin has been confirmed by physicians of athletic clubs. He publishes the record of 12 college athletes examined in one year, only one of whom could be physically rated with the average men of the same age, and this man died in the early '30s of diabetes.

The military drill involving systematic exercise and life and rational conditions supervised by experienced medical officers for two months, together with subsequent training, may furnish the college student a physical training product of normal because harmonious action. If it replaces partly at least the conventional athletic sports it may stimulate, to emulation, the results of which are momentous, as is shown above.

It is highly desirable that General Wood's plan be put into immediate execution.

BUNGALOW HOMES IN THE PACIFIC NORTH-WEST.

From the Christian Science Monitor.
Any movement in American taste, culture, architecture, that contributes in any way toward checking the national tendency toward dreary monotony should, we feel, be encouraged. It is pleasant to be able to say that there are movements in this direction, that there are actually in operation forces that promise to make eventually some parts of this republic look different from all other parts. At present, if a few communities be excluded, all parts of the United States look so much alike, so far as the work of man goes, that when one sees one town or one city he may truthfully say that he has seen a representative sample of them all.

For San Francisco, in its business district, is to all appearances New York, just as Los Angeles is newer Boston. One standing in a principal thoroughfare of Denver might as well, so far as variety goes, be standing upon a principal thoroughfare of St. Louis. Whole sections of Baltimore are like whole sections of Cincinnati. Kansas City is a duplication of Chicago in many respects. One might easily change places with Springfield, Mass. It is all due to the annihilation of distance, to incessant intercommunication, to the fact that we are one of the most homogeneous of people. Older Boston and Philadelphia, New Orleans and St. Augustine, have held out longest against the prevailing wave of monotony, and they have had, and are having, a hard battle to maintain their individuality, their picturesque, their priceless distinction.

Lately in the southwest there has been a decided reaction against the spread of architectural sameness. In New Mexico, Texas, Arizona and Southern California the adobe house of the early Spanish days is reasserting itself. Many towns and cities are adopting the architectural lines of two centuries ago not only in private, but in public construction, and now the bungalow is becoming the basis of a building departure that will serve in time to make the Pacific Northwest a haven of relief from the usual and all pervading. Or, rather, the bungalow is a development of the tepee, which became the pioneer cabin, which became the "shanty" or shanty, which became the sizable and comfortable log house, which in these latter days is losing its cumbiousness and becoming a graceful and characteristic dwelling. Surely, it is a reaction from the over-ornamental, a decided departure from the mechanical, but it has a merit beyond all this, in that it may be taken as indicating a tendency and a determination in the Puget sound country to escape, and to afford means of escape to other parts of the republic, from the faulty conventional, invariable, invariable architectural lines that have fastened themselves upon the thought and customs of the nation in the last fifty years.

"Nothing to Much"

By RUTH CAMERON.

There is nothing more certain about the tastes and desires of the average human being than their uncertainty. Evidently the eternal law of human desire. Satisfaction spoils more happiness than any other cause.

Now it doesn't take a philosopher to appreciate these facts. You know them and I know them. Every grown man or woman has been taught them many times by his or her own experience. Why, then, don't more of us regulate our pleasures with a view to prolonging them; in other words, why aren't we more careful not to get tired of the things we enjoy?

When I was in college, I once learned a new game of cards just a few days before the semester examinations. It was a very interesting game and my roommate and I were fascinated by it and devoted every spare moment to it. But as anyone who has ever prepared for an important examination can imagine, those spare moments were few. Through the long dull hours of grinding, we looked forward to a half hour before bedtime in which we could play a few hands of our new game. And each time we rose reluctantly from the card table we would say defiantly: "Well, the day after examinations are over we will play all day long if we want to."

At last examinations were really over and we carried out our threat. All one rainy day and half the next we played and played and played. Sometime, else claimed our attention the second afternoon, after dinner that evening we took up the cards for our daily half hour, and behold, the charm had gone! We didn't play that game again for weeks and we never cared so much for it again. Half its charm had been the fact that circumstances kept us from getting too much of it. Once we ran it into the ground the spell was broken.

I heard a business woman enthusiastically praise a certain delightful little luncheon place which she had discovered, and was therefore surprised when I saw her coming out of another restaurant one noon. "How happens it that you didn't go to your favorite place?" I asked. "Oh, I don't go there every day," she explained. "I like it too well to let myself get tired of it."

Wisdom like that is rare. Most of us spoil half our pleasures by running them into the ground. They say that if a horse gets at the food bin he will eat until he kills himself. Human beings don't often do that, but when the feed bin of any pleasure is left open to them, they frequently eat until they kill their desire for it.

"Nothing too much" was the motto of the most balanced and happiest nation the world ever knew. Self-restraint was in the matter of harmless pleasures is always its own reward.

The Ocean

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

The ocean is a huge and highly sea-soned body of water which surrounds the land.

There is so much ocean that no matter in what direction we travel we are bound to run into it sooner or later. The ocean is the one thing in the world which does not have to be conserved or protected. Men are using up the land, blasting down the mountains, tamping with the rivers and stealing the forests. But the ocean can take care of itself. Man has been fooling with the ocean for 6,000 years but there is just as much ocean now as there was, and it is just as good condition, though perhaps a little dirtier around the edges. It has been pretty hard on man, however.

"Eventually the water is almost certain to get beyond his depth."

The ocean is very salty and contains oysters, clams and lobsters. Heated up with a little pepper and butter, the ocean would make pretty fair table d'hôte soup.

There are really five oceans, but they are all closely connected, like the competing portions of a busted trust. A medium sized ocean is 3,000 miles across and wet all the way. It is also five miles deep in places. Persons who cannot swim are cautioned against wading out too far into the ocean. Eventually the water is almost certain to get beyond his depth.

The ocean is strongly impregnated with whaler, codfish, lobsters, crabs and other foreign matter and is very useful to man. With the aid of a fish line and plenty of bait, a man can live for years on what he pulls out of the ocean. It also serves mankind by dividing the old world from the new. Owing to the long sea voyage involved, there has been very little bickering between the two hemispheres. If Europe had been divided into nations by oceans, instead of imaginary lines, the death rate in the last 1,000 years would have been much lower.

It once took two months to cross the ocean, but fast steamers now do it in five days. Also cross in sail-boats, motor boats and row boats, and are experimenting with transatlantic aeroplanes. Unlike other wild things, the ocean is not dangerous when it has been crossed.

The ocean when calm is a beautiful and friendly sight, but when it roars in the tempest and its white crested waves roll mountain high, its awful majesty strikes man dumb with awe and reminds him that after all he is only a tiny insect in the laws of eternity. This is the principal mission of the ocean—to keep man humble and ready to take suggestions from the Almighty.

HAMMOND, NOTED ENGINEER.

WORKING FOR $150 A DAY

NEW YORK, May 21.—John Jay Hammond, the mining engineer, is a notable victim at present of the law's delays. During the last three weeks Mr. Hammond has made his appearance on an average of four days a week in the United States court, where he has been summoned as a witness in a suit for $200,000 damages, involving the title to certain oil lands in the district of Ozucluna, Vera Cruz, Mexico.

Frequent postponements have made it impossible for Mr. Hammond to testify so far and apparently this is costing him money, as he is allowed only $150 witness fees, whereas his daily fees as an expert mining engineer are reported to be $1,000 or more.

TURKEY TROT STIRS UP ENGLISH DANCING PUBLIC

NEW YORK, May 21.—Invasion of the British Isle by the turkey trot, the tango and other modern dances has so stirred the British public that a spirited discussion of the diversions in question is now in progress in the newspapers, cable advices from London here today, show. Editorial writers, have taken up the topic and are treating it freely.

"Some of the attitudes in the new dances are strange, we admit, says the Standard, 'but surely the important point is that the dancers see nothing curious in them.'"

SEVEN CENTS A MEAL

NEW COST OF LIVING

WASHINGTON, May 21.—After a series of experiments lasting through many weeks, the officials of the colored social settlement has announced that they have lowered the cost of a wholesome meal for six persons to 42 cents, or seven cents a person. The reduction in cost is brought about largely through an advance knowledge of cooking by which cheap meats are made as toothsome and appetizing as meats of greater cost. Here is one division of the cost:

One and one-half pounds of flank beef at 12 cents a pound; spinach 5 cents; potatoes 5 cents; parsley 1 cent, and onions 1 cent. The remainder of cost, or 12 cents provides for beaten biscuits and baked apples.

The Making of a Book

Purchasers Do Not Appreciate the Work Publishers Do—Type and Paper Are Carefully Selected and Words Counted to Insure "Even Forms"—The Finishing Touches

From the New York Evening Sun.
When you buy a book the persons you generally think of in connection with it are the author, the publisher, the bookseller and yourself.

But you seldom stop to think of the force of trained workers who, responsible for the mechanical production of your book, devote themselves year in and year out to manufacturing books that will be attractive to the public.

The method of procedure in manufacturing books in general is the same, although the details vary in different classes of books, and in the printing plants of different publishers. Take for instance a novel that is going to be a "best seller." Assume that the manuscript has been approved by the publisher's readers and accepted by the publishers or the head of his editorial force. After the contract has been drawn up and signed by author and publisher, the manuscript goes to the head of the manufacturing department.

Making It "Even Forms."
First, the number of words in the manuscript are counted—the average novel contains 50,000 words—for the number determines the size of the type and of the type page. The type page is designed so as to bring the book out to a certain number of pages that will keep within "even forms" of 16 or 32 pages. Frequently several sample pages are "set up" in type before a decision is reached as to the style and size of the type and the size of the page.

When these matters are settled the manuscript is given to the typesetters, working on machines that automatically cast the type in single letters or in solid lines, according to the equipment of the plant. The type is placed in galley columns about 20 inches long. Proofs are made from these for the correction of errors by the editorial force and the author. The artist also receives proofs if the book is to be illustrated or a cover design prepared.

Corrections having been made, the type is divided up into pages. Final corrections and revisions are made from the page proofs. Then the pages of type are cast into slabs by the electrotyping process, which involves wax impressions being made of the type and the sheets of wax being hung in a magnetic battery, where they are coated with a "shell" of copper. These shells, in their exact form of the page, are backed with molten metal to make a printing plate about three-sixteenths of an inch in thickness.

The selection of the paper is no simple matter. The head of the manufacturing department must consider samples in relation not only to the price, but to the finish, weight and size of the paper.

The modern printing press used in most plants automatically feeds, prints and delivers in piles 1,500 sheets of 32 pages every hour with superhuman perfection and precision. Preparing the form of 32 plates for printing on one side requires no little skill, since the pages must be arranged so that the sequence of pages on both sides will be correct when the big sheets of paper are folded and cut by ingenious machines.

The folded sheets, known as "signatures," are gathered, either by hand or machinery, in the order in which they are to appear in the finished book. In view of the fact that sewing machines stitch the signatures in one continuous row, the volumes have to be cut apart by hand. Next the back of each volume is rounded and the edge of the back forced out by machine pressure, so that the covers may have play. Pieces of rough cloth reinforced by pasted strips of paper are glued on the back, the edges of the cloth overhanging about an inch after the glue has dried.

The book is now ready to be pasted into the covers, which are made by machines using the same method as the hand worker, but working with greater uniformity and speed. The cover is generally nothing more than cloth pasted on two strips of cardboard and printed with the lettering and design. The final step in the process of manufacturing a book is subjecting it to heavy pressure for a day or a night or more. Then it is ready for the bookseller and the reader.

REAR ADMIRAL TWINING.

WHOSE PLANS WERE STOLEN

The theft of the wiring plans of the dreadnought Pennsylvania from the ordnance bureau of the navy department, which has set official Washington by the ears, were drawn under the supervision of Rear Admiral Nathan F. Twining, chief of the bureau. Should congress or either house hold an inquiry he will become one of the chief witnesses. The first set of plans was missed March 5, having been taken the night of the inauguration of President Wilson. The remainder disappeared later.

Naval officials have not said if their suspicion centered on any one, and detectives have been unable to get a clue of the thief. The first statement of the department that the theft was of no consequence has been somewhat discounted. It has been learned since that the plans showed the entire wiring of the big vessel and that an opposing battleship commander having them in his possession would not find it difficult to disable her.

PUEBLO WOMAN SAVES HER CHILD IN AUTO WRECK

PUEBLO, Colo., May 21.—Mrs. C. C. Slaughter, wife of the president of the Mercantile National bank and considered the most beautiful woman in local society, saved her 3-months-old baby from death when her touring car was crushed to kindling wood against a telegraph pole in Lake avenue. Mrs. Slaughter was driving the car herself, the baby upon her lap, when the steering gear became caught. Realizing that a wreck was imminent, she grabbed the child, wrapped it in her arms and waited for the crash. They were thrown from the car but fortunately escaped with minor injuries. Nesbit McCorkle, 3 years old, was dashed through the plate glass windshield and sustained cuts which necessitated the services of a physician.

WANT HUNTER STATUE REPLACED—NO APPROPRIATE

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 21.

The statue of a mountain hunter, placed on the grounds of the state house, given to the G. A. R. by Col. William Seymour Edwards, a recent candidate for United States senator, was objected to yesterday by the Thirty-first encampment of the West Virginia department of the G. A. R. The veterans of the Civil war demand that the statue be removed and in its place there be erected a monument bearing the name of the man who fought on the Union side and helped to save West Virginia to the Union. It is claimed the figure of a mountain hunter is not an appropriate monument.

PALMER PARK FUND PLACED IN DEPOSIT

Stated Intervals—Council
Transacts Routine

In order to facilitate the closing up of the W. J. Palmer estate, the $11,500 due the city between now and the end of 1917, according to the agreement of the city with the late General Palmer in regard to park funds, will be deposited in a national bank and will be drawn out at intervals by the city in accordance with the terms of the gift. The interest on the deposit will go to the heirs of the Palmer estate. This arrangement was suggested by George A. Krause, resident executor of the estate, and on recommendation of H. G. Lunt, chairman of the park commission. It was approved by the city council at its regular meeting yesterday morning.

Thirty days was given the property owners on the east side of South Prospect street, between Cimarron and Las Animas, a stretch of three blocks, to put in cement sidewalks, by a resolution of the council. The council also opened bids for the construction of sidewalks for delinquent property owners in the business district, and accepted that of Alva Smith. As much of this work has been done by the property owners in the business district since the weather warmed up, there are very few sidewalks to be put in by the city at this time.

Letters from the street car men and from the local union of electrical workers, thanking the mayor and council for their part in settling the recent street car controversy, were read at the meeting.

The council renewed the liquor license of the Colorado Springs Social Driving club, and ordered that drug store licenses be issued to the Murray Drug Company and the Morris Pharmacy. The applications of the Cliff house, Manitou, and the Rex hotel for hotel solicitors licenses were referred to Commissioner Johnson.

Commissioner Frost informed the council that in an emergency appropriation of $525, passed at last Friday's meeting to cover the cost of moving sewers on the college campus, he also had included the cost of a new horse for his department. Frost declared that the department needed a horse and that he knew of no other way in which he could secure funds for its purchase. Frost's action, although brought up the much discussed question of purchasing departmental supplies from money received from the sale of unused articles or equipment in the departments affected, and Commissioner Eubank was instructed to confer with the city attorney and draw up a resolution that will cover the numerous cases of this kind.

WORKING HARD TO LAND JR. O. U. A. M. CONVENTION

At a meeting of the national council committee of the local Jr. O. U. A. M. last night, a formal invitation was extended to the national council to hold its 1913 meeting in Colorado Springs. H. H. Eddy of Denver, a delegate to the national council, has written the committee stating that he will go to the national meeting carrying an invitation from the governor and other state officers to meet in Colorado Springs. The committee also expects to get letters from the mayors of Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou, and these will be sent to the national council when it meets in Fabryan, N. H., June 24.

ENTERTAINMENT AT UNION PRINTERS HOME JUNE 18 FOR THE PRESS DELEGATES

The delegates to the National Press association, which meets in Colorado Springs in June, will be entertained Wednesday, June 18, at the Union Printers home. The following program has been arranged by Supt. Charles Deacon:

5 to 7 p. m.—Inspection of buildings and grounds.
7 p. m.—Dinner, followed by addresses by representatives of the Union Printers home and the National Press association.
9 p. m.—Dancing.

Deputy Treasurer, J. W. Hines, was in attendance at the meeting, they will make addresses at the dinner.

The convention committee of the Chamber of Commerce is making plans for the entertainment of this convention, which will be one of the most important Colorado Springs will entertain this year.

WORKMEN IN DEMAND AT THE FORESTRY CAMP

Workmen are in great demand at the Bruin Inn forestry camp in North Cheyenne canon, according to C. W. Fitzgerald of Denver, forestry supervisor, who is in Colorado Springs inspecting the work. The men are paid $1.60 and board and lodging for eight hours work, but while the work is not hard, it appears to be hard to hold the men. At the present time the Bruin Inn camp is in need of 25 men, and Mr. Fitzgerald says many other camps in his jurisdiction are suffering from lack of men.

Sixty men have been at work at the camp for several weeks, and about 500 acres have been planted in yellow pine and Douglas fir. At present, however, there are but 25 men working. The trees being planted are shipped from the government nursery at Monument, and are delivered to the Short Line crossing near the camp. The trees are fast growers, and in a few years the benefits derived from the work will be realized.

STATE SUPT. OF SCHOOLS GIVES INTERESTING TALK

"The Dignity of the Profession vs. the Dignity of the Professor" was the topic of an interesting address given before a general meeting of the Colorado Springs teachers at the High school yesterday by Mrs. Mary C. Bradford of Denver, state superintendent of schools. Mrs. Bradford, who inspected the schools while here, will return in the fall for a more complete inspection. During her address yesterday she said:

"We spend so much time in safeguarding and perpetuating the dignity of the professor that the dignity of the profession is forgotten. If we are absorbed in the work of the profession, in the exaltation of the profession, that we see with the eyes of love, and the sense of reverence, the dignity of the profession, the dignity of the professor will take care of itself."

The success of the clergyman depends upon his realization that he owes a definite kind of service to the community in which he lives. If this profession has realized that the sense of unity must be the keynote of their lives, we of the teaching profession, whether school teachers, principals, superintendents or supervisors, must realize that the sense of unity is the great and splendid motive power lying back of our work.

The life in the school and the product of the school should be such that the whole community is gradually made over in the likeness and the ideals of those who teach.

What constitutes an educated man? What is education? There is a very subtle and yet a very real difference between instruction and education. We may have the instructed person in a purely mechanical way; the educated person must feel, must love, must work, must serve, must enjoy, and if we fail in any one of these lines we really are not educated. The really educated person, having eyes, must see; having a brain, must think; having a heart, must feel; and having a will, must do. Education is not work, and because of work done in this spirit and as a result of the exercise of these faculties, must enjoy.

Mankind's Right to Be Happy.
The writers of the Declaration of Independence recognized the right of mankind to be happy. Americans are born with the spirit for freedom, the right for human happiness.

In order to have a civilization that is worthy of the name, we must have a government able to produce such a civilization. "What is civilization?" "Civilization is nothing more or less than the expression in human institutions of the highest ideal, the best self of all the citizens living in any given community at any given period."

Civilization cannot be measured by the number of miles of railroad, by the number of ships flying our flag, nor by the bank reserves. Civilization is purely a spiritual thing.

Government and art of living together in organized communities, so that righteousness may, not shall, prevail. In order to have such a civilization and such a government, our forefathers gave the necessity of a government, the great public school. The public school is the place where government is born, where the living forces that make the great civilizations are shaped. These living forces are in our hands for fashioning into the ideal citizen.

It is the duty of the teaching profession to put into the "melting pot" the different races with their prejudices, their antagonisms and bias and the American. "The ideal American cannot be made without the help of the thousands of teachers of the United States. The tools of our profession are the child and the material of the teacher. It is our business to see that the full statured, divine idea may come forth and help to build the state in accordance with the ideal of the God of nature."

When we have accomplished this we will have begun to be worthy of the dignity of the profession.

LAW TO DO AWAY WITH CITY ORDINANCE SOON

The state "motor vehicle license law" passed by the last general assembly, and which applies to all motor vehicles except road rollers, traction engines and vehicles running on tracks, will go into effect July 1, and will do away with the ordinance which requires a city license, as one of its provisions is that a city shall not require a license tax or permit from motor vehicles.

Under the new law, all motor vehicles must be registered with the secretary of state through the county clerks acting as his agents, but nonresidents are exempted from so registering for a period of 90 days. The secretary of state may revoke any license or suspend it for a period up to six months. The annual fee for the license is $2.50 for a machine of not more than 20 horsepower; $5 between 21 and 40 horsepower; and $10 above 40 horsepower. The license fee for motorcycles will be $2. Paid chauffeurs must, under the law, be more than 15 years old, and must take out a driver's license at a cost of $1. Other provisions of the law are that the motor vehicles must display a number on the rear and must carry both front and rear lamps.

Both police and constables are to watch for violators of this law, and cases arising under it may be tried either before police magistrates or justices of the peace. Appeals from either of these courts may be taken to the county court. The punishments for violations of the law are: for the first offense, not more than $25 fine, and if it is not paid, not more than 10 days in jail; or the second offense within a year, not more than $250 fine, and if it is not paid, not more than 30 days in jail. Of the money taken in, both in license fees and in fines, half goes to the county road funds, and half to the state road funds.

The provision which probably will nullify the city ordinance requiring a city license is contained in section 5 of the statute which follows:

"No city or county shall have power to enforce or maintain any ordinance inconsistent with the provisions of this act, or require of any person any license tax or permit to operate motor vehicles and motorcycles upon public streets and highways, or the registration of any motor vehicle."

As a result of the new law, El Paso county may have a woman motorcycle officer because of a joke which arose yesterday in the county clerk's office. Miss Anna E. Kennedy, deputy county clerk, laughingly expressed a desire to have some part in enforcing the law and the idea at once occurred to County Clerk C. C. Sheldon of buying her a motorcycle and sending her out to monitor violators of the act. He declares that he will do this.

Because of the many inquiries he has received, Sheldon has secured a typewritten copy of the new law, and it may be seen at his office. Copies of the new measure have not been published for general distribution, but the details of its enforcement have not been thoroughly worked out. These will be attended to before the law goes into effect, however.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. C. Stenck, Plainfield, N. J., writes: "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers. Adv.

Wagner Program Sunday in Honor Great Composer

Today is the centenary of the birth of Richard Wagner, the greatest of operatic composers. Wagner was born at Leipzig, May 22, 1813. To signalize this event, making the commemoration fall as nearly as possible on the anniversary of Wagner's birth, Director William J. Pink has arranged "Wagner" program for his orchestra concert next Sunday afternoon at Stratton park.

Miss Ella Morrison, dead in Philadelphia, was the second cousin of the poet Longfellow.

Pimples Should Be Watched

May Be Means of Absorbing Disease Germs in Most Unexpected Manner.

Make Your Blood Pure and Immune With S. S. S.

The world renowned laboratory of the Swift Specific Company has collected a vast amount of information regarding the spread of blood diseases. In thousands of instances the most virulent types have been the result of coming in contact with disease germs in public places, and the apparently insignificant pimple has been the cause. It spreads with astonishing rapidity, often infecting the entire system in a few days.

It is fortunate, however, that there is a remedy to cope quickly and thoroughly with such a condition, and thanks to the energy of its producers the famous S. S. S. may now be had at almost any drug store in the civilized world.

This preparation stands alone as a blood purifier. It is somewhat a revolution in the complexion since it accomplishes all that was ever claimed for mercury, iodides, arsenic, and other destructive mineral drugs, and yet it is absolutely a purely vegetable product. There are more cases of articular rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, paralysis, neuritis, and similar diseases resultant from the use of minerals than most people are aware of. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book compiled by the medical department of The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice, to all who are struggling with a blood disease.

"The wagon that stands up like the reputation of its makers"

When you buy a Studebaker wagon you buy a wagon that will last until you turn the farm over to your son and he turns it over to his son.

One of the first Studebaker wagons ever made saw constant service for thirty years, and we will gladly send you the names of farmers who have in their possession wagons that have been in constant use anywhere from 17 to 48 years—and there are thousands of them. We are building the same kind of wagons today.

A Studebaker wagon is an investment that will give you full return for your outlay. It is built on honor. Iron, steel, wood, paint and varnish used in its construction are tested and re-tested to make sure each is the best.

For work, business or pleasure—for town or country use there is a Studebaker vehicle to fit your requirements.

Farm wagons, dump carts, trucks, buggies, surreys, runabouts, pony carriages, business vehicles of every description—with harness of the same high standard.

MISS DELIA F. DANA, LONGFELLOW'S GRANDDAUGHTER, ADVOCATES TRIAL MARRIAGE

Although she expects her coming marriage to be a permanent one, Miss Delia F. Dana, granddaughter of the poet Longfellow, is a firm believer in the trial marriage as a means of improving the race. Therefore, she will be married to Robert H. Hutchinson, a fellow Socialist and postgraduate of Harvard, according to a contract which she has written and in which no vows will be exchanged. Miss Dana declares marriage is a career for which women should prepare just as though they were studying to enter upon a profession.

BRITISH MINISTERS WON'T APPEAR NOW; FEAR SUFFRAGETTES

CARDIFF, Wales, May 21.—The British cabinet ministers are exposed to such risks of being mauled by militants at public meetings that hereafter they are likely to refuse to attend unless those in charge of the meetings are prepared to guarantee their personal safety.

Because such assurances could not be given him, the home secretary, the Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna, did not appear at the Welsh disestablishment and free church conference this afternoon, although he was announced as one of the speakers. It is understood that the authorities feared of a suffragette plot to attack the home secretary at the conference by a method which would not only jeopardize Mr. McKenna's life, but the lives of the delegates as well.

The home secretary, however, addressed a large meeting this evening, a Scotland Yard detective occupying a seat near him on the platform. Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent the admission of suffragettes, and a big force of sturdy stewards was on hand to deal with disturbances. This did not prevent male champions of the suffragettes from getting in, several of whom interrupted the speeches and were roughly ejected.

Mr. McKenna concluded his address by warning the militants that their methods would never succeed in frightening or worrying the government into giving the franchise to women.

"By their action," he said, "they can bring but discredit to their cause and punishment upon themselves."

The great calamity in Omaha was quickly overshadowed by the terribly disastrous floods in Ohio. Great suffering and sickness from colds and exposure resulted, which Foley's Honey and Tar Compound helped to alleviate. L. Pools, 224 California St., Omaha, writes: "My daughter had a severe cough and cold, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound knocked it out in no time. My wife would not keep house without it. We have used it for years, always with good results." Robinson Drug Co., Ady.

Joplin Mob Threatens Lynching When Miner Murders Political Boss

JOPLIN, Mo., May 21.—After John Thralls, a miner, shot and killed Edward Skelton, a local Republican politician and former city councilman in the latter's store here tonight, a mob of several hundred men formed and threatened to lynch the slayer. The police secured him for a time in an alley and later, in custody of six officers, he was taken to the jail at Carthage, Mo., in an automobile. Believing that the prisoner had been taken to police headquarters, the mob gathered there, but dispersed when they learned of the ruse. Thralls charged Skelton with being attentive to the former, Mrs. Thralls who was divorced from her husband three years ago. Skelton also had been divorced from his wife who lives near the scene of the shooting. When told that her former husband was dead, she ran to where his body lay and became hysterical. Her condition later was said to be serious.

THE FORTUNE OF THE ROTHSCHILDS

From the New York Times. A statistician has just completed figures which, he asserts, show the fortune of the famous house of Rothschild. The entire fortune is estimated at 10 milliards of francs. A milliard is a billion, so that in dollars the Rothschild fortune equals $2,000,000,000.

Placed at 4 per cent the Rothschild fortune would produce an annual revenue of $80,000,000. But this sum is far from being a reality, as the great part of the Rothschild riches is in property. In Lancashire they own immense thread mills, while in Germany they possess numerous coal mines with a capacity of millions of tons per annum. In Brazil the Rothschilds own immense rubber forests, and in Persia factories where the most beautiful carpets in the world are made.

In Spain there are numerous zinc and lead mines operated by the Rothschilds. In South America also the Rothschilds own mines. The Rothschilds in addition own large forests in Siberia, while in Australia entire cities are their property. They also own large quantities of real estate in the different European capitals.

DANIEL MELS, VIOLINIST OF TWENTY, A GENIUS

Daniel Mels, the boy violinist, for he is now under 20 years of age, has been taken in charge by rich Jews of New York, including Otto H. Kahn of the great banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mrs. Samuel Untermyer, wife of the Pujo money trust committee counsel, and others, who believe he will develop into a great musician. He is an orphan of the pogroms, when the Jews of Russia were cut down like cattle. After the pogrom of 1906 in Poland the mother and son were hunting for the bodies of the father and sister, who had disappeared.

HUSBAND TIRED OF SEEING HER SUFFER

Procured Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which made His Wife a Well Woman.

Middletown, Pa.—"I had headache, backache and such awful bearing down pains that I could not be on my feet at times and I had organic inflammation so badly that I was not able to do my work. I could not get a good meal for my husband and one child. My neighbors said they thought my suffering was terrible."

"My husband got tired of seeing me suffer and one night went to the drug store and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me I must take it. I can't tell you all I suffered and I can't tell you all that your medicine has done for me. I was greatly benefited from the first and it has made me a well woman. I can do all my housework and even helped some of my friends as well. I think it is a wonderful help to all suffering women. I have got several to take it after seeing what it has done for me."—Mrs. EMMA E. SPENSHADE, 215 East Main St., Middletown, Pa.

The Pinkham record is a proud and honorable one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

DU CRAY WINS FROM DELIVUK, TWO OUT OF THREE, IN SCIENTIFIC WRESTLING BOUT

Both Grapplers Put Up Classy Contest, and State Championship Remains at Home

In a wrestling match that kept the spectators on their toes practically all the way at the opera house last night, Frank DuCray, Colorado champion, won two out of three from Charles Delivuk, Kansas title holder. The local mainman won the opening and closing fall, the first in 30 minutes, with a body and scissors and head lock and the third with a combination body and arm hold. Delivuk took the second fall in a sensational manner, spinning the Coloradoan to the mat in less than a minute's time. He caught DuCray coming in, and clamped on a combination head lock that was timed and executed to a nicety. It meant an instantaneous fall or a broken neck, and DuCray went down with the effective Austrian's grip on his neck. He did not know just how to describe the hold and its effect, but illustrated it for the edification of those present. It is a German-Roman grip, and is permissible in catch-as-catch-can matches.

The Colorado Springs bear-cat and the Kansas cyclone have the fans a good run for their money last night, and there was practically not an idle moment when they were on the mat. Both showed their class as men of the mat, both were in the best of physical condition, and each was ready all the time to carry the quarrel to the other. It appeared last night that Delivuk, who has a weight advantage of about 15 pounds, also had a wide on DuCray in the matter of speed, although this difference, if it did exist, was very slight. Delivuk was the stronger, as he demonstrated several times by breaking holds and by his excellent bridging, but DuCray was the aggressor, the greater part of the time, and always carried the fight to the enemy.

About everything in the wrestling category was uncovered, and should this pair meet again, as now seems probable, they should put up a battle of strength, science and skill, which would be hard to gauge anywhere. Delivuk has a good return match, but DuCray points out that he twice has beaten the Austrian in Colorado, once in Grand Junction, and that if they come together again it will be in Wichita. This condition proposed by DuCray is not difficult to understand; the ton hold, which is one of his specialties, is barred in this town, and when he meets a man of Delivuk's class he does not care to be deprived of any of the tools of his trade. In Wichita, the ton grip goes, and there is no doubt that with the hold permitted, the Duke's chances to again win from the Kansas man would be increased several per cent.

There was a delay in staging the preliminary, and it was about 8 o'clock when the principals were called to the center of the ring. They fiddled for an opening and DuCray was the first to get behind. Twice in the first hour he had the Austrian in position, for what appeared to be certain falls, but the foreigner possessed the necessary skill and strength to break free. It was right after the thirteenth fall, called the half hour that DuCray tightened up on a body scissors and head lock, secured a moment before, and pinned Delivuk to the mat.

The second fall to Delivuk came quickly and unexpectedly. The men had sparred probably 30 seconds for an opening, and then DuCray lurched forward with head lowered, Delivuk, towering above him, shot an arm around his head, getting the Duke's chin in the palm of his hand, and using the other forearm as a lever, spun DuCray around and down on his back in almost a second's time. It was one of the quickest falls on record here, and DuCray was dazed momentarily, and with the fall standing on each knee back for the final round just as confident that he would take the Austrian's measure as in the beginning, and just as willing to carry the battle to him as ever. In this session he was again the first to get behind, and for the next 20 minutes the pair put up as pretty and as rapid an exhibition as anyone would care to see. The tide of battle switched one way and then the other, Delivuk again saving a fall by his magnificent bridge work. When the 20-minute mark was reached, the referee missed an arm lock, and in less time than it takes to tell it, DuCray slipped on a body and arm hold that gave him the match.

In the preliminary, W. E. Moyer won from Jack Hayden in straight falls in five and six minutes, respectively.

Planning Defender for America's Cup

NEW YORK, May 21.—With almost universal satisfaction, prevailing in yachting circles over the news from London yesterday that the New York Yacht club has accepted the latest challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton to race for the America's Cup, the guests were busy today regarding probable plans for the defense of the trophy. While confirmation of the news was not forthcoming at the New York Yacht club last night, the word is generally accepted as true.

The greatest satisfaction is expressed that the coming series of races will be held under the present rule of measurement and time allowances. It is freely predicted that with 75-foot yachts designed under this rule, good seaworthy boats will be the result instead of the flimsy machines which participated in the last contest.

One result of this change, it was said, will be a great reduction in the cost of building and maintaining the yachts, and this is expected to bring about keen competition for the honor of defending the cup. Yachting enthusiasts believe at least three and perhaps four boats will be built to contest in the trial races. It is understood that two individual yachtsmen will order 75-foot boats, while it is said the nucleus of a syndicate to put afloat another yacht has been in process of formation for some time.

Today the opinion was expressed that opportunity should be given American designers to see who can produce the best and speediest yacht. Heretofore, it was said, will have one and perhaps two boats, and William Gardner, who has been very successful with sailing craft under both the old and new rules is expected to have one. Henry J. Gow, who designed the Effort, winner of the first king's cup race, is also talked of for another yacht.

Garrett Out After More Gun Records

John W. Garrett, holder of many gun records, left yesterday on his annual shooting trip. He will take part in big events in the trap shooting world, including the Grand American handicap, during the next three weeks, and also compete in the following contests:

Emporia, Kan., Illinois state shoot at Emporia; Waukegan, Ill., Ulca, Ill.; Ohio state shoot at Circleville, O.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Robinson, Ill.; and at Dayton, O., where the Grand American handicap will be shot this year. He will also compete in the Colorado state shoot to be held at Pueblo, June 23 and 24.

Garrett has attended the last eleven of the fourteen annual Grand American handicaps, and his shooting records are pretty generally known to all followers of trap events. Prior to becoming a professional, in 1904 he won the "master" championship of the United States, making the highest score in all tournaments for the year 1904. He was the first to shoot a 1,000-target race about three years ago, breaking 985 out of 1,000, conspicuous shooting, which still stands as a world's record.

In 1912 Garrett made the best score that year in tournament events, with a score of 390 out of 500. This record was made in a two-days shoot at Iowa City, Ia. At the Grand American handicap in 1910, Garrett set a world's record when he broke the entire program the first day of the tournament with a mark of 10 straight—50 singles and ten pairs—all at 15 yards. He also made the high score on doubles with a mark of 37 out of 50. Garrett was a high professional in 1910, with a general average of 475 out of 500, including 30 pairs, and he hopes to keep up his top notch shooting on the present trip.

KLAUS TO MEET DILLON MAY 29

By T. S. ANDREWS.

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—What will be a near-championship battle will be staged at the base ball park at Indianapolis the night of May 29, when Jack Dillon, the Hoosier champion middle weight, meets Frank Klaus, the Pittsburgh bearcat, over the ten-round route, the weight being 160 pounds at 8 o'clock.

Let the winner of this match, if there is one, meet either Jimmy Clabby or Eddie McGoorty over the marathon distance and you will have a real contest for the American middle-weight title, for Klaus and McGoorty have as much right to be classed as real contenders as any 155-pounders in the country, if not more so. It might be better, of McGoorty, and Clabby met again where they could have a decision and then let the winner meet the winner of the Klaus-Dillon match.

The one drawback to the Indianapolis affair is the weight, the men having agreed to fight at 160 pounds at 8 o'clock, instead of the recognized weight in America of 155 pounds. Klaus insisted upon the 160-pound weight, which is the European claim, and in doing so he cannot lay claim to the American championship, even if he should defeat Dillon. From the fact that Klaus demanded the 160-pound mark it is evident that he cannot make the American limit of 155 pounds.

Ad. Wolgast, the ex-champion light-weight, has taken a sudden notion that he is as good as ever and wants to get into the limelight and fight Willie Ritchie for the title. After Ad's defeat at the hands of Tommy Murphy it was supposed that the Michigan "bearcat" would retire from the long-distance events and devote his time to the short sprints, but from reports received here from the west it is evident that the former champion wants to get back into the marathons. Ad is ready to match up with Johnny Dundee for a long one, and now he wants to post a fight to meet Ritchie in a big championship match. Under the conditions the chances are that the western promoters will select either Joe Rivers or Tommy Murphy to meet the champion, while Billy Nolan, manager for Ritchie, says that if the New York club comes across with an acceptance of his terms he will meet Leach, Cross there July 4 and then arrange a big title match for a later date, probably Admission day in California.

More than 40,000 persons will see Harry Payne Whitney, son of the late millionaire and politician who made Grover Cleveland the Democratic candidate for president in 1892, lead the American polo team against the British on the field of Madison Square, N. Y., June 19. That is, they will see him if he doesn't break his neck in practice meantime. Polo is a millionaire's game, and a very dangerous one. First, it takes $100,000 worth of ponies to play an international match. As many more ponies are ruined in practice. Second, no one who ever played it for any length of time failed to break an arm, a skull, a leg, or a collar bone. Thus there are two reasons why it will never supplant baseball as the great American game.

The international match against the British will be played June 19 to June 24. Let the Americans win. Whitney is a dashing daredevil player, who rides his pony into anything regardless of consequences, at the same time yelling like a locoed Indian.

MRS. W. A. PERKINS WINS FORMER TIGER RUNNER TO COMPETE WITH UTAH

The first ladies' tournament of the season, played at the Colorado Springs golf club yesterday afternoon, was won by Mrs. W. A. Perkins with a net score of 41, Miss C. M. Morse being a close second, with a net 42. Much interest was shown in the contest, and doubtless the interest will increase as the season advances. Tournaments for the ladies are scheduled for each month, and the next one will be held June 11.

Following are the scores returned:

ST. LOUIS 3; NEW YORK 0.

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—Errorless ball by St. Louis and wonderful pitching by Hamilton, the young left hander, defeated New York today, 5 to 0. The visitors obtained but one hit and only one man reached second base. The home team began scoring in the first inning. Williams' triple, bringing in Shotton and Brier's single scoring Williams. In the sixth a double by Shotton and singles by Johnson and Pratt scored two runs for St. Louis and three singles in the seventh added another tally. New York's only chance to score came in the seventh when with one down, Cree got the only hit made off Hamilton. Cree was caught out first, however, and Chase fled out retiring the visitors.

BOSTON 10; CHICAGO 3.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Boston defeated Chicago, 10 to 3, in an exciting batting bee today. Benz started for Chicago but was wild and retired in favor of his own yard until the sixth inning when he began to show signs of weakness and before the ninth inning was over he was driven from the box. Reddon was sent in, but he failed and Wood was called upon to save the game for the visitors with two out and the bases full. He proved equal to the occasion, throwing Boston out at first. The game was full of brilliant fielding by both sides. The feat of the game was a running one-handed stab by Speaker, who chased to the score board and robbed J. Collins of what looked like a sure home run.

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Washington won today's game in the tenth inning, scoring two runs on hits by Milan and Morgan, Gregg's wild throw and a sacrifice fly. In a ninth inning rally Williams came in as pinch hitter and hit a home run, driving in the two runs that tied the score. Walter Johnson then went in to pitch for Washington and held Cleveland scoreless in the tenth inning. Kahler held Washington to two hits until the seventh inning when Shanks doubled and Henry's fly was hit in the box, scoring the visitor's first run.

Denver and St. Joe Clubs Make Shifts

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 21.—Permanent changes in the lineups of the Denver and St. Joseph baseball clubs have been announced by their respective managers. Jack Holland, of the local team, has decided to retain Outfielder Zwilling at first base and R. Watson in center field, those two players having filled these positions satisfactorily during the illness of First Baseman Brewer.

Manager Hendrix of the Denver team will play Outfielder Butcher at shortstop in place of Matthews until Jack Coffey, the regular man, reports May 30.

YALE SHELL DAMAGED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21.—There was gloom in rowing circles at Yale today over word received from New York that the new English shell ordered by Coach Kirby, who came here from England to put the finishing touches on the Yale crew had been damaged in that city while being removed from the steamer on which it was shipped to this country. The boat was reported to have been stove in while being hoisted onto a lighter.

Directions were sent to New York to have the boat shipped here immediately and Yale's boat builders will repair it if that is possible. The shell is said to be the most valuable ever ordered for a Yale crew.

Changes in College Baseball Schedule

Owing to a change in the Tiger baseball schedule, the team will play the Miners at Golden tomorrow instead of meeting the Miners in Denver. The D. U. game will be played Monday afternoon in Denver. The team is playing in fine form. Both pitchers, Jawn Jackson, the Rocky Ford phenom who has won three straight games, and Claybaugh, who has not yet been in action, are in good shape. Lewis, who took Jackson's place at short, is improving rapidly in his throwing, and the team will not be so badly handicapped as was first thought.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Cincinnati received the worst defeat of the season here today when Philadelphia won 12 to 6. The home team drove Johnson and Harter off the rubber in the first inning each, and by making three hits off Smith's delivery, ran their number of safeties to 20 for 31 bases. Cravath made four singles and a triple in five times at bat, the latter drive sending in three runs in the first inning. BROOKLYN, May 21.—Pittsburgh made it two straight in the series with Brooklyn today by breaking up the latter defense of the locals in the eighth. The score was tied at two to two when Viox opened that inning with a Texas leaguer. Four sacrifice bunts in a row followed. Ragan and Smith making wild throws in the next two. Byrne, the Miller worked a squeeze play for the fourth out, Miller scoring the third run for the inning and making the tally 5 to 2, which was the final count. Brooklyn's two runs were scored in the fourth when Stengel walked, stole second and came home with Kirkpatrick on the latter's drive for the circuit. Adams, although frequently in hot water, held the locals unless in the other eight innings. Moran opened the game for Brooklyn with what should have been a home run, but was held at third and failed to score. THE EMPRESS ATTRACTIONS.

Nat M. Carr, one of the most popular comedians that ever toured the Sullivan & Considine circuit, is the featured player in Anna Hoffman's latest success "The Girl of the Year." He is capably supported. Mr. Carr is the individual hit of the bill on which he is playing. He was a particular favorite, who has been some hit along the line. One of the features of the Empress bill, Miss Gylder is said to possess a remarkable personality and a splendid idea of interpreting regimens. She has a sweet voice, and like Anna Held, she makes her impression more by her mannerisms than her voice. She wears some stunning gowns from designs by the leading modistes of Paris and New York.

The Philippine Islands, like those of Hawaii, boast of the best native born musicians. It seems to be a characteristic of the race to be able to play stringed instruments. This quartet is one of the best ever brought to this country, and is one of the biggest hits of the character that has ever been sent over the circuit.

Albers' polar bears will send a chill up the spinal column of many Empress patrons when they see the chances that this famous trainer takes with these white brutes from the Arctic circle. Mr. Albert played the S. & C. circuit about a year ago and during that engagement he had several severe fights with his charges, which he finally mastered. These bears are really ferocious and could tear him limb from limb, but the power of human mind over that of the animal kingdom seems to be more clearly demonstrated by Mr. Albers than in any other act of its kind now in vogue. Albers has demonstrated to these watch charms that he is master and all they have to do is to do their work and the crowd will be their friend, but if they don't look out, it is a big treat for kiddies and grown-ups as well. A large cage circles the stage just back of the footlights, and all the tricks are accomplished in this arena.

Many clever comedians and artists have been seen at the Empress, but few, if any, are said to possess the personality or the ability of Wallace Calvin. This brilliant card manipulator is making his first American tour over the S. & C. circuit. He was a tremendous favorite across the pond. During the work of his tricks he keeps up a running fire of patter, which keeps the audience both amused and interested.
Quite the best gymnasts in vaudeville are Bob Knapp and Chris Cornalia, who give their offering "Noiseless Talk." These boys are athletes who have made their reputations with the leading circuses. They perform some difficult acrobatic stunts, together with a lot of comedy.

News of Local Courts

A colored boy, 15 years old, was brought before Justice Gowdy yesterday morning for stealing a baseball bat over the fence at the Zoo last Sunday. He was severely lectured by the judge and dismissed with the warning that after this boy caught stealing balls will be turned over to the juvenile court.

Besides the large number of automobilists who occupied the attention of the police corps yesterday morning, several cases of various character came up. R. H. Keller, for snuffing on the sidewalk, was fined $1, he being the second man within two days to be fined for such an offense. A number of warrants were filed $10 each.

RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED

The resignation of the Rev. Adna W. Moore as pastor of the Second Congregational church was accepted at a meeting of the congregation last night, and a committee, with H. K. Wing as chairman, was appointed to draw up resolutions in appreciation of his service here, and expressing the regret of the congregation at his going to another church. Mr. Moore is to become pastor of the First Congregational church of Birmingham, Ala., and will leave Colorado Springs next week. His family will remain in this city for two or three months. His successor has not been chosen.
